1,040 Saved; Guards Quell Panic.

AN EAST COAST PORT, Dec. 14.—A pack of six or seven submarines pounced on a large British ship off the west coast of Africa and sank her with a loss of approximately 1,800 lives, survivors said today after their arrival here.

Survivors, reported to total 1,040, were rescued by a French cruiser. The dead included 1,300 Italian prisoners of war and 500 Englishmen.

The ship, carrying 688 passengers and a crew of more than 300, was on the way to England from Suez, where it had picked up 1,800 Italian prisoners. British army, navy, and royal air force personnel and 50 women and children, some of them ill, made up the passengers. Most of the latter were reported to have been saved.

Censor Bars Exact Figures.

Consorship restrictions prevented announcement of the exact number of persons aboard the big vessel. Loss of the ship, which occurred in September, had been announced previously, but details were not known until today.

An RAF officer whose name was withheld said swarms of Italians tried to rush the lifeboats and others squeezed thru portholes and climbed into the boats before women and children could be placed in them. The ship's senior first officer, who also was not identified, said many of the prisoners were driven back by guards armed with bayonets.

Eighteen lifeboats were launched and the French cruiser picked up the 1,040 survivors after they had been afloat five days in 14 of the lifeboats and on several rafts. Survivors were landed at Casablanca, where they were interned until they were liberated by arrival of American troops in North Africa on Nov. 8.

Four Lifeboats Missing.

Those brought here—72 members of the RAF—came in an American transport. They said they did not know what had become of the four other lifeboats.

The RAF officer said he helped throw rafts overboard and placed women and children in lifeboats.

"I slid down a rope into the last boat to leave the ship five minutes before she went down," he said. There were 120 persons in his boat, which he said had room for 68.

He said he saw 10 women and children drown when their lifeboat capsized while being launched.

He told of seeing a naval officer tuck a year old girl into his uniform jacket, slide down a rope, and try to swim to the nearest lifeboat. Both drowned, however, when the officer was crushed between the ship and a raft.

Blown to Surface Twice.

The master of the vessel went down with his ship, the RAF officer said. He said he saw another man who went down blown back to the surface by the explosion of the boilers. The man was sucked under again but was blown back to the surface again by a second explosion and was hauled safely aboard a raft.

The officer said sharks and barracudas stalked the lifeboats and "bit big chunks" from legs of men clinging to boats.

The ship's first officer said the attack came without warning. Two torpedoes, two minutes apart, struck in the section of the transport where the Italian prisoners were quartered.

The submarine pack had stalked the transport since noon, the commander of one of them told the ship's second engineer, who was taken aboard a U-boat after the sinking. The engineer said the U-boat commander told him the transport was like "a sitting target."

Passengers and Crew Cool.

The first officer said that altho there was much confusion among prisoners, the crew and passengers were cool. He said the engines were stopped and the lifeboats manned immediately after the attack and "all precautions were taken to get the women and children and the sick into the boats."

The ship's second engineer, who

Michael F. Mulcahy, rationing administrator for the Chicago metropolitan area, last night admitted the seriousness of the fuel oil situation in Chicago and telegraphed a plea to the office of price administration in Washington, D. C., to relax regulations and give Chicago users enough additional fuel to end suffering.

His move was the high point in a day filled with action by dealers, truckers, and home owners themselves to solve what all agreed was a chaotic rationing situation. Chief among these developments were:

1. A majority of oil distributors in this area announced they will be forced to discontinue deliveries of oil, no matter from whom requests may come, if ration coupons are not forthcoming. One request for help came from Paul J. King, Lake county chairman of the war price and rationing board, who wired dealers an "urgent" appeal to issue emergency rations of fuel oil to "those people in Lake county who are in dire need and have not received their coupons."

2. More than 100 Chicago fuel oil dealers stormed Mulcahy's office and gave him a list of 150 oil users, large and small, who thus far have not received their ration books and face suffering because of heatless homes. Mulcahy immediately dispatched investigators to look into the individual cases, but ignored this phase of the situation in his wire to the OPA.

3. The Evanston city council last night approved a resolution introduced by Ald. Clinton Merrick of the 2d ward instructing Mayor S. G. Ingraham to telegraph Illinois senators and congressmen protesting the fuel oil rationing muddle, and urging that it be rectified.

4. Gov. Green announced in Springfield that he will meet today with state public health officers to discuss his request that the OPA suspend its rationing of fuel oil "until adequate machinery can be set up to bring the program out of its utter chaos." Green said that unless some immediate action is taken "much suffering will ensue."

5. Scores of drivers for fuel oil dealers told last night of individual cases of suffering caused by lack of oil and rationing red tape.

6. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the special city council fuel oil committee appointed by Mayor Kelly, announced he will decide today on the exact date for a public hearing on the oil heating question. Both consumers and dis-

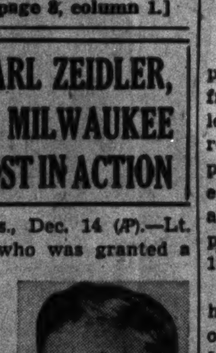
REPORT CARL ZEIDLER, YOUTHFUL MILWAUKEE MAYOR, LOST IN ACTION

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 14 (AP).—Lt. Carl F. Zeidler, who was granted a leave of absence as Milwaukee's mayor to join the navy, has been reported missing in action, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael W. Zeidler, said tonight.



Carl Zeidler.

They said a telegram signed by Rear Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of the naval personnel, declared their son was missing in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country."

"The department appreciates your great anxiety, but details are not now available and delay in receipt thereof must necessarily be expected to prevent possible aid to our enemies," the telegram concluded.

Zeidler, 34 years old, took office as mayor of Milwaukee on April 16, 1940, after defeating the veteran Daniel W. Hoan for the position. He was granted a leave April 14, 1942.

U. S. Concocts Exotic Foods for Lend-Lease

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Production of a wide variety of foreign type foods for lend-lease shipment is being asked of American food manufacturers, the agricultural marketing administration revealed tonight.

With more than a dozen foreign type foods already a part of the weekly lend-lease food purchases and with others soon to be added, marketing administration officials said more and more domestic food production facilities soon would be converted for foreign food production.

They said orders mounting into the millions of dollars have been placed with Chicago meat packers, cereal food manufacturers, and other food processors for items having such unusual names as "kohnehtpapibahhayab kama," "cvinya tushunka," "pork soya links," "mustard flour," and "worm-seed oil."

Bids Sought on Soup Powder.

Bids have been asked for 10 million pounds of dry soup powder made from "processed precooked peas, low-fat soya flour and grits, and roller process dry skim milk, the powder being flavored with dehydrated vegetables." Two types of powder are sought, one for instantaneous preparation and the other requiring 15 minutes to cook.

School children are being used as human guinea pigs for testing another dry soup mix made of pea meal [derived from wrinkled varieties of dry peas], the marketing administration said. This mix contains soy bean grits and dry skim milk in addition to the pea meal. Officials said the AMA hopes to have 40 to 50 million pounds of wrinkled pea meal available for the manufacture of the soup in the next several months.

"Kohnehtpapibahhayab kama" is said to give the Russians the same kick that Popeye gets from spinach. It is a combination of some cereal [usually rolled oats or wheat] and soya flakes or grits, dry skim milk, sugar, and salt. It looks like and is packaged like oatmeal and takes only a few minutes to cook.

Used in Arctic Outposts.

The AMA said the cereal food is used mostly at military and scientific outposts in the Arctic. Directions for its preparation are printed on the packages in Russian, Polish, Serbian, and English. More than a million pounds have been purchased at a cost of slightly less than $100,000.

Cvinya tushunka is made with pork, lard, salt, pepper, onion, one bay leaf, and the ever-present soya flour or grits. Millions of pounds of this favorite food of the Russian army are reported on order.

Lend-lease officials said the pork soya links are special sausages being packed in Chicago plants for Britain. The mustard flour also goes to Britain to replace supplies that country formerly imported from Poland and other European nations.

The wormseed oil probably will not be welcomed by the children of the countries receiving American lend-lease food products. It is a medicinal product designed to "get the worms out of the kiddies," officials reported.

AMA officials said practically all of these foods, except perhaps some of those going to Britain, are of low unit cost.

OPA INCREASES PRICE OF COFFEE CREAM BY 1 CENT PER HALF PINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14. — An immediate increase of approximately 1 cent per half pint in the retail price of light cream—coffee cream—and a proportionate boost in wholesale prices was authorized today by the office of price administration.

Ceiling prices for cream have been based on individual sellers' prices in March, 1942. Today's revision permits the addition of 20 cents a gallon, or 1¼ cents a half pint, to these prices to compensate for increased costs of butterfat since last March.

The OPA ruled that fractions of cents must be adjusted to the nearest half cent, so the retail price boost per half pint is 1 cent.

Officials said the price increase is expected to halt abnormal diversion of butterfat from cream into butter. Because butter prices increased from March to October, when butter was placed under price control, it has been more profitable for dairies to use butter fat for butter than for cream, they explained.

Today's move to channel more butter fat into cream output, OPA officials said, will necessarily reduce to some extent the production of butter for which rationing already is being considered. Officials said, however, that the cream price increase was considered necessary to bring about normal balance between cream and butter output and prevent large scale shortages of cream.

Keeshin Offers River Bus Line to North Side

River "bus" service which will carry several thousand passengers a day from 4000 north in the Riverview Park district to the loop in 20 minutes running time was proposed yesterday by John Keeshin, head of the Keeshin Freight lines. He will take his proposal before a city council committee at 2 p. m. Friday.

"We have been studying this river travel plan for some time, and if we go into it, it will be on a big scale," Keeshin said.

Keeshin said his men have located 30 passenger boats suitable for the work. Each will carry 25 to 80 passengers. The craft burn diesel oil.

Plan Regular Stations.

The proposed passenger boats would be inclosed and heated and have seats for passengers. Regular stations in the form of docks would be built, Keeshin said, if proper authorization can be secured from the council. Both express and local boats will be run.

"There is no reason to confine the service to the north side once we get started," Keeshin said. "We can run boats down the south branch and the ship canal to furnish equally fast service to residents of Cicero, Riverside, Berwyn, and other southwest communities. All we need is the good-will of the public and we can extend the service to all who will benefit by it."

Postwar Service Proposed.

Keeshin said the boat service would not be a temporary measure. While it would help immensely during the critical war period to expedite traffic tie-ups, he proposed that it be carried on after the war.

Another angle to the proposal provides for local freight handling on the river to replace retail and wholesale delivery now curtailed by office of defense transportation curbs on the use of trucks.

Asked about river ice, Keeshin said that during two months, February and January, service might have to be suspended. This will be studied further, he said. All boats would be of such a low type as to clear bridges without necessitating their being lifted, however.

Keeshin said he is prepared to start the river bus service with an investment of $100,000, but that it would be given all the capital it later needed for development. The name of the proposed line will be Ferry Service, Inc., he added.

Defeats Final Landing by 5 Jap Warships

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 15 [Tuesday] (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's infantry men swept over Japanese troops at Buna village on the eastern New Guinea coast yesterday to capture one of the major strongpoints of the enemy, and "largely parried" a heavy reënforcement attempt by sea.

An official communique telling of the wresting by Americans and Australians of this Japanese foothold did not mention the fate of nearby Buna mission, which also has been held stubbornly by the enemy.

The communique said:

"Buna village has been taken. It was occupied by our troops at 10 o'clock this morning, Dec. 14. The attack was preceded by a heavy mortar barrage which was followed in by the infantry."

Five Warships Routed.

Then, telling of the new Japanese reënforcement threat, the bulletin said:

"In another attempt by the enemy's naval forces to reënforce their ground troops in the Buna area, the enemy launched a convoy of two cruisers and three destroyers for a landing at Mambare and Kumusi estuaries."

These two rivers empty into the sea about 20 and 40 miles respectively northwest of Buna, and obviously the enemy was attempting to outflank the entire allied assault which had resulted in the capture of Gona and Buna.

"Our air force," it added, "intercepted this convoy. In heavy bombing and strafing attacks, the enemy's landing barges were sunk or disabled. Survivors attempted to reach land by swimming, suffering heavy casualties. Supplies were set afire. Several hits and many near misses were made on the war vessels."

Three Planes Shot Down.

A Japanese bomber and two fighters also were shot down out of a screening force, and the communique added:

"It is believed that the major enemy effort was largely parried."

The enemy reënforcement move was consistent with Japanese efforts to hold at almost any cost the toeholds they established last summer in the Buna-Gona area. The allies have sunk a number of enemy ships and landing barges within the last month.

Before Buna village was seized the Japanese had been split into two segments, one dug in at Buna village and the other at Buna mission, near by. Japanese snipers also had been operating along the Kokoda trail inland for several miles and were being methodically hunted and shot down from the trees to which they were strapped.

Took Buna in July.

But the fall of Buna village was considered an event of capital importance in the steady annihilation of the Japanese, whose presence in that area had given the Australian mainland government anxious moments until Gen. MacArthur began his drive across the Owen Stanley mountains from Port Moresby.

The Japanese made their first landings in the Buna-Gona area July 22, pushed inland on the 120 mile jungle trail toward Port Moresby on the southern coast, and by mid-September reached Ioribawa, only 32 air line miles from the big allied base. Then the allies began their counter-offensive a short time later.

The Australians struggled back across the Owen Stanley mountains while American troops landed by air at improvised fields south of Buna and worked their way up to join the Australians. Thruout this offensive allied airmen dominated the skies and smashed numerous Japanese naval forces.

AERIAL ARMADA RAKES FLEEING ROMMEL TROOPS

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Germans, who abandoned the strong El Agheila bottleneck today without a major fight, were beating westward in retreat across Tripolitania. They were pursued by the British 8th army using an unprecedented number of planes to make the enemy's retreat as costly as possible.

[The London Daily Mail's military correspondent estimated that advance British units already had passed the Marble Arch air field, 40 miles west of El Agheila.]

The strong northern flank of Marshal Erwin Rommel's line at the eastern base of the Gulf of Sirte was cracked at Mersa el Brega "at little cost" on Sunday, a British communique said.

"The enemy is retreating westward, relentlessly pursued by the leading elements of our forces," headquarters added. "Allied fighter bombers, operating on an unprecedented scale, were employed to harass the enemy. Axis air activity was totally ineffective in preventing these operations."

Score Many Direct Hits.

Approximately 300 allied planes including 100 American manned aircraft were reported smashing at Rommel's columns. American airmen scored many direct hits on axis motor transport, an announcement of the 9th United States air force headquarters said. The American fighter craft were equipped with bomb racks in the manner of Britain's dual purpose "hurry bombers," an adaptation of Hurricane fighter craft.

Only once did enemy fighters close with American pilots in an attempt to stop the allied onslaught. That was when two Messerschmitt 109s were shot down and several others damaged against the loss of one American fighter.

Great Pincers Gap Narrows.

With Rommel retreating toward Tripoli, the great gap between the prongs of a great allied pincers—the American-British forces in Tunisia and the British in Libya—was progressively narrowed.

Brega is 30 miles northeast of El Agheila but with its fall the whole position of the 50,000 to 60,000 men in Rommel's forces, including remnants of the once proud African corps, became untenable.

Rommel's heavy forces were believed to have withdrawn westward from El Agheila several days ago.

The cryptic battle reports gave no hint of the actual extent of the 8th army advance or details of the fighting. The Berlin radio said Rommel had "withdrawn his forces from the El Agheila position farther westward."

No Major Engagement Joined.

At midday, the enemy was reported still in full retreat and no major engagement had been joined.

Reconnaissance showed that the axis retreat was orderly and that Rommel was getting out with everything possible.

The bulk of Rommel's forces appeared to be falling back toward Zauta en Nofilia, 90 miles to the west of El Agheila and about half way to Sirte.

This, however, was not considered a strong position and it appeared that the enemy could not make a resolute stand short of Misurata, 300 miles beyond El Agheila and about 130 miles short of Tripoli, the last remaining axis supply port in Libya.

Bomb Palermo and Sousse.

Despite his preoccupation with finishing the job of annihilating the African corps by reducing it from the air, Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery had sufficient air superiority to use some of his bombers against Sicily and Tunisia in support of the British 1st army in Tunisia.

Harbors at Palermo in Sicily and Sousse in Tunisia were attacked by medium bombers on Saturday night. Six enemy planes were shot down over the Libyan battle area, and in all operations the allies lost only four planes.

Artillery Battle in Tunisia.

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 14 (AP).—American and British artillery have broken up a German motor column northeast of Mejez el Bab, it was announced today. The French high command in Tunisia reported destruction of an entire troop train by French guerrillas operating between Sfax and Sousse.

[There was no elaboration of the reference to the allied artillery action in this dispatch, which cleared thru military censorship.]

A spokesman at the French headquarters of Gen. Henri Giraud said 282 out of 300 troops on the train were killed, wounded or captured when a mine exploded on the tracks and then French troops hidden at the side opened fire with machine guns.

Capture an Italian Column.

He also reported that one 1917 model French armored car and a few French motorcyclists with American air support broke up and captured an entire Italian armored column near Faid, in central Tunisia.

"Our French troops encountered the Italian column, which included two tanks, and opened fire on the Italians, who stopped," the spokesman said. "Our troops then called upon American air support and when the fighters and bombers came the Italians ran and we took the column."

In the north there was no action in the allied lines except for artillery fire. The Germans now stand on a line running north and south some distance east of the Mejez el Bab toward Pont du Fahs, a communications hub 35 miles southwest of Tunis, the capital.

Tunisian Ports Bombed.

American heavy bombers hit docks and ships at Bizerte naval base, and docks and shipping at Tunis, while medium bombers bombed the docks at Sousse. These same three points were heavily attacked the day before.

Twin motored Lightning [P-38] fighters blew up a locomotive with their cannon fire and dive-bombers and bomb carrying fighters with fighter escort blasted the railway yards at Sfax and caused fires which apparently originated from gasoline tank cars. These fires left a pillar of flame which was visible 40 miles away.

The Flying Fortresses which attacked Bizerte were engaged by nine Messerschmitts, and three of these enemy fighters were destroyed.

Claim Tanks Destroyed.

BERLIN, Dec. 14 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The high command today reported that German planes in Tunisia destroyed several allied tanks and downed 12 planes in combats. Axis naval guns were said to have destroyed three more allied planes.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Transocean News agency dispatch saying that axis forces drove the allies from two fortified villages yesterday in a thrust southwest of Tebourba in Tunisia. The dispatch said many British prisoners were taken and that 25 tanks were captured or destroyed.

FORMER CHICAGO OFFICER IN YUKON MADE COLONEL

BY WARREN BAKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WHITE HORSE, Y. T., Dec. 14.—Walter F. von Zelinski, a one-time Chicagoan, today became the seventh full colonel on the headquarters staff of the Northwestern Service command. Col. von Zelinski was promoted from lieutenant colonel. He is the command surgeon.

Col. von Zelinski is a naturalized citizen, having been born in Germany in 1882. He was graduated in 1911 from Loyola university, and joined the army reserve corps the same year. He saw action on the Mexican border and thru the first World war. He has served continuously in the army since.

BATAVIA FLYER, HIT OVER AFRICA, TELLS AIR DUEL

An East Coast Port, Dec. 14 (AP).—Donald E. Anderson of Batavia, Ill., a navy flyer whose right arm was shattered in a battle with three French planes high over Casablanca, sat propped up on pillows in the navy hospital here today and said that he was "the happiest man you ever saw when I woke up with my arm still on."

Anderson said that he and his radioman, C. F. Duke, "spotted three French fighters. There was another American observation plane about 2,000 yards away. The French planes started to dive on us. The first came at our tail. I fired and he fired. He missed. We pumped a lot of bullets into him."

The flyer said that during a "barrel roll," a bullet struck his right arm. Later he asked Duke "to cut my arm off. He may have been afraid to do it or he may have thought it could be saved." The flyer is recovering, and he still has his right arm.

ROMMEL RETREAT IS SEEN AS AID TO AXIS STRATEGY

London Observers Cite Short Supply Lines.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The retreat of Marshal Erwin Rommel from El Agheila has simplified axis strategy, in the opinion of many observers here. These observers take the view that Rommel's retreat was accomplished in a skilful and orderly manner.

The question has been asked, why didn't Rommel attempt to defend the strong, natural position at El Agheila? The answer has been given that his supply lines in the last nine days have received such a battering from the RAF and American bombers that they were virtually out of commission. It also was suggested that Rommel was unable to get reënforcements and therefore couldn't risk a complete debacle.

Preserves His Strength.

It is clear, however, that by preserving his strength and withdrawing toward Tunis, he is forcing the British 8th army to extend its lines of communication. They now stretch for more than a thousand miles from Cairo, Egypt.

In the opinion of many, instead of making the battle of North Africa two campaigns, as at present, Rommell intends to get back to back with Gen. Walther Nehring holding a triangle in Tunisia, for which the British-American forces there would have to fight over record breaking lines of communication whether from the Atlantic or the Suez canal. The axis would have the advantage of a few hours' sailing distance from Sicily, Sardinia, and Italy.

Shorter Air Fighting Range.

More important for the axis would be the strategic location of their forces for such a campaign. It was physically impossible for fighter planes from Sicily, Tunis, or Tripoli to provide effective support of Rommel's position at El Agheila.

This gives reason to believe that even Tripoli may be abandoned by the Germans and that the Tunisian defense may be made on the same lines planned by the French general staff years ago. In that case, Rommel's forces would guard Nehring's flank on the Mareth line built by the French against possible attack from the east [Tripolitania].

With axis warships, submarines, and air force based in any part of the Sicily-Tunisia triangle, they would present a tremendous danger to allied shipping attempting to penetrate the Mediterranean narrows.

The German air force could be dispersed to any front, wherever needed, and thus would be able to perform a double duty with the same supply lines.

The axis radio, according to the British Broadcasting corporation, altho admitting the withdrawal of Rommel from El Agheila in an overseas broadcast, has still not informed either the German or Italian people.

There is a tendency by some newspapers here to exaggerate the significance of the retreat as meaning Rommel is unable to put up resistance at any place, but more critical observers think he will be able to give a strong battle before he is completely overcome.

Issue Still Uncertain.

The Daily Telegraph proclaimed that Rommel "is bolting as hard as he can westward" and assured its readers "this time the tide of victory . . . is unlikely to ebb," but the Daily Worker and Daily Express stressed that not until the axis forces are completely annihilated will the issue be certain.

"As Nehring in Tunis and Rommel in Tripolitania are driven closer together, the chance of final victory comes nearer but the nut they represent becomes tactically harder to crack," the Daily Worker said.

The Daily Express asserted Rommel "showed wisdom in going back without making a serious fight," and after questioning, "Have we inflicted serious losses?" suggested that the signs of German nervousness reported from Cairo last week might have been "signs of prudent watchfulness to put into operation a preconceived plan of withdrawal."

Eyewitness Tells of Initial Blows in Rout of Axis Army

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

EL BREGA, Libya, Dec. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Advance elements of British troops moved into El Brega at dawn today, smashing into the northern anchor of Marshal Erwin Rommel's famous El Agheila line without enemy opposition.

British troops had by-passed El Brega last night and then blocked the road to the west. At dawn other troops advanced into the town, which literally was filled with booby traps.

I was with the first party of correspondents to enter this town, 30 miles northeast of El Agheila at the eastern base of the Gulf of Sirte.

We drove along mined roads behind British troops west of Agedabia. Outside El Brega we came to a road blockade. A sign said: "Enemy over this ridge."

"Don't Touch Anything."

Sappers were busy cleaning up mines and traps in the town. Explosives were left in water bottles and in litter left by the enemy.

Instead of taking a chance on being outflanked, Rommel decided to withdraw, just as Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery drew up his forces to deliver his blows against positions which were expected to be defended stoutly.

The battle of El Agheila, which had been widely heralded as the next great encounter in North Africa, thus can be labeled as a British victory even tho the Germans refused to stand-up and fight.

Air Forces Withdrawn.

Probing columns of the British 8th army operating from El Brega south to the pink hills below Wadi el Faregh found no opposition, with indications that Rommel's withdrawal was general all along the El Agheila line.

It is comforting to see American fighting planes roaring over this front. I didn't see an enemy plane all day and indications are that Rommel also withdrew his fighters from Marble Arch, the much bombed landing field 40 miles west of El Agheila.

Where Rommel may elect to make his next stand nobody knows, but the strongest position would be just west of Sirte where a bottleneck of salt marshes and rough country would give him a good defensive position. On the other had, he may stop suddenly and fight. That remains to be seen.

Rommel's move was a bit of strategy timed to throw the British army off balance, like a boxer who is set to throw a punch at his opponent and finds he has stepped out of range for a moment. While it gives Rommel shorter supply lines it extends the British communications. But the withdrawal eliminates a major stronghold.

SYRIA, LEBANON WANT U. S. TO BE A SANTA CLAUS

Wish America to Serve as Protector.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BEIRUT, Syria, Dec. 11 [Delayed].—The people in this part of the world—Syria and Lebanon—have only a limited local interest in the war. However, they are looking with extreme interest toward peace and what it will do for them—above all, what the United States will do for them.

They expect the United States to be a big brother and fight off the gang, whatever gang it may be. They also expect America to be a righteous judge and settle their own private disputes.

Besides that they want the United States to be a benevolent policeman and an all year 'round Santa Claus.

The American rôle in what the French call the "states of the Levant," became really active about a month ago with the arrival in Beirut of an American mission headed by George Wadsworth. He is accredited by President Roosevelt as "diplomatic agent and consul general" to the two "republics," Lebanon and Syria.

This Is What They Ask.

Since his arrival the activities of the American mission have been the chief subject of interest to all politically minded natives of this region.

They want to know what the United States is going to do for them now and in the future. They are asking if America will recognize unconditionally their independence.

In effect they ask if the United States is willing to establish an avowed or implied protectorate over them. They infer or openly state that the prospect is a welcome one. America now recognizes the "independence" of Lebanon and Syria at the request of Britain. It is a recognition with strings tied to it.

That was shown first in Wadsworth's official title of "diplomatic agent and consul general," as mentioned in his letters of credence.

Recognition Limited.

According to Washington nomenclature, a "diplomatic agent" is a representative sent from a sovereign state to one of limited independence. That limits the recognition.

Wadsworth is dealing with the British and French authorities, who divide for the duration of the war the real power in Syria and Lebanon. According to the agreement, the British take responsibility for the "strategic defense" and the French for the "territorial security" of this region. The boundary line between the two spheres of authority remains undefined—at least for publication.

Syrians and Lebanese admit the two "republics" at present are mere façades. They hope the situation is provisions for the duration of the war—and that Americans will see to it that it is purely provisional.

U. S. Mission on Watch.

Wadsworth, in his letters of credence to Syria and Lebanon, indicated that Washington will be friendly but watchful. Wadsworth's mission here will do the watching. If the Syrians and Lebanese will be good boys and play ball with the allies during the war, then they may get a reward.

They must not hinder or sabotage the war effort. Especially must they be on guard against enemy agents and fifth columnists who, according to some Americans here, infest the whole region.

It is significant for American prestige in this region that the American proposition is accepted as adequate, or nearly so, by the Syrians and Lebanese. They have faith in the benevolence and integrity of Uncle Sam which is disarming and even embarrassing.

FAVORITE RESORT HOTEL SOON WILL HOUSE SICK, HURT

Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 14 [Special].—The Breakers, considered one of the most famous of Florida's swank hotels, was surrounded with moving vans today as the army began transformation of the building into a hospital. The costly rugs and furnishings will be stored for the duration.

The Breakers is the third hotel of that name to stand on the 426 acre ocean front plat from which it and its predecessors have dominated the winter social scene since 1895. The previous hotels were destroyed by fire in 1903 and 1924. The present structure, containing 500 rooms, was opened in 1926. It was modeled after the Villa Medici in Rome and contains a huge circular dining room.

FRENCH IN WEST AFRICA TO FIGHT ON SIDE OF ALLIES

British Internees Freed; Dispute Ended.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The French in West Africa have decided not only to open Dakar to the ships and planes of the allies but also to fight beside them, it was learned today.

Word of this clear cut stand by French authorities in regions embracing strategic Dakar and the vast expanse of the Sahara came thru the Dakar radio co-incidental with the news that all British internees in West Africa have been released.

Dakar Radio Quoted.

Announcing West Africa's adherence to the allied cause, the Dakar radio said:

"On all our frontiers the situation is completely clarified and no dispute separates us any longer from the British. Our task is defined. There is henceforth only one duty for all—to work, to prepare, and when the time comes, to fight. There is henceforth only one aim—the common victory."

Particular significance was attached here to the words "and no dispute separates us any longer from the British." For it was at Dakar, in the summer of 1940, that a British supported "Free French" squadron clashed with Vichy troops, shelling the town and damaging French warships in an unsuccessful attempt to take the base.

Picture Grows Brighter.

Last month, with American troops landing in French North Africa, the picture grew brighter but the status of Dakar still remained obscure.

Early this month hopes of a quick clarification arose when it was announced that Pierre Boisson, governor general of French West Africa, had agreed to recognize the authority of Adm. Jean Darlan, former "commander in chief of Vichy armed forces" who cast his lot with the Americans in North Africa. Boisson, it was said, was willing to open Dakar to the use of allied fleets and air forces.

It was not then apparent, however, whether French units at Dakar would actively join the war against the axis, and strong agitation in England against collaboration with Darlan only added to this uncertainty.

The release of British internees and the declaration of the Dakar radio indicated that the bitterness growing out of the 1940 expedition had been liquidated and that a united front of British-French-American forces in Africa at last was taking shape.

Sign Madagascar Pact.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Charles de Gaulle signed an agreement today for reëstablishing French sovereignty over Madagascar.

The agreement provided that the provisional military administration set up by the British after the occupation of the huge island off southeast Africa would end with the arrival there of Gen. Paul le Gentilhomme, commander in chief of the Fighting French in Africa.

A high commissioner is to be appointed by the French national committee and he will reorganize the French military forces for defense or external operations "against the common enemy," it was announced.

Seeking to eliminate Madagascar as a potential base for axis submarines and espionage, British troops first landed on the island last May 5. They completed the occupation Nov. 5.

Laval Due to Visit Berlin.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 14 (AP).—Pierre Laval, advocate of an axis victory in the war, is expected to go to Berlin this week to make a declaration on what Vichy France is prepared to do in helping Germany, Vichy reports said today.

The Nazis were reported to want a detailed promise of collaboration, going beyond Laval's statement yesterday of his readiness to follow "the only way which can lead to the preservation of our country," and clarifying Marshal Petain's letter to Adolf Hitler. In that letter Petain said he could do nothing other than accept the Fuehrer's decision to occupy all of France.

Petain was said to have told the Nazi consul general at Vichy, Krug von Nidda, that his first duty was to reconstitute an army which could safeguard France and her empire. Petain was reported to have pointed out that only Field Marshal von Runstedt, in command of occupied French territory, could make the necessary arrangements.

Petain Declines to Fight.

Nazi officials wanted an understanding that a new French army would fight on Germany's side, but Petain stopped short of pledging complete armed collaboration.

Vichy was informed today of the dissolution of the axis armistice commissions hitherto functioning at Wiesbaden, Germany, and Turin, Italy. The axis took the position that the terms of the 1940 armistices were not applicable to present circumstances. French negotiations henceforth will be conducted thru Rundstedt and Nidda.

Gun on New Guinea Named for Her

Sleek Little Number

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 14 (AP).—There is a sleek little number on this battlefront that is driving the Japanese in Buna Mission and on Cape Endaiadere to distraction. Her name is Helen.

Helen is a piece of artillery manned by one of the best American crews in Papua. Japanese planes have been spending long hours trying to find her. She was flown here piece by piece and then reassembled.

Helen is credited with knocking out two Jap ack-ack guns near Cape Endaiadere; with pounding Japanese in both Buna village and Buna Mission, and with making the Japs lose plenty hours of sleep.

Every member of the eight-man gun crew wanted to name her, but Corp. John Polishuk of Benton Harbor, Mich., selected the name. He named the gun after Helen Yankus, 3120 Lituanica avenue, Chicago, a pretty brunette, and Polishuk produced pictures to prove it.

COMPANY BUILDS PLANES TO CARRY TANKS TO BATTLE

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 14 (AP).—Development of a new tank-carrying cargo plane which also can transport guns, ammunition, supplies, troops or paratroops to distant points of combat and operations was announced today by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation.

Richard B. Boutelle, vice president of Fairchild and general manager of the aircraft division, reported the development of the big planes but withheld specifications and performance figures. Other officials said production has started.

Boutelle said that the plane is "radical in concept, with the view in mind that a maximum range in excess of 3,500 miles may be obtained."

Fairchild now is producing primary trainers, military liaison planes and bomber crew trainers for the air forces and the united nations.

Carter, United States, and assistant treasurer, Hilda Austern, United States. The Pacific council or governing body will include Philip C. Jessup, United States.

U. S. BORROWING GOLD IN CANADA TO PAY RANSOMS

Has No Coins Acceptable to Arab Extortionists.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—The United States has had to borrow gold coins from Canada so that Uncle Sam could pay the ransoms demanded by North African Arabs for American soldiers rescued from the desert.

This was revealed today by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who gave the following explanation.

Altho the United States owns and has in its possession more than 75 per cent of all the gold in the world, it doesn't have any gold money. All gold coins, as required by law, were melted down when they were taken out of circulation in the early days of the New Deal.

Demand Hard Gold Money.

The Arabs won't accept "folding money." They want coins "while all we could have sent them would have been gold bricks," the secretary reported. He said the quickest solution was to borrow some gold dollars from Canada. He would not reveal the amount borrowed.

Morgenthau also disclosed that silver soon would be added to the long list of commodities being exported under the lend-lease program. He said approval has been given for the shipment abroad of large quantities to the allied nations "for coinage purposes." Demand for coins "has been aggravated by the presence of American troops in these countries," he reported.

The secretary described the operation as one whereby Britain or Australia, both of which have requested large quantities of the metal, would be shipped a certain number of ounces that would be returnable after the war.

May Loan Industries Silver.

Under present legislation the treasury may not dispose of any of its silver stock for consumption. It has, however, loaned to war plants here silver which has been used for such industrial devices as busbars. This silver will be remelted and returned to the treasury after the war.

Morgenthau said that some of the special paper money printed for use by the North African troops is coming back into this country. A special gold mint mark was printed on the coins so it could be identified if it should fall into axis hands. He said it would be acceptable as "legal tender."

The secretary reiterated his position in the silver question. He said he advocates abolishment of all silver legislation now pending in congress.

Morgenthau would place the responsibility for the use of silver for industrial and all other purposes in the hands of the War Production board "or those agencies legislating the distribution of strategic metals." If his ideas were carried out, he said, the government "would stop buying silver at any price."

He observed that the government "had enough silver on hand to last a little while." [The United States owns about 60 per cent of the world's silver.]

SOUTH DAKOTA FLYER, 22, IS NAVY'S ACE WITH 22 PLANE BAG

In six weeks of combat service at Guadalcanal, his only experience, he has been credited with shooting down 22 Japanese planes, 16 of them Zeros, in 50 flights.

[In a Guadalcanal dispatch of Nov. 20 Foss was credited with 23 planes.]

His squadron is commanded by Maj. Leonard K. [Duke] Davis of Coronado, Cal. The eight plane flight of which Foss is the leader is known as the "Flying Circus" and has been credited with 47 planes. Foss is a graduate of the University of South Dakota and received flight training at Pensacola after being enrolled in the marine corps reserve in 1940.

BATISTA SEES JOY IF ALLIES INVADE SPAIN

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba declared in an interview today that an allied invasion of Spain "would produce a complete ovation throut Latin America."

Cuban military authorities have "done effective work against the Spanish Falange spies and other axis spies in Cuba," Batista said. "The full force of our laws has fallen on those spies."

He said that the disruption of Cuba's sugar exports by a shipping shortage had an effect which was "disastrous but not desperate" on Cuban economy. He said his country is building as many ships as possible, including "sailing ships, motor driven ships, and ships that will be towed" to relieve the sugar shortage in the United States.

RUSSIANS ADMIT GERMAN GAINS AT STALINGRAD

Claims Foe Lost 1,000 Men Southwest of City.

MOSCOW, Dec. 15 [Tuesday]—(AP).—German troops smashing forward 113 southwest of Stalingrad forced back soviet defenders of the besieged city, the Russian midnight communique reported early today. The siege of Stalingrad was in its 113th day.

The soviets said the Germans lost 1,000 men in the lunge southwest of Stalingrad and 600 more in an attack near Voronezh, 300 miles northwest of the metropolis. They reported gains by their own assault troops in the factory area of Stalingrad and in general on the other fronts.

Down 42 Planes.

Forty-two German planes, 33 of them transport ships, were downed Sunday, the communique added, as the Germans continued to bring up reënforcements by air to troops fighting in the bitter cold of soviet winter.

At the cost of 1,000 men, 11 tanks, and 7 self-propelled guns, the Germans "succeeded in pressing back our detachment somewhat" in counter-blows southwest of Stalingrad against one arm of the soviet pincers reaching out to entrap 300,000 Germans pounding at the Volga city.

In the factory area of Stalingrad "our troops cleared the Germans out of several blockhouses and strongly fortified enemy key positions and wiped out about 150 German officers and men," the communique said.

Soviet artillery fire on the northern outskirts of Stalingrad destroyed enemy blockhouses and silenced an artillery battery. Northwest of the city an artillery duel resulted in destruction of 40 German blockhouses and dispersal of "about a battalion of enemy infantry."

Capture Several Hills.

"Several heights of tactical importance" were reported captured by the Russians south of Voronezh and German counterattacks there were beaten off with 600 of the enemy killed and 200 captured.

On the central front west of Moscow the Russians reported continued offensives, and said on some sectors they beat off enemy counter-attacks.

West of Rzhev, the Russians claimed 200 Germans were killed and 11 tanks destroyed in one attack, and the destruction of 15 more tanks and several hundred Germans when the assault was renewed.

Beat Off Reds, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Dec. 14 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said today that several Russian attacks had been repulsed in the Caucasian mountains and that on other parts of the southern front "very bitter fighting against strong enemy forces is continuing."

German tank formations were said to have advanced southwest of Stalingrad, dispersing strong Russian formations and frustrating Russian counterattacks.

HIROHITO VISITS HIGH JAP SHRINE TO ASK WAR AID

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—A morale bolstering gesture of great importance in Japanese eyes, a solemn pilgrimage by Emperor Hirohito to the grand shrine of the sun goddess to pray for "divine assistance," was reported today by axis broadcasts.

A Tokio dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said "the emperor spent two days in prayer at the shrine" and added that his purpose was to inform the sun goddess "of the great victories achieved by the Japanese during the first 12 months of the war and to pray for the continuation of divine assistance until the final triumph of Japan."

An imperial visit to the sun goddess' shrine might indicate the government's feeling that something was needed to renew public confidence in the war leadership. This was Hirohito's first visit to the grand shrine since the Pacific war began. The Japanese consider the sun goddess, Amaterasu-o-mi-kami, the "divine ancestress" of the imperial family and the whole Japanese people.

MARINE RETURNS WITH TROPHIES OF GUADALCANAL

Freighted with trophies of his three and a half months on Guadalcanal, Sergt. John Powers Jr., of the island's marine aviation group, stopped in Chicago yesterday on the way to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Powers, in Carmi, Ill.

Sergt. Powers, who joined the marines Sept. 9, 1939, and is a veteran of the Pearl Harbor raid, brought with him a Japanese battle flag, an enemy field telescope and a set of medals and identification tags taken from a Japanese imperial marine. He also has some Japanese money.

He said the fighting had been "tough" on the tiny Pacific island, but he escaped being wounded. He expects to return to his base when his 30 day furlough is ended.

AUSSIE WOMEN MAKE CHRISTMAS HAPPY FOR YANKS

5,000 Pack Gift Boxes; Plan Parties.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 14.—It will be a merry Christmas for American service men in the south Pacific this year, thanks to the work of the Red Cross and the wholehearted coöperation of the women of Australia.

Thousands upon thousands of gift boxes have been filled with articles imported from America or bought in Australia by the Red Cross. The contents of the boxes, which will go to each army, navy, and marine member as well as to nurses and similar nonfighting members of Uncle Sam's forces, vary according to the locality and the articles available.

Plan Christmas Parties.

In addition to the gift boxes, packed by 5,000 Australian women and already sent on their way to remote jungle outposts, ships at sea, and other spots, there will be Christmas parties at each of 15 Red Cross service clubs thruout the Pacific area. Parties will be given by private persons and other clubs entertaining American soldiers for Christmas.

Hospitals thruout the area are planning special entertainment for patients, many of whom have made small presents to doctors and nurses as part of the hospital craft work. Patients and staff alike have already begun making decorations from worn out light bulbs and dental plaster, fashioned Christmas candles from milk straws, and adorned windows with frosted scenes made of Epsom salts and stale beer.

Beach Parties for Yanks.

There will also be beach parties and dances given under Red Cross auspices or thru arrangements with Christmas spirited citizens, and in one south Pacific base a huge government sponsored Christmas pageant is planned.

For men wishing to send Christmas greetings to the United States there is a new plan for fixed cable messages at cut rates.

Various special menus will appear Christmas day wherever Americans gather to eat, whether in the heart of a big city or in the midst of the jungles of New Guinea. There will be no doubt in the minds of Americans as to what day it is.

DARKEN 9 STATES IN BIGGEST AIR RAID TEST IN U.S.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 14 (AP).—Air raid warning signals, sounding at 10 p. m. tonight, plunged nine midwestern states into darkness in the most extensive test of civilian defense facilities ever held in the United States. The black-out lasted 20 minutes.

More than 100 planes were in the air observing the results.

The nine states were Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Missouri, Minnesota, and Kansas.

The test was reported efficiently conducted in all the cities reported. At Creston, Ia., Charles H. Graby, an assistant warden was killed by a police car during the black-out.

In St. Louis firemen fought a three alarm fire, using flashlights to guide them.

TWO MORE JAPANESE NEWSPAPERS MERGE AT OSAKA AND TOKIO

TOKIO, Dec. 14 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Two of Japan's best known newspapers, the Tokio Nichi Nichi and Osaka Mainichi, will be merged and will appear after Jan. 1 with the simple title Mainichi Shimbun [Every Day Newspaper], it was announced today.

It will thus become one of three national newspapers, the names of which omit the city of publication. The other two are Asahi Shimbun, formed by a recent merger of the Tokio Asahi and the Osaka Asahi, and the Yomiuri-Hochi, a combination of two Tokio dailies.

[The latest merger, which combines two papers owned by the same publishing company but operated as separate entities, apparently is another step in the Japanese government's campaign to concentrate control of the press in a few hands, thus eliminating competition and facilitating government domination. Under this program several lesser papers have been discontinued or merged and the number of dailies drastically reduced.]

HOW BIBLE, TWO FISH AIDED 'RICK' AND CREWMATES

No Atheists on Rafts, Says Corp. Bartek.

Freehold, N. J., Dec. 14 [Special].—Just as there are no athiests in foxholes, according to Bataan survivors, so are there none aboard a tiny rubber raft under a blazing Pacific sun.

That was the story brought home to Freehold, N. J., today by Corp. Johnny Bartek, 23 years old, one of the three men aboard Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's raft when the flyer was rescued last month.

Tells of Pal's Death.

The manner of death of Sergt. Alexander Kaczmarczyk, only one of the eight aboard the three rafts to die, was disclosed for the first time by Bartek, who was then a private.

"He drank sea water," Johnny said. "He went nuts. We had to keep him from jumping overboard. Then he got quiet and I told him to lie down and go to sleep. He never woke up. That was about two weeks after our plane came down."

Lieut. John De Argella read the burial service from Johnny's Bible. "The sergeant and I were the only Catholics aboard," Johnny said. "The Bible was given to me by the Rev. Walter Lake, pastor of Freehold's First Baptist church. He's in the navy now.

Prayed Every Day.

"We all turned Christian on the raft. We prayed from that Bible every day. On the sixth nearly foodless morning, the men's prayers were answered. Two fish leaped into the raft."

His mother clapped her hands. "Those were good Christian gentlemen aboard," she said.

Johnny then told how the three rafts went their separate ways after spotting a plane, on the theory that chances of rescue would be greater.

"There's nothing wrong with me now," said the sober youth who used to trouble Freehold cops by speeding around town in a car. "I feel fine. But that was something that will stay with me for the rest of my life."

WAVELL VISITS CEYLON.

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Dec. 14 (AP).—Gen. Archibald Percival Wavell, commander in chief of the Indian army, has just concluded a flying visit to Ceylon, where he conferred with senior officers of the Ceylon command, it was disclosed today.

YANKS BLAST JAP BASE ON GEORGIA ISLE FOR 3D DAY

Tons of Bombs Dropped on New Air Field.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—American bombers in the South Pacific loosed new tons of destruction on the Japanese air field at Munda, New Georgia Island, Sunday, the navy reported today.

Apparently waging a campaign to wipe out this latest threat to the American position on Guadalcanal Island, our planes carried out bombing attacks for the third straight day. A communique announcing the action again made no mention of Japanese fighter opposition.

The first reported attack on Munda was made last Thursday, Guadalcanal time. Then on Friday and Saturday, Flying Fortresses dumped 27,000 pounds of bombs upon the Munda base. Today's communique gave no information about the Sunday action except to say "the attacks continued."

Quiet on Guadalcanal.

The absence of mention of Japanese fighter planes suggested that American forces at least for the time being held air supremacy in the region.

Munda, in the central Solomons, is only 150 miles from Guadalcanal and is the closest point at which the Japanese have tried to set up a base for land planes.

Otherwise the situation in the South Pacific remained relatively quiet, the communique showed. Ground action on Guadalcanal was limited to "routine patrol activity," and air action over the island consisted of a visit by a lone enemy plane which dropped three bombs in the vicinity of the American air field.

One Destroyer Sunk.

Fate of a damaged Japanese destroyer task force which sought to strengthen Nippon's fingerhold in northwestern Guadalcanal Island remained hidden today.

At least one of 11 enemy destroyers was sunk, no doubt taking uncounted hundreds to a watery grave, and from four to seven others were known to have been hit by American planes and ships.

One American torpedo boat was lost in the Guadalcanal fighting which began Friday when dive bombers scored hits on five Japanese destroyers but failed to stop the task force. Naval surface craft swung into the scrap Saturday, reporting one destroyer sunk, another fired and probably sunk, and a third damaged.

ITALIAN NAMED JESUIT LEADER BY LATE GENERAL

BERLIN, Dec. 14 [From German broadcasts]—(AP).—Father Alessio Magni was selected by the late Father Wlodimir Ledochowski, general of the Jesuit order, to be vicar general of the order until a new general is elected, Transocean news agency reported today from Vatican City. Father Ledochowski, general of the order since 1915, died yesterday in Vatican City.

Rome reports said election of a successor to Father Ledochowski must await the end of the war.

CLAUDE SWANSON BROTHER-IN-LAW SLAIN IN HOME

Husband of Cook Sought by Virginia Posse.

Danville, Va., Dec. 14 [Special].—Led by bloodhounds, a posse searched wooded sectors of Pittsylvania county tonight for Dan Valentine, Negro n'er-do-well, sought as the slayer of F. C. Beverly, 65 years old, tobacco planter and brother-in-law of the late Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson.

Beverly was found dead in the dining room of his home this afternoon by Walter P. Tudor, a neighbor. A murder warrant was sworn out for Valentine by Joseph Whitehead, commonwealth attorney, after Beverly's Negro cook, Catherine, wife of Valentine, had related that her husband invaded the house at noon and shot at her with an automatic rifle.

Cook Flees to Woods.

Mrs. Valentine said her husband, who last week finished a six months jail term for a previous attempt on her life, entered the house and pointed the gun at her. She rushed toward the door screaming, she said, and a bullet whizzed past her. As she left the house she heard Beverly inquire what was wrong. She saw him enter the room with a pistol.

She fled toward a nearby clump of woods and heard two shots as she ran, she said. She hid in the woods for more than an hour.

Reported Seen with Rifle.

Roy Tarpley, a neighbor, reported he saw Valentine walking away from the Beverly home carrying a rifle in the crook of his arm. Tarpley said Valentine told him he had just shot Beverly and was going into the woods to shoot himself.

Beverly's wife is a well known figure in the field of rural education in Virginia and has gained widespread recognition for her methods of teaching farm children. She is principal of the school in nearby Whitmell, and was busy with her teaching duties when the shooting took place.

INFANTRY TAUGHT NEW WARFARE AT BENNING SCHOOL

Future Officers Learn the Hard Way.

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Benning, Ga., Dec. 14.—In the deep ravines of the Fort Benning reservation, across its fast running streams and among its wooded hills, the infantry is teaching its officers to cope with the armor and high firepower developed in modern war to destroy the foot soldier.

The American army's infantryman is a jack of all trades, with something of the skills of the engineer, the artilleryman, and the other specialists. The visitor here loses the feeling that the soldier on foot is a slightly bewildered and helpless fighter; this new soldier is a very capable citizen, with effective tricks of his own.

The army has nearly 200,000 acres here on which to train the officers who will in turn transform millions of civilians into fighting men. This vast area has every type of terrain likely to be encountered in warfare which can be found in this country, excepting mountains and desert.

Officer Candidates Everywhere.

From early morning until sunset, and sometimes at night, classes of officer candidates are scattered thru the hills, learning how to outwit tanks, to blow up bridges, demolish railroads, transport jeeps and men across rivers on cables and pontoon bridges, to command troops in assaults on towns. All the duties of a junior officer are drilled into the candidates with phenomenal speed and logical sequence.

Every candidate goes thru a fine sieve of fair but unrelenting criticism from the day of his arrival until he is judged good material and commissioned. Each platoon of students has a leader, a commissioned officer, who eats, sleeps and works with his charges. At the end of the first two weeks, the company officer begins rating the candidates, choosing the five highest and five lowest.

The rating continues at two week intervals, until at the end of eight weeks each candidate has been scored in relation to his fellows. Meanwhile, the candidates have rated themselves, each man scoring all members of his platoon except himself. All these ratings are considered by the academic board in passing final judgment.

Academic Standing Separate.

Academic standing is the board's first consideration in eliminating candidates, but does not figure in the platoon ratings; the company officers are not informed of the results of the class work of their men.

A large part of the training is in the field. The candidates use the Browning automatic rifle, the .30 and .50 caliber machine guns, and the 60 and 80 mm. mortars.

Engineer troops show them how to blow up trees by ringing them with dynamite; teach them the formula for determining the amount of dynamite or TNT necessary to blast apart a steel girder according to its size; where to place a small charge so it will permanently disable a truck; how to plug up the end of an artillery gun and explode a charge in its barrel, so it will be forever useless; where to place explosives in demolishing concrete, and how much to use, depending on its thickness; how to attach a charge to a railroad track; the best way to blow up storage tanks, and a score of other handy ways of disrupting enemy communications or blasting supplies.

Teach Tactics by Demonstration.

Tactics are taught by demonstrations simulating real warfare, tanks and artillery firing blanks and maneuvering in areas chosen to give the student officers instruction in the use of terrain and camouflage.

The inexpert looking over a square half mile of rolling country can't see the carefully placed 37 mm. anti-tank guns. Suddenly, a tank at the far end of the area pokes its snout tentatively out from a covering of trees. The guns hold their fire, keeping their positions from the enemy, wanting him to get his tanks rolling in a general drive. The tank withdraws, and fires its big gun, then slithers down a narrow trail toward a second clump of trees.

When the smoke of the shot clears, the enemy is seen to have used it for cover to place his own artillery. Immediately one of the anti-tank guns fires a smoke shell which lands directly in front of the newly placed gun, spoiling the aim of its crew for a time. Now the enemy's first tank is joined by a second, and they start toward a hilltop. The hilltop proves to be an anti-tank gun position. The gun gets broadside shots at the tanks.

Action Quickens.

Anti-tank fire quickens, guns shooting from a half a dozen protected places as the enemy's tank attack develops, the armored vehicles lurching from tree clumps and from behind hillocks from three sides. Twenty minutes of fighting follows, smoke bombs and blanks roaring heavily, the scene a perfect picture of war minus the carnage. Finally, the tanks rumble off; the officer students class and the instructor analyze the battle.

Whenever possible, the students themselves do the mimic fighting, getting large doses of "booby trap" education in a practice village used to demonstrate mopping up technique.

Carrying rifles, the mopup platoon deploys around the half a dozen wooden shacks of the village. Keeping to cover as long as possible, the men run into the villages in groups of three, covering one another from surprise from any quarter. A soldier cautiously inches his way along a wall toward a door, pokes his way into it. Immediately a booby trap goes off, covering him with flour.

Miss Enemy on Roof.

Another pair stride toward a barn. They fail to see an enemy hidden on a nearby roof, who tosses a small hand grenade, harmless but with a report like a navy rifle. The grenade landed within six feet of the soldiers. In the two seconds it took to go off, they stood transfixed.

"Watch the roofs," the instructor yells. "They're not going to toss gardenias at you."

No humor is cultivated in this performance. The men know what they're learning is intended to save their lives, but a laugh occasionally breaks the tension. One soldier carefully explored a shack, poked his rifle in every window, then made for the door. He stepped on a booby trap bomb, and fell flat.

"I'm dead," he gasped.

"Some of these guys walk in like they was going in their own kitchens," the sergeant who arranged the tricks observed dourly.

CHINESE REPEL JAPS' WINTER DRIVE IN SOUTH

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 14 (AP).—Thrown back in their initial winter drive in Yunnan, Japanese forces have retreated to the vicinity of Peichiaoho where fighting is continuing, the Chinese high command reported tonight.

Enemy troops have suffered considerable losses, the communique said, since they failed to break thru Chinese lines on the upper Salween river in an offensive from Burma begun Dec. 6. Peichiaoho, scene of the present fighting, is north of Tengyueh.

In Hupeh province, the enemy launched an attack in the vicinity of the Yangtze port of Shasi Dec. 11 but was repelled the next morning, the communique said.

Attack Burma Airdrome.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 14 (AP).—Today's British communique said: Last night, Dec. 13, a force of RAF Wellingtons attacked the Japanese airdrome at Magwe in Burma. Bombs were seen to burst on runways and in dispersal areas. None of the RAF aircraft is missing.

MAYOR BRANDS PAPER BOTTLE ROW 'POLITICS'

Denies Dean Milk Enmity; Hints He'll Run Again.

Chicago's paper milk container controversy of nearly four year's standing reached a new pitch yesterday after publication by the Dean Milk company of an advertisment asking why Mayor Kelly and Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes are trying to keep Dean's milk out of the city.

The mayor replied to the company, saying it was playing politics, and in so doing indicated that he plans to be a candidate for a fourth term next spring.

Disclaiming any interest in the bottle business, the mayor defended Hodes' law department. He said it has done only what was directed by the city council in fighting use of paper milk containers and only was trying to maintain the council's right to say that the only standard milk bottle is a glass bottle.

"Ridiculous," Dean Replies.

Sam E. Dean Sr., president of the milk company, said the mayor's statement was ridiculous and reminded him that the city council never has passed a law prohibiting the use of paper "bottles" in Chicago. He also ridiculed the political angle.

The Dean company has been distributing milk in paper containers under the protection of a court injunction since 1939. Hodes fought the injunction up to the Supreme court of the United States, which remanded the case back to the state court. Every court has ruled against the city, but Hodes has said he will carry the fight all the way to the top again.

"These things always appear at politically opportune moments," said Mayor Kelly. "The same thing was done four years ago just before I ran for reëlection and it was done by the same people.

Tells of Doctors' Fears.

"The thing at stake is whether the city council has authority to regulate food containers. I have no interest in any containers, paper or glass. Several years ago both Dr. Herman N. Bundesen and afterward Dr. Robert A. Black, who succeeded him temporarily as health commissioner, were fearful that there might be blisters on the cartons and that bacteria might get under them. On their advice the council refused to allow the distribution of milk in paper bottles. Some difference of opinion developed later.

"I have no personal opinion on the healthfulness of either type of container now and it is an issue for the council to decide. The corporation counsel merely has done what he was ordered to do by the city council. The council overnight could pass an ordinance permitting the sale of milk in paper containers."

"Mayor Kelly's statement is ridiculous," Dean replied. "For his information, the city council never has passed a law prohibiting paper bottles in Chicago. Moreover, Mr. Kelly would learn something about the progress of milk sanitation if he would review the weight of evidence in the paper bottle's favor.

Approved by U. S. Agency.

"It is approved by the United States public health service, by the state of Illinois and by the Chicago board of health. The paper bottle has been adopted by at least 1,000 communities and it is used in United States army camps.

"Nation-wide expert opinion has given the paper bottle its approval. Mayor Kelly should possess himself of all the facts concerning this important issue. Undoubtedly his own board of health can supply them.

"The mayor says the paper milk bottle issue is raised when a political campaign is approaching. The Dean Milk company is not interested in any political campaign. Its business is selling milk in the most efficient and economical manner."

Today Is Deadline for Last Payment on Income Taxes

Today is the last day for the payment of the fourth quarterly installment of income taxes without penalty. Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, announced that additional booths for the payment of the taxes would be installed on the ground floor of the United States courthouse to receive payments. Payments sent thru the mails and postmarked before midnight will not be in default, he said.

'WHITE' YULETIDE ASSURED UTAH; RED MEAT GONE

Labor Quarrel and OPA Bungling Blamed.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 14 [Special].—Facing prospects of a "white Christmas" because of a severe shortage of red meat, Utahans today blamed their predicament on the Office of Price Administration's mismanagement of its quota system and a boycott which arose from an AFL-CIO labor dispute.

Meantime there are no more big, red, juicy steaks in most of the markets of the state. Roast beef is just a pleasant memory. And ham and bacon are rarities.

These shortages are especially acute in the vicinity of Salt Lake City, Ogden, Provo, and Brigham City, which have experienced a tremendous industrial and military expansion in the last year since the base for the OPA quota was determined.

Little Chance of Relief.

State officials, packers, meat dealers, and grocers petitioned the OPA for relaxation of the slaughter quota for this area, but held out little hope for any such relief. E. W. Fallentine, general manager of the American Packing and Provision company, said it not only appears definite that Utah will receive no extra allotment, "but that a more drastic cut is inevitable."

The effect of the labor boycott on the meat shortage arose from the fact that it took place during the final quarter of last year. The OPA's 30 per cent reduction of slaughtering for this quarter is based on production figures of that period.

Clashes Between CIO and AFL.

The boycott was called against the Cudahy Packing company by AFL meat cutters and food handlers during a jurisdictional dispute with the CIO in efforts to unionize the company's employés. The boycott was said to have reduced the company's slaughterings by 23.6 per cent during the time on which the present low quota is based.

Rising population in the metropolitan areas because of military and war industrial activties constitutes another factor for throwing the quota system out of working order.

The population of Salt Lake City and the area within a 50 mile radius of the city has increased from 20 to 30 per cent since the period on which the quota is based.

Troops Increase Demand.

The passage of troop trains thru the area greatly increases meat demands of the railroads. And restaurants of this and other cities are packed daily with soldiers who consume meat from the civilian quota.

Still other factors include the discontinuance of supplies sent here by two national packers and the fact the Nuckolls Packing company of Pueblo, Colo., an important supplier for this area, has discontinued business because of numerous regulations.

MAYORALTY RING RECEIVES 5 MORE REPUBLICAN HATS

Total of 'Possibilities' Is Increased to 14.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Five new possibilities for the Republican mayoralty nomination were listed yesterday by the party committee appointed to recommend a candidate. There are now 14 Republicans under consideration, as well as 1 or 2 Democrats who might be selected in the event a fusion program is adopted.

The new entries in the field, one of whom may be pitted against Mayor Kelly, were made public by John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Republican city central committee. They are, in the order he listed them, Robert L. Hunter, chairman of the state civil service commission; Ralph A. Neff, civilian defense community commander in Austin; Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the packing firm bearing his name; Patrick H. Moynihan, former congressman and alderman, and Col. Paul G. Armstrong, director of selective service in Illinois.

Nine Earlier Names Still Considered.

The nine Republicans previously mentioned and considered as still in the running, listed in alphabetical order by Dempsey, are: Former Ald. Arthur Albert; Sheldon Clark, businessman and sportsman; Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett; Philip W. Collins, chairman of the state tax commission; Rep. Charles S. Dewey; Atty. Roger Faherty; George B. McKibbin, state director of finance; Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug company, and Ferre C. Watkins, lawyer, legionnaire, and friend of Gov. Green.

Of these nine, the favorites seem to be Faherty, whose father was prominent in Republican politics and city affairs a decade or two ago, and Clark, whose popularity is rated highly.

Chairman Dempsey discussed all the possibilities after a meeting yesterday afternoon of the committee of 11 ward committeemen who are to recommend candidates and platform, if any, to the full committee of 50 city ward committee men. Dempsey is 1 of the 11 and he named the other 10 as representatives of the various sections of the city.

Fusion Still Possibility.

He was asked if the Republican leaders still were poring over the proposed plan of asking State's Atty. Courtney, County Judge Jarecki, or some other Democrat to run as a fusion candidate. It is still being considered, Dempsey said.

Away from the headquarters, Republican opinion was said to be turning away from fusion and toward the idea that a Republican could beat the Kelly-Nash machine, an idea reported to be growing stronger. Spokesmen opposing fusion said Republican leaders feared the G. O. P. voters would not understand a deal made with a Democrat or a Democratic faction.

In favor of a straight Republican versus Democrat fight, the argument was advanced that fuel shortage, gasoline rationing, and planned economy would doom any Democrat to defeat, particularly Mayor Kelly.

Positive Action Not Taken.

Dempsey made it plain no positive action yet had been taken. He said individuals or groups had appeared before the committee of eleven and asked consideration for the five persons he named.

The others had been given consideration previously without decision, Dempsey explained, tho he made an exception of Atty. Gen. Barrett, who is one of the eleven members of the committee. The attorney general had been out of the state for a vacation for several weeks.

As a courtesy to Barrett, the committee is holding back on any decision until it has a chance to hear his views, Dempsey said.

Among Republicans listed by Dempsey as possible nominees for either city clerk or city treasurer are Leo Lowitz, 40th ward, and State Rep. Edward P. Saltiel, 31st senatorial district.

FISH TO DEVOTE TIME TO HELPING CURB BUROCRACY

Quits One Committee to Focus Efforts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Asserting that the results of the election show that the American people are tired of regimentation and government by burocracy, Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] said today that the first duty of the new congress will be the redemption of its authority under the constitution and the return of government by law to the United States.

Rep. Hamilton Fish.

The veteran New Yorker, who has served 12 consecutive terms in the house, disclosed that he has resigned from his post as the ranking minority member of the foreign affairs committee to devote his full time to the powerful rules committee, on which he is also the ranking Republican member. As a member of the rules committee, he said, he will strive for "the restoration of representative and constitutional government in the United States."

Has Broad Powers.

The rules committee, Fish noted, has virtually unlimited investigating powers. It also holds the power of life and death over all legislation, since all bills must have its approval before reaching the floor.

"The committee on rules, with its vast powers, should devote its energies and time to checking on the governmental agencies and requiring the burocrats to show by what authority of law they are taking into their own hands the legislative functions of the congress," Fish said.

Opposed Warlike Policies.

"I know of nothing more important for congress to do than to reassert its own authority, legislative prerogatives and power, and stop the march to dictatorship and totalitarianism in our own country while our sons are fighting for the four freedoms thruout the world."

Fish recalled that as a member of the foreign affairs committee he consistently opposed policies of the Roosevelt administration such as the lend-lease act and repeal of the arms embargo, which he feared would plunge the nation into war. He denounced the purge and smear campaign aimed at him and other administration opponents as a result of these efforts.

OFFICIAL COUNT REVEALS DEWEY WON BY 647,628

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 14 [Special].—The state board of canvassers today certified the election of Thomas E. Dewey as governor by a plurality of 647,628 votes in the recent election. The figures are the official election results, subject to slight amendment because of the 2,000 soldier votes returned from abroad.

The breakdown of the vote showed that John J. Bennett Jr. carried New York City by 85,076, the smallest margin in many years for a Democratic nominee, while Dewey set the record margin of 732,704 upstate, compared with 619,000 Dewey received up state in the 1938 campaign.

Dean Alfange, the American labor party nominee for governor, received 403,552 votes to again establish the ALP as a voting group of substantial strength in the state. Of the ALP vote, 346,500 were cast in New York City and 57,052 up state.

Unusual Visit

A wild goose which observers said weighs more than 25 pounds flew into Chicago yesterday and spent the afternoon fraternizing with the gulls in the river basin at North avenue. Not even the passage of river steamers nor the crowd that gathered on the North avenue bridge to watch, upset the big bird's equilibrium. Men who know the habits of wild geese say the bird's visit is unusual, as geese usually give the city a wide berth on their migrations.

NAVY TO SET UP GROUND SCHOOL FOR 600 IN IOWA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Sen. Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.] said today the navy had notified him of the establishment of a naval flight cadet training school at Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia. He said the school will accommodate 600 men and will open Jan. 7.

Rep. William S. Jacobsen [D., Ia.] said the training will consist of a three month elementary ground school course. Two hundred enrollees will be received at a time until the capacity of 600 is reached.

Jacobsen said the navy told him the WAVES training center at Cedar Falls, Ia., will open tomorrow and that 1,000 women will be trained there.

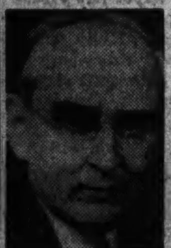
VANDENBERG NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT IN '44

Expects Nominee Will Be from 'New Timber.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—While predicting that the next President of the United States will be a Republican, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, an outstanding figure in the Republican party, made known today his decision not to be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1944. He looks to the new crop of presidential possibilities for the nominee.



Sen. Vandenberg.

The senator removed himself from consideration for the nomination in the following letter to Jay G. Hayden, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News:

"In your syndicated column of Dec. 9th you are kind enough to say that I 'might become a formidable candidate [for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944] by announcing myself a full fledged candidate.'

Candidate in "New Timber."

"I want to take advantage of this immediate opportunity to 'announce' exactly the contrary, if it is of any general interest. The Republicans of Michigan have been tremendously kind to me by supporting me in the national conventions of 1936 and 1940. I want them to be completely free in the convention of 1944 when, in my view, the convention will inevitably nominate the next President of the United States. I am not a candidate and I shall not be a candidate for President in that convention.

"In my opinion, the events of the next 18 months will dictate our appropriate nominee. In my expectation, he will be found amid the new timber which is richly available for this leadership—and which will become more so as the war progresses. As a noncandidate myself I may hope to have far greater influence in choosing the right candidate. That is all that matters."

Landon Wanted Him.

Sen. Vandenberg was one of the leading candidates for President in both the 1936 and 1940 Republican national conventions. In the 1940 convention at Philadelphia he polled 76 votes on the first ballot, comprising Michigan's 38 votes and 38 scattering from 15 other states. In 1936 at Cleveland he could have had the nomination for vice president. Alf Landon, the nominee for President, begged Vandenberg to consent to be his running mate. The senator, however, resolutely refused second place on the ticket and it was only after his positive declination that Frank Knox was chosen.

Altho taking himself out of the 1944 contest for the nomination Vandenberg, now in his 59th year, remains one of the foremost leaders of the party. He is certain to take a prominent part in the formulation of the Republican platform in 1944 and in the selection of the candidate.

Casts Doubt on Willkie.

In expressing the expectation that the 1944 nominee will be found "amid the new timber available for this leadership" Vandenberg casts doubt on the choice of any of his rivals for the honor in recent conventions—Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey, and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

At the moment the only one of this number who is a candidate for the nomination is Willkie, the former Democrat whom the Republicans nominated at Philadelphia in 1940.

Those who rate as "new timber," most of whom were brought to the fore by the Republican landslide last month, are Gov. Dwight H. Green and Sen. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Gov. Elect. Earl Warren of California, and Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

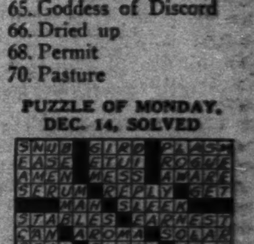
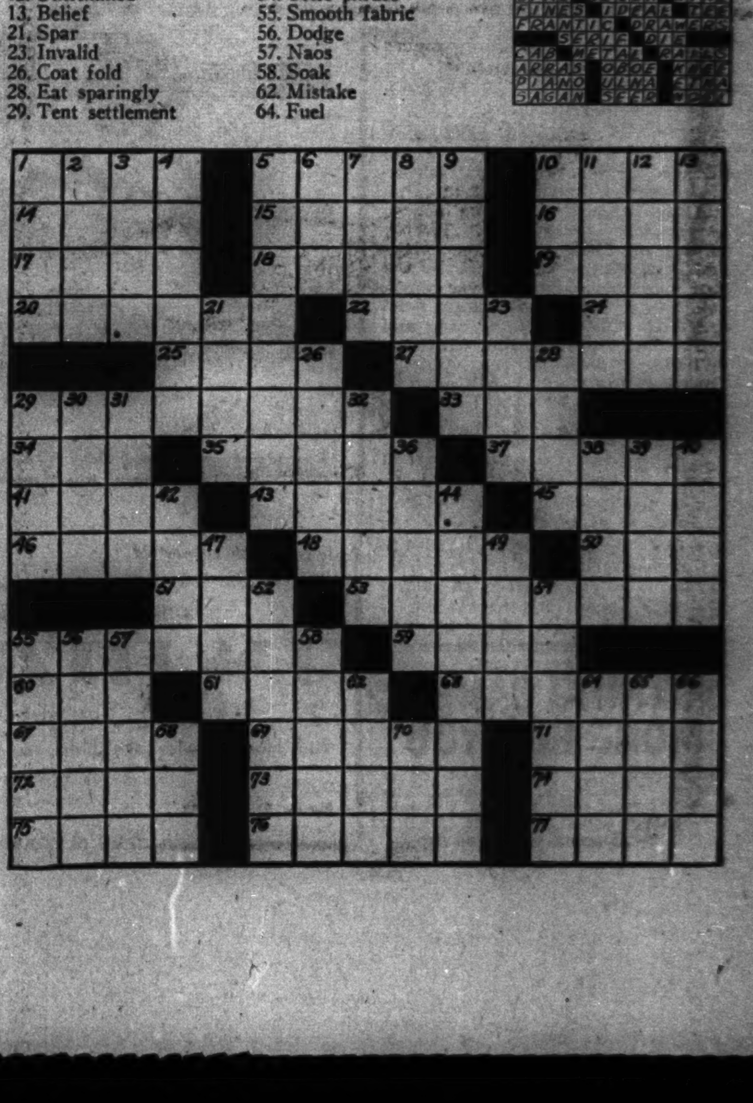
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, DEC. 14, SOLVED





ACTION EXPECTED TO BAN SNOOPING IN CENSORSHIPS

Biddle Admits Stupidity in Inspections.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—As the result of disclosures before a senate judiciary committee that 32 government departments and agencies were being given transcripts of information gleaned from censored mail between the United States and its territories, Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, committee chairman, today predicted legislative action to bar "snooping and political censorship."

The committee is conducting hearings on a bill authorizing such censorship which is now being done under broad powers falling to the President.

A redrafted bill, Van Nuys said, will limit the censorship authority to military information or communications which might aid the enemy and will contain safeguards prohibiting the general distribution of intercepted communications to government departments and agencies.

32 Agencies Got "Intercepts."

Sen. Ernest W. McFarland [D., Ariz.] disclosed at today's hearing that Byron Price, director of censorship, who testified before the committee at a closed session last week, identified the 32 government departments and agencies which had been given so-called "intercepts" of letters and telegrams to and from Alaska, Puerto Rico, and other territories and possessions. The committee has received many samples of "intercepts" having no apparent relation to the war, including letters between husbands and wives and others from government employés criticizing their superiors.

At today's open hearing Attorney General Francis Biddle minimized the abuses complained of by committee members as "mistakes of judgment."

"Of course there have been blunders, but you must look at the whole picture and not judge it by a few mistakes," he said. "From 50,000 or 60,000 cases you might pick out 20 or 30 that are stupid. It was a bad exercise of judgment; that's all there was to it."

Admits No Covering Law.

Biddle conceded that there is no statutory authority for the censorship of communications between the United States and its territories and possessions, altho such communications have been censored for almost a year. He insisted, however, that President Roosevelt as commander in chief in time of war had authority to impose the censorship.

"You must consider the facts," he said. "You must realize that Alaska has actually been invaded by the Japs. It is profoundly a question of military judgment—a matter for the commander in chief. Censorship is an essential ingredient of carrying on the war."

Sen. Harold H. Burton [R., O.] reminded Biddle that the Japs have invaded the westernmost tip of the Aleutians and that the people who live in southern Alaska "are as far away from the Japs as the Atlantic is from the Pacific."

Says F. D. R. Has Authority.

Biddle replied that the Japs "may attack further up at any time." In response to further questions by Sen. Burton, he expressed the opinion that the commander in chief has authority to impose censorship wherever there is any military necessity for it.

"Do you contend that he has authority to censor domestic mail?" asked Sen. John A. Danaher [R., Conn.].

"Yes, depending on the facts and circumstances," Biddle said.

Danaher referred to a letter written by Censorship Director Price to the speaker of the house and quoted the following statement therein: "Thus, communications between the continental United States and any of its territories or possessions are not subject to the control of the censor." He quoted the following statement by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson: "This bill, if enacted, will permit the censoring of communications which are now beyond the purview of censorship." The senator wanted to know why Price and Stimson made these statements if the President had the authority imputed to him by Biddle, and why the censorship was imposed if there was no authority for it.

Biddle said Price and Stimson were speaking of statutory authority. The censorship was imposed, he said, under the President's constitutional authority. When asked why the pending bill was submitted if the President already has the authority, he replied:

"The constitutional power is general. It is a broad power, not defined. We would feel better, much better, about it if congress underlined that executive action. . . . I don't think the law is necessary but it is advisable and important."

Biddle also explained that there is no penalty for attempts to circumvent the present censorship and that the bill provides maximum penalties of 10 years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Cites Information Obtained.

Biddle enumerated a dozen examples of information relating to ship movements and military operations in Alaska which he said were intercepted by the office of censorship. Similar illustrations were given by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation; Brig. Gen. Hayes A. Kroner, deputy assistant chief of staff in G-2 [military intelligence], and Capt. Ellis M. Zacharias, assistant and acting director of naval intelligence.

Capt. Zacharias told the committee that information obtained by censoring communications resulted in "the incarceration of certain individuals" suspected of refueling German submarines off the Atlantic coast. The submarine activity subsequently disappeared, he said.

Members of the committee said these illustrations had no particular relevancy, since there is no opposition to military censorship.

"What we are trying to do," commented Sen. Danaher, "is to draw a line between censorship of information that would aid the enemy and political censorship or snooping."

DIES AFTER HUNTING ACCIDENT.

Walter Ernst, 18 years old, 1322 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, died Sunday in Berwyn hospital as a result of a hunting accident last Wednesday when he was shot in the chest accidentally by Henry Westerhoff, 18, of 1443 Harlem avenue, Forest Park.

502 VOLUNTEERS TAKE COAST GUARD OATH IN W-G-N CEREMONIES

Five hundred and two business or professional men, skilled craftsmen or veteran yachtsmen, were inducted into the coast guards' temporary reserve last night in ceremonies broadcast over W-G-N from its main auditorium studio. The men volunteered their services one day a week without pay for the duration of the war to relieve regular coast guardsmen for combat duty.

The men were given the oath by Lt. Comm. Paul Date, director of the coast guards' temporary reserve for this district, and were addressed by Capt. Thomas A. Shanley, district commanding officer of the coast guard. The induction brought the number of temporary reservists in the Chicago area to 1,400. Enlistments still are being taken at 610 South Canal street.

Two hundred recruits were sworn into the United States merchant marine yesterday on the stage of the Chicago theater. All were naval reservists. Recruiting office staffs of the army and navy will work until nearly midnight tonight to complete processing of applicants who volunteered before Dec. 5 when recruiting was stopped by executive order.

CHICAGO FLYER WITH CANADIANS HITS LOCOMOTIVE

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Royal Canadian air force fighters attacked railway targets in Normandy, damaging a locomotive, and made more sweeps over northern France this afternoon in which they met no enemy aircraft, an RCAF communique said tonight. Other planes attacked railway targets in Belgium.

The locomotive was damaged by Pilot Ed Gimbel of Chicago, and Sergt. Pilot J. A. Chapin of Brantford, Ont. Chapin delivered a broadside attack and saw his shots spattering across the ground into the engine. Gimbel attacked headon as the train entered a cut, and both pilots reported seeing clouds of steam arising from the locomotive which stopped soon after the attack.

The Germans attacked several areas on the northeast English coast tonight, with bombs from one raider causing a number of casualties. [The Berlin radio said German bombers attacked barracks between Weymouth and Stalbanshead].

Two coastal command bombers were shot down yesterday in an attack on a medium sized axis supply ship along the Norwegian coast, but the third of their formation pressed home the attack thru heavy antiaircraft fire and torpedoed the vessel amidships, the air ministry said.

Claim 6 Ships Torpedoed.

BERLIN, Dec. 14 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — Last Saturday night German motor torpedo boats attacked enemy convoys off the British east coast and torpedoed six enemy merchantmen, the high command reported today. Three steamers totaling 9,000 tons sank immediately, one tanker of 3,000 tons was set aflame, and the two other steamers probably sank, it was claimed.

FIRE SUFFOCATES INVALID.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure issued a statement today categorically denying what he said was "recent editorial comment in United States newspapers falsely describing what is purported to be a discriminatory policy against the American press" in war coverage.

Gen. McClure, chief of staff of the United States army in the European theater of operations, did not specify the source of the editorial comment. A similar statement issued simultaneously at the British ministry of information, however, mentioned "articles" in the New York Daily News Dec. 11 and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Dec. 12.

Dispatches Delayed a Week.

The controversy apparently concerned chiefly dispatches from North Africa, which in some cases have been delayed more than a week.

"It has been erroneously stated," Gen. McClure said, "that British wire services are able to obtain better transmission of dispatches than American agencies; that the war office in London daily supplies correspondents with information not available in Washington.

"London journals have also had a reflection of this false impression in cables received from North Africa which describe the holding up of American dispatches in favor of British stories. Still further evidence of the general misunderstanding has been found in comments condemning censorship delays in London.

No Favoritism, He Says.

"There has been no discrimination between the British and the American press. There has been no unusual censorship delay in London and all stories marked 'censored' are passed to the proper agencies immediately. Others are cleared as quickly as possible.

"The war office in London has not given out information that was not available to correspondents in North Africa. If an occasional British dispatch has been cleared before an American story it was solely the result of good fortune in communications and there is no record of this occurring consistently.

"Field censorship is always difficult and time involving. The communications system between North Africa and London and the United States has been severely taxed since the task forces made their landings.

"Our censors, our public relations officers, and our communications officers are doing all within their power to provide expedient and fair transmittal of all news dispatches. . . ."

TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in an editorial Dec. 12 entitled "Via London" said:

"A number of readers have asked us why so much of the news of the American operations in North Africa carries a London dateline. We don't know, but we share the belief that the dispatches should come to us directly from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters, without being filtered thru another censorship or rewritten. The American reporters at the front are capable. Their work is not likely to be improved by being rewritten by British newspaper men, whose journalistic standards, in the main, are less exacting than ours."

A Washington dispatch Friday to the New York Daily News declared that "behind the scenes of the North African campaign a furious battle is being waged between United States and British authorities over a discriminatory policy against American newspaper men that is inflicting an overwhelming time handicap on this country's press."

FIND 8 MILLION BRITISH WOMEN HOLD WAR JOBS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Eight million of the 17,250,000 British women between 14 and 65 were working full time in war industry jobs at the end of June, the Office of War Information reported today.

OWI said it issued its report in response to inquiries resulting from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's suggestion that this country should study carefully the British experience in recruiting women. Mrs. Roosevelt said, however, she believed drafting of women, as in England, would be unnecessary here.

All women 18 to 45 have been registered in Britain, and single women and widows without children between 20 and 30 are subject to draft. So far only the 20-24 age group has been called.

In addition to the 8,000,000 doing fulltime industry jobs, it was estimated that 5,500,000 are taking care of families and another 500,000 are physically unfit, leaving comparatively few still available for full time mobilization.

ARMY AND NAVY NURSE PAY BILL IS SENT TO F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Legislation increasing the pay of nurses attached to the army and navy went to the White House today, with house acceptance of senate amendments.

It gives all nurses a base income corresponding to that of an ensign in the navy and a second lieutenant in the army. Under existing law pay is based on length of service.

Rep. Emanuel Celler [D., N. Y.] today introduced a bill to permit women doctors to accept temporary army commissions. He said existing law has been construed to prohibit such commissions.

MULCAHY ASKS OPA FOR BIGGER FUEL OIL RATION

Appeals for Increase After Dealers' Protest.

tributors will be welcome, Ross said.

Altho the dealers who conferred with Mulcahy expressed no doubt of his efforts to bring order to the muddled rationing program, and did not question the sincerity of the 153 local rationing boards, much of Mulcahy's telegram to the OPA in Washington consisted of a defense of his administration in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Cites Weather Records.

His request for a relaxation of regulations to permit more oil to be granted to Chicago users was based on weather records, which he said show the weather during the current heating season is 42 per cent colder than it was during the same part of last year's heating season.

"The first 13 days of December are the coldest Chicago has experienced in the first 13 days of December for 65 years," his wire read. "Consequently I am convinced that the users in the Chicago metropolitan area should be permitted to obtain more fuel oil than the regulations permit."

Frank E. Spencer, president of the Fuel Oil Distributors' association, said Mulcahy's request for relaxation of the rationing regulations "was a step in the right direction," but that it still has not overcome the bungling nor cut the red tape in which the whole rationing setup is bound.

The dealers who called on Mulcahy presented evidence of heatless homes and churches. They charged rationing boards were overwhelmed with details, that scores of inexperienced volunteer workers were adding to the burden, and that in many cases work was sent to the central rationing office by overworked local boards.

They told Mulcahy of the suspension of Sunday night church services by the Harrison street church of Oak Park because of a lack of fuel oil; of a home in Arlington Heights where two children are suffering from pneumonia in a heatless bedroom; of another heatless home in which a man lies near death. This latter home, they said, has only 30 gallons of oil to last until Jan. 6.

"Positive National Peril."

Meeting with Gov. Green in Springfield today will be Dr. H. L. Pettit, state medical officer of the state council of defense; Dr. Roland R. Cross, state public health director, and members of the public health committee of the state council of defense. In calling the meeting Gov. Green emphasized the serious public health hazard in the oil shortage.

"The present fuel oil rationing setup is a serious public health hazard and as such, it is a positive national peril," he said. "This dire emergency must be faced, and solved immediately to safeguard health and public morale, and remove a tremendous menace from the war effort in this area.

"Our rationing boards have patriotically shouldered their tasks. They have done as well as any human beings could have done in the face of the bewilderment and confusion which is the result of poor planning in the federal bureaus which are in charge.

"I am informed by medical men thruout the state that if present inadequate conditions continue many more days, we shall be threatened with a marked increase of respirational diseases, such as bronchitis and pneumonia, and even of other ailments attributable to cold, such as mastoid trouble. I am reliably informed that there is plenty of fuel oil in Illinois which can be made available to any one who needs it, so there is no logical reason why any Illinois householder should suffer."

Instances of Suffering.

From truckmen in all parts of the metropolitan area came scores of instances of hardship and suffering by consumers harassed by the rationing plan breakdown.

"If you wish to hear a woman swear try asking for coupons for a few gallons of oil," said Henry Penge of 2939 Elston avenue, a driver for an oil distributor. "A few of them swear at us, but most of them swear with us. They are damning the politicians in Washington."

Penge said each delivery requires at least half an hour longer than formerly because of the work of collecting coupons and checking to make certain the serial number is written in ink on each coupon detached from the ration card.

"Most people are at home awaiting for the oil man to arrive," said Penge. "They are panicky and figure there will be a shortage and that they must get a supply now."

Numbers Customers' Coupons.

Arthur E. Hoelterhoff of 2400 River road, River Grove, who delivers chiefly to owners of small homes, said that many of his customers are unable to write clearly enough to satisfy the ration boards, and that he is obliged to number the coupons for them, thus using more time.

"The girls in the offices who keep the records of the transactions kicked because they couldn't read this stuff thru the oil smudges left by the drivers' fingers," he added. "So each time we make a delivery we have to stop and wash up so we can do the clerical work."

Hoelterhoff said one of his customers is a German who has been in Chicago for five years. "We left Germany to get away from things like this," the customer told him, "and here we are up against the same kinds of difficulties."

David Feldman, head of the Feldman Petroleum company at 544 West Roosevelt road said that "people do not realize that there are 200,000 homes in this city heated only by small independent heaters. The big homes with the fancy oil furnaces are owned by people wealthy enough and smart enough to keep some part of their homes warm, but the little people who buy a few gallons of oil at a time are cold and discouraged. They can't get coupons, and they don't know which way to turn."

August Rocco, a driver for Feldman, reported a home in the 2800 block on Belmont street in which there was a new born baby and no fuel oil. The house was cold. In another house in the 3900 block on North Ashland avenue Rocco found two elderly sisters ill and unable to get out to get their ration coupons. Rocco said he delivered oil to them.

Max Bren, another Feldman driver, said one mother cried when he arrived and asked for coupons before he delivered the oil. "Please let me have it," the woman begged him. "The children all have colds and I'm frightened. Please don't go away. Give me just a little oil." Bren did.

Makes a Mistake.

Frank Chrastka, a driver for the Suburban Oil company of 1100 Garfield street, said he made a delivery in Maywood yesterday before verifying his customer's coupons. He found the customer had sufficient coupons, he said, but did not have them filled out as required by the OPA. When Chrastka told the customer he would have to fill out the coupons properly the customer threw the coupons and the money in his face and slammed the door.

Ted Curran Jr., who has charge of the Suburban Oil company's 19 drivers, said he holds "school" each morning to instruct the drivers on daily changes and supplemental information in the rationing rules. Mistakes of the previous day are reviewed. Curran said drivers required only 10 minutes to load their trucks in past seasons. Under the rationing rules he said it takes an additional half hour to do the bookkeeping required for each load. The company's distribution has slowed down 50 per cent, he said.

Individual users of fuel oil are taking the situation into their own hands in many instances. More than 100 persons stormed the rationing board at 149 North Cicero avenue yesterday, demanding oil rationing books or additional allotments. The board promised them relief within a few days and put oil complaints ahead of complaints about coffee, sugar, and other rationed items.

Contradicts Coupon Statement.

In Lake county, Chairman King of the rationing board, frankly admitted that approximately one-third of the 10,000 fuel oil consumers had not received their coupons, a direct contradiction of Mulcahy's statement that coupons had been delivered to every one.

King tacitly admitted the gravity of the situation by sending urgent wires to the home offices of all major oil companies, urging them to instruct their Lake county dealers to supply coupon-less and suffering customers with oil.

The wires were prompted by complaints from householders that many dealers were adhering to the letter of the law and refusing to deliver oil without coupons. In effect King's request is for a violation of the law under its strict interpretation.

King's wire read in part: "We would like your coöperation to the extent of issuing emergency rations to those homes where there is sickness or actual suffering from want of fuel. . . . We will guarantee that you will receive the necessary coupons from this board."

Urges Minimum Deliveries.

King suggested that the emergency rations delivered without benefit of coupons be held to an absolute minimum, so that the consumers' allotment of coupons could cover the deliveries.

Before dispatching the telegrams King had them approved by Atty. William R. Behanna, former Waukegan corporation counsel and a member of the rationing board, and by Frank Appley of Libertyville, alternate chairman of the board, who said, "My only interest is to see that the people of Lake county get service."

King said that while the majority of persons not yet in possession of their coupons had been receiving oil, an estimated 50 homes were still without fuel.

Send Complaints to Dealers.

"When these people complained to us," he said, "we told them to go to their dealers and ask for oil. Since none has come back, I assume that the dealers have taken care of them."

King said he is appealing to Carter Jenkins, state director of rationing, for additional facilities for Lake county's 14 townships.

Under the present setup residents of the county must travel as far as 22 miles to the board office at Libertyville to get their coupons, or to lodge complaints. Most of them are holders of A cards and complain they can ill afford to expend precious gasoline for the long drive.

Protest Ration Program.

In the Evanston council action, Ald. Merrick's motion, which met with unanimous and enthusiastic approval, said, "I move that this council go on record as opposed to the present fuel oil rationing program, in which the government has created a chaos which must be rectified, and that Mayor S. G. Ingraham be instructed to send telegrams to Senators Wayland Brooks and Scott Lucas, and Congressmen George A. Paddock and Ralph E. Church, demanding that this intolerable situation be relieved."

The telegrams, Mayor Ingraham said, will be sent today.

WARMER BUT NOT FAIR IS WEATHER IN U. S. OFFICES

Chicago Quarters Average 70 to 80 Degrees.

"Comfortably warm" is still the way to describe the temperature in government offices in Chicago, a tour disclosed yesterday. With one exception, the offices appeared to have a normal amount of heat—between 70 and 80 degrees, despite some building managers' assertions that they are attempting to comply with the latest demands for reduced fuel consumption by keeping temperatures between 65 and 70 degrees.

Tho thermometers in the offices were scarce, employés admitted that the rooms are just as cozy as they were before Surgeon General Thomas Parran, of the United States public health service, suggested recently that office temperatures be kept at 65 degrees to meet cooler temperatures prevailing in the homes.

Windows Thrown Open.

There was almost too much heat in the war agencies building at 226 West Jackson boulevard where the temperature was estimated at between 75 and 80 degrees by some employés. Occasionally windows had to be opened to cool the offices. Employés there also complained that they caught colds from the sharp temperature changes between the overheated offices and the drafty corridors.

The building includes the regional headquarters for the office of price administration, the war production board, and the office of emergency management.

The Merchandise Mart, which houses 10,000 federal employés, including the Chicago office of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, wartime fuel coördinator, supplies heat of around 70 degrees, as in the past. R. J. Eisler, operating manager of the building, said his force is "trying to coöperate" with the fuel conservation program but that the building is so huge the warmth varies from office to office. Changing weather conditions and the different number of persons in various parts of the building prevent the engineers from maintaining the same temperature for every one, he said.

Will Stick to 70.

A. J. Lewis, vice president of the 20 North Wacker Drive Building corporation, said he will continue to supply heat of around 70 degrees until he is ordered to keep it at 65 degrees. This temperature keeps employés of the office of war information, army offices, and many other companies comfortably warm.

As usual, "plenty of heat" was felt by guests and employés in the United States Courthouse, the Criminal Courts building, and the city hall.

The park district administration building was the only site visited where the atmosphere was noticeably cool. George T. Donoghue, park district superintendent, said results of keeping the temperature hovering in the vicinity of 65 degrees are more sweaters and more colds.

50 LOADED CARS OF OIL BURN IN ILLINOIS WRECK

Stonefort, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP).—About 50 loaded oil tank cars of an Illinois Central train plunged from a bridge into the Little Saline river five miles south of here at 9 a. m. today and caught fire.

Mrs. Ethel Richardson, a farmer's wife living nearby, said the locomotive and several cars had crossed the bridge when the accident occurred. The bridge was destroyed by flames. Smoke from the burning oil was visible at Harrisburg, more than 20 miles distant.

The wreck was on the Edgewood "cutoff," a short line used to expedite freight shipments.

COFFEE USERS! THIS IS THE LAST DAY FOR RATION

Coffee drinkers who have not yet obtained their war ration book No. 1 [sugar book] were warned last night by Michael F. Mulcahy, office of price administration director for the Chicago metropolitan area, that today is the last day local rationing boards may issue the book.

Stamp No. 27 in the war ration book permits the purchase of one pound of coffee until Jan. 3 by every person 15 years and older. The current ration is one pound every five weeks.

Stamp No. 10 becomes valid tomorrow for the purchase of three pounds of sugar until Jan. 31. Stamp No. 9, also for three pounds, expires at midnight tonight. Industrial and institutional consumers of sugar may apply for their January and February allotments today. The allotments, based on the quantity consumed in the same period a year ago, are 70 per cent for industrial users, 60 per cent for institutional users, and 85 per cent for hospitals.

FINDS WISHFUL THINKING RULES FUEL OIL QUOTAS

Caldwell Reveals Cold Facts Belie Theory.

Strict adherence to the administration's formula for determining oil ration allotments, largely made up of theory and guesswork, would keep Chicago homes at less than 60 degrees instead of the 65 degrees aimed at by ration officials, F. B. Caldwell, secretary of the Burning Oil Distributors association, pointed out yesterday.

Caldwell declared the formula was largely theoretical and guesswork and did not take into account variations in different sections of the country as well as variations in individual homes within each locality.

The square feet of floor space to be heated is used to estimate the fuel oil requirements for a normal year. To the amount of oil consumed for the 1941-'42 heating season 10 per cent was added because in that season the heating requirements were less than normal.

How Guesses Work Out.

If the floor space figure checks fairly well with the oil consumption figure, plus the 10 per cent, it is considered this amount represents the fuel oil requirements for heating the premises to 70 degrees or more in a normal winter. Rationing coupons are issued for approximately two-thirds of this requirement to provide heat for the season at 65 degrees.

Caldwell pointed out, however, that fuel oil requirements for the normal year in Chicago are 115.2 per cent of what they were in the 1941-'42 heating season. To arrive at a fair figure, 15 per cent should have been added to Chicago consumption totals, instead of the 10 per cent adopted by Washington theorists, he said.

To make matters still worse for the Chicago oil consumer, heating requirements this season up to Dec. 1 were 107 per cent of normal, so that the administration method of computing oil rationing is 12 per cent off so far this season. The Chicago oil consumer has been required to use 32.5 per cent more fuel up to Dec. 1 than was required for heating the same premises up to the same date in 1941, Caldwell declared.

Just a Warm-Up for Spring.

The problem of the fuel oil consumer now is to obtain coupons for even a small amount of oil, Caldwell said, but his big problem next spring will be trying to figure out how his allotment of oil will provide him 65 degrees of heat and last out the normal heating season. Caldwell declares that, on the administration's formula for rationing, it can't be done.

Caldwell said colder weather up to Dec. 1 had consumed 19.9 per cent of the degree days of this season, as compared with 15.1 per cent to this date last year and a normal per cent of 18.6. Degree days are measured by the number of degrees the mean temperature of a 24-hour day falls below 65 degrees. There would be 1 degree day when the mean temperature was 64 and 65 degree days when the mean temperature was zero. The total degree days to Dec. 1 this year were 1,285, compared with 970 degree days for the same period last year and a normal of 1,199.

'L' LINES ACCEPT PANEL HEARING ON STRIKE THREAT

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [the elevated railroad] said last night that it approved of the suggestion of a conciliation panel to consider the wage dispute between the company and its 4,500 workers. The workers voted to walk out next Sunday unless they were granted a blanket wage increase of 9 cents an hour for all employés and a 14 cent boost for those in the lower pay groups.

The panel hearing was suggested by Harry E. Scheck, department of labor conciliation commissioner, who was appointed conciliator yesterday. He said he would confer with William F. Levander, president of the union, this morning and that a joint conference of both parties would follow at 3 p. m. in the elevated lines offices in room 1234 of the Edison building.

Mayor Kelly, commenting on the dispute, said: "I hope they will find some way of settling this without crippling the service in these chaotic times. We must provide transportation for defense workers."

The war labor board's office in Chicago and the Illinois commerce commission said they had no jurisdiction to act in the wage dispute.

CALL OFF 16 HOUR TRANSIT STRIKE AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 14 (AP).—Striking workers of the Baltimore Transit company voted tonight to return to work immediately after they had been told by A. H. Keeler, international representative of their union that, if they did so, the war labor board would "see to it" that a previously issued WLB order to the company was obeyed by 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The transit company had been ordered last month to set up grievance machinery for union members, tho it had not been required to recognize the union as the bargaining agent. Representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés [AFL] charged that the company refused to meet with them. Keeler said he had been assured by the WLB that the company must comply with the order or face White House action.

The strikers for 16 hours had tied up 30 per cent of the city's trolley and bus facilities.

Find Coupons Worth 100,000 Gallons.

Federal authorities announced yesterday that they had broken up plans to establish a black market in gasoline sales with the secret arrest of three men last week. Gasoline coupons, enough to purchase 100,000 gallons, were found in their possession.

Those arrested are George Bogart, 41; his brother, Harry, 36, and Charles J. Brady, 29, all of New York City. Agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the federal secret service office here, said that the three confessed and named several accomplices in New York.

Seized on South Side.

The three were seized on the south side last Friday while negotiating for the sale of the coupons. The Bogart brothers, who operate several filling stations in New York, said they had obtained the coupons from an employé of a large oil company in the eastern city.

Federal agents said that the coupons were authentic and had come from B and C books. The federal agents believed that they had been stolen from returns made by dealers to the company. The three prisoners were taken to New York, where other arrests were made.

Ruined Expectations.

The Bogart brothers said they had expected to sell the coupons to gas dealers and filling station owners, who in turn were supposed to sell the gasoline to motorists at a price above the normal rate. The owners then would have turned the coupons over to refiners or jobbers when they had to replenish their stocks.

The information on the Bogart brothers' attempts to sell the coupons was received several weeks ago by Michael F. Mulcahy, OPA director for the metropolitan area, who turned it over to Capt. Callaghan's office.

The men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker Saturday and they agreed to waive extradition to New York. The information on the arrests was withheld until the federal authorities could make additional arrests in the east.

Ladies of the Bars Climb Back on Their Pedestals

Promptly at midnight last night hundreds of women who had been waiting patiently at tables, made a rush for bar stools, which they could occupy legally for the first time since last Aug. 17. Many of the outlying taverns had permitted women with escorts to sit at the bar when it was learned the council had rescinded the ban, several weeks ago.

OPA MAKES TIRE BUYERS PAY FOR USED TURN-INS

Ingenious Scheme Adds to Ceiling Prices.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rep. Albert J. Engel.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Rep. Albert J. Engel [R., Mich.], regaled the house today with the details of what he termed the prize scheme for plaguing motorists arising out of the tire rationing program. He charged that under a plan approved by the Office of Price administration tire dealers in Michigan are forcing motorists to pay them for taking their old tires and tubes in the sale of new ones.

The Michigan representative, who is famed for his one man investigations of government activities under the New Deal, said it is hard for him to believe but that's the way it is being done, and, to prove it, he showed a photostatic copy of a bill of sale given him by W. H. Wilcox, a farmer living near Muskegon.

An Involved Transaction.

According to Engel, Wilcox received a permit recently from his rationing board allowing him two new tires and four new tubes. He consulted the OPA price ceilings and found that the purchase would cost him a total of $47.10 but, said Engel, imagine his surprise when he presented the permit to his dealer and learned that the cost would be $58.78.

First, explained the dealer, there would be the Michigan sales tax, $1.41; and a federal excise tax, $3.02. Then there would be a charge of $7.04 for turning in his worn out tires and tubes, Wilcox was told. When he asked why, he was informed that it was an OPA regulation.

But that was not the end, Engel continued. Wilcox was required not only to hand over the payment for having his old tires and tubes taken in by the dealer but also another 21 cents for sales tax on the transaction.

Unique Tire Bill.

Quan.	Description.	Price.	Amount.
2	600x16 tires........	$16.25	$32.50
4	C. D. 16 G&B tubes.	3.65	14.60
	Tire return cost....	2.36	4.72
	Tube return cost..	.58	2.32
	Total		$54.14
	Sales tax....................		1.62
	Total		$55.76
	Tire excise tax............	1.03	2.06
	Tube excise tax...........	.24	.96
	Total		$58.78

Conforms to Regulations.

Engel said that when he telephoned the OPA to register Wilcox's complaint he was told that the deal apparently was in order and conformed to the rationing regulations. The Michigan congressman, who has dealt with the New Deal agencies before, demanded that the OPA reply be put in writing. A few days later, he said, he received the following letter:

"On April 25, 1942, by amendment No. 1 to revised price schedule No. 63, a 16 per cent increase in maximum retail prices for passenger car tires and tubes became effective. This increase was the amount necessary to cover the costs incurred under the dealer-tire return plan, which as you known was a program designed to aid tire dealers by permitting them to return stocks of passenger car tires and tubes to the government. In compliance with the wishes of this office, the trade has been billing this amount separately and identifying it as attributable to the tire return plan."

Engel asserted that the OPA explanation indicates that tire dealers are being subsidized by the government receiving a 16 per cent subsidy which buyers of new tires and tubes are being compelled to pay.

Film Actress Mary Astor (right) with Mrs. Herbert Marshall in Los Angeles yesterday.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP).—Mary Astor, screen actress, obtained a divorce today from Manuel del Campo, officer in the royal Canadian air force. Her allegations that Del Campo would become intoxicated and stay out late nights were corroborated by her friend, Mrs. Herbert Marshall, wife of the actor. Custody of their son, Anthony Paul del Campo, 2 years old, was given Miss Astor. She agreed to support the child while the father is at war. Del Campo and Miss Astor were married Feb. 18, 1937.

$25,000 Damages Awarded for Plane Crash Death

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP).—A jury today awarded Mrs. Margaret C. Whittemore $25,000 damages for the death of her husband in an airplane crash four and one-half years ago near Saugus, Cal. Fred W. Whittemore, then vice president and manager of operations for Northwest Air-lines of St. Paul, died in the crash of a transport plane May 16, 1938. The verdict was against Lockheed Aircraft company.

SERVICE MEN LET WOMEN ESCAPE, THEN DIED IN FIRE

St. John's Disaster Toll 99 Dead, 109 Hurt.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Dec. 14 (AP).—Soldiers and sailors apparently gave their lives to save women in the disastrous barn dance fire Saturday night that claimed 99 victims dead and 109 injured, authorities reported tonight.

The ruins of the L shaped Knights of Columbus hostel—grotesque with its ice covered twisted wreckage—still were being searched for possible additional victims, and a mass funeral was planned tomorrow for the fighting men who died in the holocaust.

[In Washington, D. C., the war department said a preliminary report indicated that only one American soldier, whose name was not reported to Washington, had died in the blaze. There were about 15 Americans in the building at the time.]

Tried to Flee too Late.

The list of injured included four United States soldiers, none of whose names was announced. There were only a few women among the injured.

Authorities said the majority of women at the dance escaped, when the service men delayed their own escapes to help their companions out. Most of the bodies piled near the exits were those of soldiers and sailors, who apparently dashed for safety too late when the flames whipped thru the two story wooden building. Many were trapped in sleeping quarters upstairs.

Official announcements last night said 110 persons had been killed and 102 injured, but the death toll was scaled down in checks today. Only 59 of the dead had been officially identified early tonight, and all were from Newfoundland. Four of the 104 injured were reported in critical condition.

Cause of the blaze, which occurred exactly two weeks after the Boston night club fire that claimed nearly 500 lives, still had not been determined tonight.

Tells Sailor's Heroism.

One eyewitness told how he saw a sailor standing, silhouetted by flames, in the windows and lifting or helping girls to safety until, himself overcome, he staggered back to perish.

Another sailor had to be restrained from reëntering the blazing wreckage after he had repeatedly dashed into the building to drag several unconscious girls to safety.

One 16 year old boy told how he dashed for an exit when the fire broke out, but found it blocked, and rushed to another. He was jammed against a doorpost, but when the panicky crowd gave a convulsive heave he was tumbled out into the street head-first, with his hair afire.

Chain Grocery Warehouse Burns; Loss Put at Million

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP).—Fire today destroyed the branch offices and warehouse of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company. Harry W. Bracy, manager, estimated the damage at more than a million dollars. Between 25 and 30 men were working in the building when the fire started. Fire fighting equipment from Carbondale, Murphysboro, and Herron helped to fight the blaze. Between 15 and 20 large trucks were destroyed.

PACK OF U-BOATS SINKS PRISONER SHIP; 1,800 LOST

1,040 Saved; 6 or 7 Subs Swarm to Attack.

was on a raft with others, said a German submarine approached the raft between 1 and 2 a. m. the day after the attack.

"They took me below, gave me a hot spiced drink, and ordered me to remove my clothing so it would get dry," he said.

The U-boat commander told him he would radio the survivors' position and would "give us safe escort to any ship in the neighborhood" and would not attack as long as the submarine was not attacked.

130 Picked Up by U-Boat.

"The U-boat submerged then and did not surface until 9 a. m.," he said. "Later the commander said he had picked up 130 persons from life rafts but that it was impossible to keep them abroad because of the shortage of air.

"He said he had located some lifeboats and that we were to go on top, where he divided the survivors among several lifeboats he had rounded up."

Later, the men in the engineer's lifeboat and those in three other boats decided to sail for land. The four boats had gone 120 miles when one of them was stopped by an Italian submarine.

The submarine crew told the boat's occupants: "You damned British are always determined," and then towed the boat 120 miles back to the area from which it had started. The other three lifeboats were stopped by a German submarine whose crew fed them and told them to remain where they were and they would be rescued. They were picked up by the warship four hours later.

Apologizes for Italians.

Survivors told naval officers here that one submarine took several women and children from a lifeboat, saying they would receive better treatment aboard the submersible. At the same time the Germans placed aboard the lifeboat eight Italians they had picked out of the sea.

"I apologize for having to put the Italians with you Britishers," the U-boat commander told the occupants of the lifeboat.

The ship's third engineer said he was in charge of a lifeboat in which there were 20 Italians, 18 Britishers, and 4 Polish guards. He said a submarine came to the surface near them and placed 36 more Italians aboard the boat.

The next morning the third engineer was taken aboard a submarine, whose crew questioned him concerning the war, explaining they had been out of contact with news for several months.

Treated Well, Says Officer.

The RAF officer who was landed here said survivors were treated "remarkably well" aboard the French cruiser. It put in briefly at Dakar for water, food, and oil, and then went on to Casablanca.

"We were placed in an internment camp about 12 miles from town," he said. "We were treated well there, considering the shortage of clothing and food. They gave us soup, eggs, dried vegetables, and dark bread. The women and children were placed in a separate camp. We did not see them after we left the cruiser."

Baseball was the internees' principal recreation during the eight weeks they were in the camp. The ground was too rough for cricket, so they fashioned baseballs of rags and used pick ax handles for bats.

Forty Flee Internment Camp.

Another RAF officer told reporters that toward the end of their internment "about 40 of us escaped from a railroad station while being transferred to another camp farther inland."

"Five of us walked 30 miles thru plowed fields and went into a café 10 miles from Fedhala," he said. "We were wondering how we would get thru the French lines when an American jeep came along and carried us to Fedhala, where we were treated royally by the American soldiers."

The torpedo sinking of an American freighter, with the loss of 39 lives, also was announced today by the navy. The ship was sunk last month in the Atlantic. Fourteen crew members were rescued. The attack brought to 557 the number of vessels sunk in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

L. R. writes: "My husband is about to be inducted into the army. We have lived in the same house for 11 years and are well respected in the community. No one knows that we are not legally married. Will I be entitled to an allowance? I read your column every day, and I would be grateful for your advice."

ANSWER: If you are a resident of the state of Illinois, you will not be eligible for benefits under the servicemen's dependents act. Common law marriages are not recognized in this state, and the Office of Dependency Benefits follows the state ruling in cases such as yours. If it is at all possible, I suggest that you legalize your relationship as soon as possible.

Mrs. R. U. writes: "My husband was inducted into the army last month. He applied for an allowance for me and asked me to have a photostatic copy of our marriage record made to be sent to him to be submitted to the proper authorities. I had the copy made last Saturday, but before I could get it mailed to him, it, along with the original certificate, was destroyed by fire."

ANSWER: Inasmuch as your documentary evidence has been destroyed, it would be best for you to go to the original source of the evidence and see if you cannot obtain either a certified copy of the church or public record of your marriage, or, if that is not possible, a sworn statement by the person who married you, which would be acceptable. If you are not able to obtain that type of proof, sworn statements by the persons who witnessed the marriage probably would suffice.

Mrs. E. E. writes: "I hope you can help me. My son left home over a year ago. He was 15 years old at the time, and we have heard nothing from him since. Friends of his have recently told me that he had written to an acquaintance stating that he was in the marines and stationed in California. He did not say whether he was using his own name. I have done everything I can to locate him in the past and wonder if you can tell me how I can find out definitely if he is in that branch of the service."

ANSWER: Unless your son misrepresented his age, I doubt whether it would be possible for him to be in under his own name. If he did use his correct name, you might write to the Adjutant and Inspection headquarters, United States Marine corps, Washington, D. C., and state the facts in the case as you have in your letter to me. That office can advise you as to the possibilities of tracing your son.

Mrs. M. M. writes: "My husband has written me that he now is a 2d class petty officer in the navy. He wrote that I would receive a check every month, but I don't know just how much I will receive. Will it be the $50 a month which other wives are now receiving? I am unable to get in touch with him at the present time. There are no children."

ANSWER: If your husband is a petty officer 2d class, he is in the third pay grade and is ineligible for benefits under the servicemen's dependents act under which wives receive an allowance of $50 a month. He will be able to send you any amount of money he wishes from his own salary. The check which he refers to probably is the rental allowance, which is generally $37.50 a month. That is an allowance for married men, but it will be necessary for your husband to register for it. Judging from his statement, it seems likely that he has done so.

E. F. asks: "Will you please send me a form of affidavit for the use of class 'B' dependents of army men, and also one for class 'A' dependents, if you have it?"

ANSWER: We are forwarding the affidavits for class "B" dependents as per your request. No affidavits are necessary for class "A" dependents. Proof of relationship is the only evidence required. In the case of a wife, a certified copy of the marriage record will suffice, or if the benefits are for a child, a certified copy of the birth certificate.

MUTE ORDERED BACK TO PRISON IN ATTACK CASE

Edwin Fischer, 25 years old, 3427 Emerald avenue, a deaf mute, accused by a 22 year old girl, who is also a deaf mute of attacking her after offering to escort her home from a Bible class last Tuesday night, will be returned to Pontiac reformatory for violation of parole, Municipal Judge Samuel Heller ruled yesterday. Judge Heller suspended fines against Fischer and his brother, Robert, 21, also a deaf mute, accused of aiding him in the attack, on disorderly conduct charges. Robert was placed on six months' probation.

Judge Heller said that police had grounds for disorderly conduct charges against the pair in that they forced the girl into an automobile in Chicago. The alleged attack, however, took place in Indiana, near Hammond, preventing the filing of a more serious charge in Chicago courts.

Edwin, in a written statement, said he was attempting to get the young woman to marry him after she repeatedly had rejected his proposals. He has been paroled from the reformatory on an auto theft charge.

SAVACHKA DENIES DODGING DRAFT; TRIAL DATE IS SET

Michael Savachka, former secretary-treasurer of the Retail Clerks' union, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned before Judge William J. Campbell in federal district court on a charge of violating the draft law. His trial was set for Feb. 9.

Savachka was a fugitive from June, 1941, until last Oct. 20, when he was arrested in Miami, Fla., by government agents. He said he had fled Chicago at the instigation of Max Caldwell, ex-czar of the clerks' union, who was under fire in connection with the alleged mishandling of $910,000 in union funds.

Caldwell was arrested in Florida after Savachka's arrest on a charge of helping him violate the draft regulations.

BAR GETS FRESH WITH NEW DEAL AND WILLKIE, TOO

Only Rations in Annual Show Are Gyrations.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

The Chicago Bar Association got hep to the law of levity last night and presented a show that made Henderson, Willkie, Hopkins, McNutt, and their cohorts look like a bunch of cats in zoot suits. The show, the 18th annual production of "Christmas Spirits," called "Injudicious Judgments" this year was presented in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel and will be repeated tonight.

Judge John C. Lewe sang courtroom commercials in conga rhythm; State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney described a defendant as being so much in debt that "she has more attachments on her than a vacuum cleaner"; and the staid senior partners of a law firm clung to their clerks and stenos by jitterbugging so ecstatically that the stenos' "figures" slipped.

Caricature of Henderson.

John D. Black, as a mop-headed version of Price Administrator Leon Henderson, bemoaned his disagreeable habits:

"My name is Leon Henderson, I run around in shorts,
And I regulate my countrymen, their business and their sports.
I keep their gas tanks empty, and keep them short of tires."

A luscious-lipped caricature of Wendell Willkie [Ernest F. Staub] hugged and kissed Russian and Chinese girls [Harry C. Daley and Leo J. Bartoline] and fired a near-miss at a pop-eyed Ethiopian lass [Walter P. Murphy]. Walter H. Chambers, as Harry Hopkins, roused himself from immersion in the columns of the "Daily Worker" to dreamily sing of his hallucinations:

"I'm a bridegroom and I love the White House,
There I work both day and night with liberty,
As the power behind the throne
I have made my presence known
From the Kremlin to the far off Coral sea;
In my subtle way I plan your future,
Fooling doctors with my great longevity;
While on social problems ravish
With billions I always was lavish,
As a husband quite frugal I'll be."

Chorus of Judges.

A preview of the day of womanless juries—the day when "they will refuse to have anything to do with lawyers, in line with our policy of giving up all nonessentials"—brought a chorus of 21 frock-coated judges onto the stage. Tho ordinarily on the bench—and not a Grant Park bench as Judge Benjamin P. Epstein suspected of Judge Walter J. LaBuy—the judges were being impaneled as jurors.

Proceedings were interrupted by the intrusion of the manpower board led by Paul McBolt [Judge Cecil C. Smith]. Purportedly searching for steamfitters and welders, the board groaned with disgust when it learned all were lawyers.

"Paul, you said you'd draft any one who could hear thunder or see lightning!" cried Judge Jay A. Shiller.

Except for the prelude of patriotic songs, with the chief swingaroo of them all, "Yankee Doodle Dandy" sung by Edward Hershenson looking like a Boy Scout in a doughboy suit, all skits and lyrics were written by members of the association.

2 CHILDREN DIE, 4 OTHERS SAVED AS HOME BURNS

Charles City, Ia., Dec. 14 (AP).—Two small children burned to death in their home here today, raising to five the death toll from fires in Iowa over the week-end.

Betty Lee, 2 years old, and Marlene, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wentz, died as four other children and the mother escaped. The father and three other children were away.

Mrs. Wentz carried 7 months old Ronald and Glen Jr., 9, from the burning house. Robert, 5, tried to waken Marlene, then ran thru the flames to safety, and Charles, 12, jumped from a second floor window.

Winfield Pelton, an old age pensioner, was found dead last night in the fire razed house he had built himself at Britt.

Leonard Luschen, 22, and his sister, Dorothy, 20, of near Brunsville, burned to death yesterday in their automobile after it struck the side of a North Western train at Brunsville.

KILLED IN BASEMENT FIGHT.

GRANT BUS LINES SOME LEEWAY ON CUT IN MILEAGE

Procedures under which the much criticized methods of operating surface lines bus routes might be modified were ironed out yesterday at a conference attended by Mayor Kelly and Guy A. Richardson, chief of the local transportation division of the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington.

While the ODT executive made it plain that his organization will not permit any relief from the demanded 15 per cent reduction of bus mileage—either of the surface lines or the Chicago Motor Coach company—he said that the method of making the cut was discretionary and that H. B. Potter, regional ODT head, would have authority to make any changes deemed wise.

Potter has called a meeting today in his office, 209 South Wells street, to discuss suggested changes. Among those invited are engineers representing the surface lines, the city, ODT, and the Illinois Commerce commission.

NIGHT CLUB FIRE CAUSES INCREASE IN DEATH RATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The Boston night club fire, fatal to nearly 500 persons, was partly responsible for an increase of 13 per cent in deaths reported by 87 major cities, the census bureau said today.

The bureau said 9,628 deaths were reported by the cities during the week ended Dec. 5, an increase of 1,166, or 13.8 per cent over the previous week.

Excluding deaths from the Boston fire the increase was 8.2 per cent. During the previous week 8,462 deaths were reported.

YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE!

If you travel over the Holidays,
YOU MAY HAVE TO STAND

In seasons past, it gave us pleasure to provide... plenty of trains... plenty of berths ...plenty of seats...so that everyone could travel comfortably to family reunions.

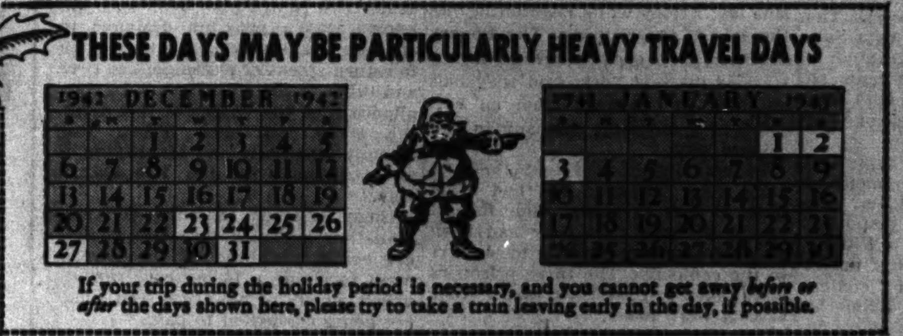
But this wartime Christmas it will be a different story. Much of our Pullman and coach equipment that served holiday travel is now busy carrying troops. What remains is not sufficient to accommodate in comfort the crowds that usually climb aboard.

Besides, the cars available must provide for large numbers of service men traveling on leave, perhaps to have their last holiday dinner with the family in a long time.

So, if you plan a trip over the holiday period, chances are there will be neither Pullman nor coach accommodations available. Standing room may be all that is left.

We're genuinely sorry this is the outlook, but these are war days—and the demands of war must come first. To the best of our ability, we shall endeavor to serve those who must travel, with the equipment at hand.

THESE DAYS MAY BE PARTICULARLY HEAVY TRAVEL DAYS



If your trip during the holiday period is necessary, and you cannot get away before or after the days shown here, please try to take a train leaving early in the day, if possible.

Please travel light! If you take only one bag aboard there will be more room and comfort for everyone!

In New York...is your Public Relations Advertising

or private?

Since Pearl Harbor this kind of advertising has grown tremendously in importance.

People are told...their water heater has gone to war...the new auto they would have owned is now a tank...the Navy is using our washing machines to clean up Japs—and so on.

Advertisers who formerly sold tangible merchandise—must now sell intangibles.

Advertisers with public relations copy are fighting a battle to keep alive brand names that cost millions to establish—or are they?

They are telling the American people what they are doing about the war—or are they?

Are they telling the people—or are they telling their boards of directors, their friends, other executives, government heads, and their more affluent stockholders?

Are they reaching the public—or flattering their own vanity?

An examination of a large part of the advertising now running shows only too well that much Public Relations copy is not being made public! No, it is being kept private!

Some concerns, it is true, are telling the people. But many advertisers are appealing only to small minorities—are not going before the masses of people.

They are really running private relations copy.

To do a real public relations job—your message must reach the public.

The News has something for the public relations advertiser. That something is the public, the American people! On Sunday The News reaches nearly twelve per cent of all American families.

The News is read by 71% of the families in the country's largest city! These are the families the majority of public relations advertisers should reach—but many are not reaching them.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1942.

Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political, and religious rights of free men.—Junius.

THE TASK AHEAD.

The new congress will convene in Washington on Jan. 6, three weeks hence. It will contain many new members, almost all of them Republicans.

Most of the newcomers have never served in Washington. In ordinary circumstances they would be expected to take things easy in their first session and devote themselves to learning the ropes and making acquaintances. With few exceptions, the new congressmen would no doubt much prefer to follow this diffident course if only to avoid mistakes.

The times demand something very different. When the voters on Nov. 3 put an end to the 10 year reign of the New Dealers in congress, the expectation was that the new men would introduce a new, aggressive, militant spirit in congress. That is what the people want and it is what they are entitled to. They will properly resent inaction on the part of their representatives. The new congressmen must forego any desire they may have to serve a period as rookies, and from the opening day they must be prepared to enter the thick of the fight. They can do so in the knowledge that, more than any other group in congress, they represent the wishes of the majority of the American people today. They bear the mandate of Nov. 3.

They were elected to congress to revivify its spirit. They can consider themselves as lobbyists for Americans in Washington.

Against the new members will be arrayed the foreign lobbyists with their millionaire and Communist backing, who have far more influence in the executive departments than do all the Americans together. The need of the hour is to return the American government to the hands of Americans.

The new members can do much to revive the spirits of colleagues worn out in the long struggle against overwhelming odds. More than that, the new men must speak for the vast majority of their countrymen who despise the kowtowing to runaway monarchs; who insist that America's effort in this war shall be exerted for the benefit of our country first; who believe in constitutional government and mean to keep it. We don't need a dictatorship of the familiar European model to win the war. The new members must dedicate themselves to saving the republic from the aliens and alien ideas and influences that would destroy it.

HOW CRITICAL ARE THE CRITICAL MATERIALS?

THE TRIBUNE undertook recently to explore the field of substitutes for rubber tires. It has received a number of suggestions from inventors and manufacturers, some of which appear to have their uses in certain vehicular fields.

A common characteristic of these devices, however, is that while they require little or no rubber, crude, reclaimed, or synthetic, they do require small quantities of other so-called critical materials, usually steel. Under present priority and allocation practices, it is as hopeless to try to make the substitutes as it would be to try to make rubber tires. And that is silly.

Assume that the administration has bungled the rubber situation as badly as its spokesmen imply by their panicky talk. We do know that strange influences have operated to retard construction of synthetic rubber plants, and that the Japs have Malaya and the East Indies. But the Japs haven't got the Lake Superior ore fields. We are producing steel at our greatest rate in history.

A rational mind should make some distinction between a material that is "critical" because the former source of supply has been cut off and one that is "critical" merely because demand has more than kept pace with the greatest supply in our industrial history. In the latter instance the essential service of normal motor transportation to the war effort should assure that materials be allocated to keep it running.

Frequently THE TRIBUNE has said that American ingenuity can solve the tire shortage. It becomes necessary to amend that statement. American ingenuity can solve the tire shortage if burocratic stupidity doesn't stifle it.

PACIFIC SECURITY.

Hubert Wilkins, the ladies' club explorer who wants the United States to give Alaska to the Japs as a gesture of appeasement, didn't bring that idea forth as an original stroke of genius. Brought forward nearly a decade ago as Japanese propaganda, the fantastic notion was actually sponsored by certain types of internationalists. The Pacific Fisherman, a trade magazine published in Seattle, quoted a Japanese spokesman on the subject four years ago.

The Japanese, Retsu K. Kiyosawa, rang the changes on the familiar "have not" argument and concluded by suggesting that certain African territories, New Guinea, Borneo, Siberia, and Alaska be turned over to an international committee for exploitation "in the interest of mankind." [The Japs now have Borneo and New Guinea, but have not brought up the international committee idea.]

"The United States," said Kiyosawa, "has already commenced such an undertaking on a domestic scale—I refer to President Roosevelt's New Deal. A similar policy on an international scale is worth trying. America can do this by offering Alaska to redistribution."

Kiyosawa apparently felt that it would do no harm to ask. To his eyes, what he wanted was no sillier than what was already being handed out in Washington.

But whatever else may be written into the peace treaty—and the mystical emanations from the New Dealers leave an almost unlimited field for speculation—there will be no alienation of American territory. Having established, thru the Monroe doctrine, that no South American territory can go to a European or Asiatic nation, we certainly do not intend to yield any of our own.

Unless, however, the war ends in the total annihilation of the Japanese people, there is going to be a continuing problem of security in the Pacific basin. Instead of some grandiose and unworkable world scheme, a regional agreement in which self-interest born of the lessons of this war furnishes the activating force might provide the better solution of the problem. The parties to such a treaty would be the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. As our contributions would be largest, the leadership naturally belongs to the United States.

THIS IS IT.

This is the Planned Society. It is in full winter bloom this December. People who have heard tell of it ever since March, 1933, need not go to conservatories to see the exotic plant. It is all over their own premises. The social and economic aims of the planners before the war were made immediately possible of attainment by the war. What they regarded as the desirable American life was put into effect by wartime scarcities. These may not be the citizen's idea of halcyon days, but they are full sized samples of the ultimate social gains which have been in prospectus since 1933. This is what has been talked about.

The great complicated mechanism of society has been hitched to scores of political control rooms where wirepullers try to move the people in all their activities—a Punch and Judy show with the strings snarled. The new procedures are said to be the constituents of an orderly society substituted for the chaos of free activity. You are in the anteroom of the new order, which is to be scientifically and intelligently planned and managed. You have been told that political democracy was only a stage on the way to the economic democracy. That is what the present disorder is called.

War made the transition from free to controled activity possible but there had been much preparation for it. A planned scarcity, called the ever normal granary, had been in operation for years, farmers being paid for what they didn't grow. The little pigs who didn't go to market were early items in the managed economy which has swept pork products off the boards. The planned scarcity is now on the retailers' shelves and in the householders' cupboards.

When the procurement divisions of the armed forces went thru the country buying up for anticipated needs they garnered in the available supplies and left the civilian face to face with the managed economy. He now has a full experience with what the planners have described to him as an ideal method of managing a society competent to meet all the needs of all the people. It is more than a preview. It is a first hand acquaintance with the social gains which were to come as a blessing to society in the course of an evolution which had been planned that way.

The householder understands that he is in this jam because there is a war. That is only a half truth because what he is getting represents an economic ideal of the persons who have been responsible for government in this country since 1933. Without a change in government the procedures will be continued after the war ceases to give an excuse for them.

Some of the more extravagant consequences—and they're not very extravagant at that—illustrate what is happening under the governmental controls. A dairy farmer can't get enough gasoline to take his milk to town because he was refused enough to get back to the farm with empty cans. Empty cans do not rate fuel. They are nonessential. An undertaker was denied gasoline for the return trip for the same reason. He didn't have anything to take back to the office. The meat rationers take no account of war industries and new populations. Detroit is one city which has had no meat at all. The west coast had the same experience.

The fuel oil allowances take no account of special considerations and conditions. Invalids, the aged, infants and infirm, the robust and healthy all looked alike to the ration book. Instances have occurred in every person's experience to prove that what was called the chaos of free activities was an orderly system of self-management and that the governmental undertaking to prescribe what is essential and how it may be obtained is a return to the wilderness.

Possibly we will have enough experience with the totalitarian state in these war emergencies to resolve that we want to have nothing to do with it. It has not produced intelligent management, altho there has been a willing coöperation on the part of the people to do what was expected of them. They have regarded it as their duty to follow instructions, conform to regulations, and take what they get. There has been protest and objection only when the management became nonsensical, destructive, and even brutal. The American people are pretty good at adjusting themselves to conditions which have to be met and to extemporizing methods of dealing with emergencies. They haven't been able to make the planned society work and the managers of it have not proved that they could manage it.

The war gave the planned society its chance. Here it is and you can decide whether you care for it as a permanent institution.

NO TRUCE IN THE BATTLE OF PRODUCTION.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Altho America has some amazing achievements to its credit in the battle of production, we can no more take it easy on this front than we can on the military front. That is the gist of the reports issued to summarize the record of industry in the nation's first year at war.

This country alone is now outproducing the axis, says the Office of War Information. Despite its tremendous gains, however, the goals set by President Roosevelt last January have been attained in only one classification—merchant shipping.

War production has been quadrupled in the year since Pearl Harbor, says the National Association of Manufacturers. "Conversion has been almost miraculous." But the NAM calls attention to four possible danger factors: rubber shortage, unbalanced flow of raw materials, the inflation threat, and man power shortage.

Donald M. Nelson, while praising the over-all record, says in his monthly report today that the figures for October are "disappointing." Production increased 3 per cent over September, the smallest monthly gain this year. Planes and merchant vessels actually showed a decrease from the September figures.

Since the goals for 1943 are greater than those for the year now coming to a close, it is clear that the tempo of production must be increased. As our fighting men come more and more to grips with the axis forces, they will need increased numbers of planes, guns, tanks, munitions, and ships. We have not yet overcome the advantage gained by our enemies in their years of preparing for this war. We have not remedied all the bottlenecks that have been slowing up production at crucial spots.

Factory workers and industrial management have served their country surpassingly well. Before they can relax, however, even greater production records will have to be attained.

Statesmen, orators, poets, prophets and other high-minded citizens strive mightily to strike the universal note, but as often as not their words are like the crackling of thorns under a pot. But take note of much-married Tommy Manville, certainly not a soulful person, who after a conjugal squabble in a restaurant achieved the universal without trying:

"I always order right away. She studies and studies and finally says, 'Really, there's nothing on the menu I like.'"

A full account of the Japanese political murders of May 15, 1932, when the plotters had Charlie Chaplin's name on their death list, is given in "Government by Assassination," by Hugh Byas, recently published. The ringleader testified at his trial:

"We believed that killing Chaplin would cause a war with America."

"Why, then," asked the judge, possibly trying to be ironical, "did you give up your splendid plan?"

Confessions of a Salad Forker.

I have always felt that the salad should be placed on the right hand side of the plate, where a fellow could get at it. What is the sense of putting the salad on the left hand side, unless you are left-handed, which I am not.

It results, with me, in reaching way over my plateful of steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, and in trying to keep my sleeve out of the food. I nearly always scoop up a plentiful helping of mashed potatoes in my sleeve. It may be good business for the cleaners, but it's heck on the suit.

Just to make it more confusing, there is a salad fork to be used for nothing but the salad, so I have to switch from the dinner fork to the salad fork and back again, and when the meal is finished I'm completely befuddled. The salad fork has one tine wider than the rest, ostensibly to cut the salad. It wouldn't cut the mashed potatoes, much less the salad. It's silly, and I protest.

Well, at the Line contributors' dinner I noticed that all the salads were at the right, a long table of them. I said to Larry, also on my right: "Look, the salads are on the right." "Yes," she said meekly.

So we ate our dinner, and when we were all thru I looked at the left hand side of my plate, and there was an untouched salad, so I asked Larry: "Whose salad is that?"

And she replied: "It's yours, dear; we have both been eating my salad." Roy Engel.

(Editor's note: The world has been topsy-turvy ever since salads started coming in with the soup.)

The Curious King of Crete.

[A parody of "The Quizzical Queen of Crete," printed Dec. 3.]

Let me sing the song of the king of Crete,
Who always answered, "Yes, my sweet!"
To the queen who sat beside the throne
And ruled land and king, tho all unknown,
For the people bowed to the sceptered king
And his word was law in everything!
He ordered men to the far-off seas
For her dazzling gems and ivories;
He built his palace of pearl and gold
[And half its wonder has never been told],
Who ruled king and kingdom behind the scene;
And the far stars shone in her midnight hair
Tho the king bent low and kissed her glove,
And softly murmured, "Yes, my love!"
His treasure bought her an ermine coat,
And his was the thong about her throat,
But hers was the whip that lashed his heart
And hers were the words that sting and smart,
But this is a song of the long ago,
And the sands of the desert that shift and blow
Move over the grave of the king of Crete
As he sleeps in slumber, deep and sweet;
And he rests content thru each endless year,
For he never more answers, "Yes, my dear!"
And nobody knows and nobody cares
For the queen of Crete and her own affairs.

When Will the War End?

Whenever a wishful thinker tells us that Lloyds' is offering odds that the war will end next August we will read him this passage from the Old Farmer's Almanac for 1943:

"A new cycle of sun spots began in 1933, so don't look to same for a change in luck or weather for a while yet, as this one lasts until 1961."

A COLD WEATHER VISITOR—WINTER ITCH.

EACH season brings its problem to the skin. When perspiration is profuse it may chafe—even to the point of irritation. But when Boreas descends with his icy grip the annoyance may be severe. With a few victims, the symptoms may be bothersome, even incapacitating. The patient will complain that after he has settled down for the night the torment begins. During activity, while some trouble may be experienced, it is mild in comparison with the response which comes shortly after going to bed.

TEMPERATURE

The legs are affected chiefly, altho a fine eruption may cover the entire body with the exception of the head and face. The lesions are dry, having a tendency to scale slightly. The desire to scratch is irresistible. Many an episode has been mistaken for scabies because furrowlike streaks of inflammation may appear.

Now, the whole matter may be ascribed to cold, which disturbs particularly those who possess a dry cuticle. As a rule, after middle life, the oil glands function less efficiently. Furthermore, many of us are inclined to overheat our homes without adequate humidity. In consequence, the epidermis takes on a harsh character with a certain amount of thickening. Then bacteria enter upon the scene because the fingernails are never clean and germs may be inoculated immediately beneath the surface.

Those who have exhibited this disorder year after year will do well to anoint the skin routinely with a bland ointment such as lanolin or cocoa butter. Sterile olive oil is also effective. In other words, lubrication is our best preventive.

For the time being the daily bath may be omitted, especially the use of soap. Much relief has been obtained by adding a half pound of soluble starch to a tub partly filled with lukewarm water. The sufferer lies in the solution for 10 to 20 minutes with very little of the customary scrubbing. Drying is accomplished by patting with a Turkish towel.

The same end is achieved by placing a cupful of oatmeal in a cloth sack and boiling. Both the cooking water and the container are added to the bath. In consequence, the liquid will be permeated with starch granules. In fact, the bag may be used as a washcloth.

But the best remedy is ultraviolet light. A relatively simple apparatus may be obtained for the home and will serve adequately. Two exposures daily may dwindle to one, with the source of the illumination far enough away [30 inches] to avoid a burn. Starting with the feet, the treatment may cover practically every part of the body. Five minutes is enough for each area. When the distress is extreme, X-rays may be demanded.

Unless something is done the condition is likely to persist until spring, with sleepless nights and some effect upon general health.

CREAKING THUMBS.

S. W. O. writes: I have two thumbs that crack at the first joint when I bend them. Is it anything alarming?

REPLY.

Probably not. This evidence of too little fluid [synovial] may point to arthritis. Keep your resistance high with plenty of sleep, good food, and exercise.

LEG PAINS.

REPLY.

Yes—send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet.

REPLY.

Yes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing some liver recipes.

TWO VIEWS OF THE CITY HALL.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—After reading the letter of Paul J. Silberstorf on city employés, I was shocked. I wonder how he thinks a city of the size of ours could be operated if it were not for employés who make possible necessities and comforts for all.

There are many employés, and I dare say by far the majority, who give unselfishly of their ability, energy, and brains to keep these wheels spinning. I am a civil service employé for the last 26 years and with the various duties detailed to me I have never found time to read racing forms nor have I seen any co-worker doing so. I think such a statement is an injustice to employés who make possible an unlimited supply of water, police and fire protection, health measures, including garbage disposal, etc. Mr. Silberstorf, do you think some one has a magic wand to accomplish all these things for you? The city hall doors are never closed to the public. Why not stop in and see that city employés are human beings just like the rest of the people, and work in an efficient manner?

C. M.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I thoroly agree with Mr. Silberstorf. It seems to me that if half of the employés at the city hall knew as much about the various services they are supposedly administering, as they do about who is racing in what race [information which they gather during hours they are employed by the people of the city of Chicago], there would be less buck passing from one chair-warmer to another, who always give the impression that the reason they can't help you or give you the information you desire is simply because you actually don't know what you want yourself.

K. J. TROCCKO.

NO LONG STOCKINGS?

Chicago, Dec. 9.—The stores inform me that after Jan. 1 hosiery manufacturers will no longer make extra length hose for tall women.

WPB I suppose is responsible for this ruling which places a penalty on height. I am adjusting myself to rationing of sugar, gas, coffee, and more things to come, but I'll be darned if I can adjust my leg to a stocking, a New Dealer, that is three inches too short.

Won't somebody come to the rescue of the long legged women? M. C.

THE COMING WOOL SHORTAGE.

Mundelein, Ill., Dec. 7.—When I reach home from business I do a strip tease act, remove all my clothing used during the day and put on woolen underwear, a woolen shirt, a woolen pullover sweater, a woolen housecoat, and woolen socks. If you cannot be comfortable at 65 degrees with this marching order of clothing, then ask Leon Henderson or Dr. Parran. Stay home and save gas, save rubber, save fuel oil, but use lots of wool.

J. WEINSTEIN.

ELK ARE VEGETARIANS.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—An indignant protest has been made on the government plan to slaughter thousands of Yellowstone Park elk in order to alleviate the beef shortage in feeding Japanese internees.

AWAKENING IN ARKANSAS.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 9.—There is a widespread feeling in this state that President Roosevelt attempted to wreck the two-party systems by forming a so-called coalition government. Of course, if this was the President's plan, it was wrecked by the overwhelming defeat of administration supporters in the last election. I was in Texas during the O'Daniel campaign and could not see how he could win, but he did. He was opposed by many administration papers, the American Legion, organized labor, the state administration, and the national administration. Allred, his opponent, was a member of the Legion and had the indorsement of the national administration.

In Arkansas last summer two congressmen who had supported the national administration policies ardently, ran for the senate. They tailed the ticket in a four-man race and neither got into the runoff. The man who won, by 2 to 1, was a former isolationist who had been defeated four years ago for reelection to congress because he would not rubber-stamp the President. Most southern Democrats who are not of the slot machine type feel that we have a third party now in power at Washington instead of a Democratic party.

RADIO BROUGHT TO HEEL.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Some of the people whom you can't fool all of the time would like to know if the government now has control of the entire radio network?

Every time the New Deal wants to clamp a new chain around the necks of the public, every program on the air, which has a big following, tells the people how glad they ought to be to give up one more privilege.

And the people are told we are bleeding to stop this in another country.

PHD.

STRIKE UP THE BAND.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Do people make the difficult trip to that barn of an opera house to hear singers or just orchestral accompaniments? Saturday's "Tosca" was mostly the latter. I wish conductors who believe only in orchestras would move over to the symphony, and make way for those who believe in voices.

LOIS HOLSMAN.

"MASTODONIC GOPHER HOLE."

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Out our way the Austin avenue street car bus is being eliminated concurrently with the start of rationing. Some people feel this is a master stroke on the part of the geniuses who are charged with the responsibility of making America war conscious. This is not my view. How can our rationing experts be held responsible for the intricacies of Chicago's archaic transportation system? Must the nation's rubber safety be jeopardized simply because our transportation system is 30 years behind the times?

Should Henderson be criticized because Kelly has chosen to be the sponsor of a mastodonic gopher hole instead of modernizing our transportation system? Let the people walk and learn at first hand the magnificent distances that are Chicago. Cold winds may blow and faces freeze, but some time spring will come.

A. W. JOHNSON.

TO SAVE THE MAILMAN.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—A sizable percentage of most persons' Christmas cards go to associates in the same office. Most of the larger offices have their own house mail distributing systems. With the postoffice warning of its difficulties this year, would it not be an appreciated act on the part of large offices to permit employés the use of the house mail systems for Christmas cards within the office? This would relieve the postoffice load, assure prompt delivery, and save a little stamp money for the senders. G. T.

BEDBUGS.

Chicago, Dec. 12—[Legal Friend of the People].—We have been troubled with fighting bedbugs in our apartment for some time. The exterminator calls, but the situation does not remedy itself. Can we break our lease? We have four unexpired months remaining on the term.

M. G.

The mere presence of bedbugs is not sufficient to release the tenant. You do not state whether they were present when you moved in, whether the landlord knew the condition, and whether he made representations on the point. If you move out, litigation is so likely that we would advise you to employ an attorney in advance.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 33.

1. A "lilt" should make one think of which of the following?
   Song Food Fish Bird.
2. Which part of the human anatomy would be of most interest to a phrenologist? Back Heart Head Feet.
3. Samp is another name for which common American food?
   Hominy Hamburger Hash Beans.
4. Which one of the following is equipped with a manhole?
   Locomotive Airplane Tank Car Automobile.
5. The word "purr" is associated with which of these emotional states?
   Fear Hunger Rage Contentment.
6. This problem is a vocabulary test. In each example below, two words are given. Select the one which seems correct, as determined by the thought expressed in the sentence. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.
   [a] [Flue-flew] refers to a bird.
   [b] [Beech-beach] is the name of a tree.
   [c] [Gate-gait] varies according to age and sex.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

We Can...We Will...WE MUST!

The whole United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, is being asked to subscribe for U. S. Victory Bonds before the end of December in the largest sum of money ever subscribed in such a short time by any nation in the world—nine billion dollars! This country can and will do it! Chicago and its surrounding territory is expected to do its part in this great task for Victory.

Every soul in this Chicago district is vitally affected in the gigantic undertaking facing our armed forces wherever they may be, at home or throughout the world. Hardly a member of any Chicago family has not, or will not shortly have some relative in the armed forces with the Stars and Stripes. . . . The Company sponsoring this advertisement recently sent out a questionnaire to all its employes asking them to let us know the number of their relatives in the armed forces. Employes numbering 2,490 have already responded to our request with the astounding fact that 2,497 relatives of these employes—sons, brothers, fathers, cousins, or in-laws—are now in the armed services of our country.

No doubt but that surveys conducted by other companies would show a comparable percentage of workers' relatives fighting for freedom.

Does not this evidence of tremendous personal sacrifices provide sufficient reason why we all should make our idle dollars fighting dollars? Everybody is now asked to subscribe for Victory Bonds to enable the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and the Navy to fully equip the country's forces with arms, ammunition, supplies, food, clothing, medical attention and countless other things that are necessary to achieve a final and decisive victory for this country and its allies.

That the investment of your money in Government securities is safe and sound is unquestioned. . . . During this Christmas season that commemorates the birth of Christianity and freedom, is there any more fitting time for us to lend our money to insure in these United States a permanent continuation of what Christmas has meant to civilization!

ARMY AND NAVY MOVE TO ASSIGN MEN TO COLLEGE

Plan to Save Education System, McNutt Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—War Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt said today that plans have been completed for assigning selected members of the army, navy, marines, and coast guard to the nation's colleges and universities for technical and scientific training.

The program, McNutt told a press conference, is designed to preserve the facilities of higher educational institutions thruout the war as well as to train those needed by the army, navy, and other services for specialized work.

Will Train Workers Too.

"The whole emphasis, however, will not be placed on army and navy needs," McNutt said. "Training will have to be provided for large numbers of industrial and government workers. We must also maintain liberal arts colleges, whose contribution in future years will be just as important as that of scientific and technical schools."

McNutt said details of the program will be announced shortly, after it has first been submitted to officials of the colleges and universities. Just how many schools will be included in the training plan was not disclosed.

He indicated, however, that efforts will be made to include virtually all schools of higher learning, which are now suffering losses of students because of war service and face further huge losses thru the coming draft of 18 and 19 year old youths.

250,000 Figure Suggested.

A training plan recently submitted to McNutt by the army and navy reportedly called for college training of up to 250,000 in the 18 and 19 year old groups, after they have first been put thru a military training period of several months. Selection of those to be sent to colleges would be made by the army and navy under the proposal.

Under an executive order issued by the President 10 days ago, McNutt's enlarged powers over the country's manpower included the authority to coördinate education training programs for both military and industrial needs.

Would Absorb NYA.

McNutt also said he will ask congress to merge the National Youth administration into the general war worker training program of the commission. He said he intended to ask that statutes limiting NYA training to persons in their 20s be repealed so that its appropriation could be used to train war workers of all ages. NYA recently became a unit of WMC.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] and others in congress have criticized NYA, saying it used 12,520 supervisors and clerical workers to train 53,603 young persons for industrial work.

The recent freezing in their present jobs of nearly 700,000 workers in the Detroit area was termed a "voluntary" action by McNutt. He said the plan was worked out by employers and labor groups and then approved by the War Man Power commission's regional office. Similar voluntary labor stabilization agreements are being worked out in critical labor areas, he added.

CHARGES DIVORCE IN AURORA CITY COURT INVALID

The first attack here on validity of city court divorces granted to nonresidents opened in Circuit court yesterday with Mrs. Fay Riddlesbarger, 6233 Winthrop avenue, asking a divorce from Rufus Riddlesbarger, 2300 Lincoln Park West, head of Lanteen Laboratories, Inc.

Mrs. Riddlesbarger is attacking a divorce obtained by Riddlesbarger in Aurora City court in February, 1932, as invalid. Arguments on Riddlesbarger's motion to strike Mrs. Riddlesbarger's divorce bill were heard yesterday and Judge Thomas J. Lynch continued the case to Dec. 21.

Mrs. Riddlesbarger's divorce bill contends that the 1932 Aurora divorce, under which she was granted $100 a month support for herself and $100 a month support for two children, is void and fraudulent because neither she nor Riddlesbarger were residents of Aurora and the cause of action did not arise there.

Attorney Tom Leeman, representing Riddlesbarger, argued yesterday that Mrs. Riddlesbarger had forfeited her right to attack the Aurora divorce by delaying 10 years and by accepting benefits under the decree. She adopted the decree as her own in 1940, he contended, when she accepted $20,000 in lieu of further alimony and $3,500 in attorney's fees.

FEDERAL JUDGE STOPS ALIMONY IN BANKRUPTCY

A temporary restraining order preventing a wife from collecting a judgment for temporary alimony was issued yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in United States District court.

The alimony case arose in federal court thru a bankruptcy petition filed by John M. Brown, 47 years old, of 600 Diversey parkway. Brown, represented by Jay J. McCarthy, listed $3,100 in debts, including a $1,945 alimony judgment obtained by his wife, Ruby, 45, of Oshkosh, Wis., in Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan, and $150 assets.

Mrs. Brown, McCarthy said, has garnisheed Brown's wages as a brakeman for the Chicago and North Western railroad to enforce her judgment. The Federal court restraining order is a prelude to his effort to have the judgment set aside on the ground that it is fraudulent because the couple have lived together since temporary alimony was granted.

3,500 ADDED LOCOMOTIVES.

Thru use of longer trains and the repair of pair of old engines, 3,500 extra locomotives have been made available to American railroads.

THE QUESTION.

What old fashioned games have made staying home more enjoyable?

WHERE ASKED.

United States Courthouse building, Dearborn entrance.

THE ANSWERS.

Catherine Lenegan, secretary, 11536 Church street—Longer evenings at home pass quickly when we get together for a good old taffy pull. It's a lot of fun, so we always make a party of it. In this way we manage to keep the boys serving in the army, navy or marines well supplied with their favorite candy.

Rita Candic, stenographer, 2928 Wilcox street—By making use of our neighbor's basement recreation rooms we've done wonders in reviving the old fashioned folk dances. The record player down there is getting more use than ever before and we're getting acquainted all over again these winter evenings.

Marion Morgan, secretary, 1711 East 72d street—For a while the jigsaw puzzles almost faded out of the picture, but the members of our household really have brought them back. We work the big 375 piece puzzles and find it's much more interesting when three or four of us work together on the same puzzle.

Eileen Ellis, stenographer, 7227 Harvard avenue—It's not exactly an old fashioned game, but it is a way for me to spend a quiet evening at home. I've been saving clippings and souvenirs for my scrapbook for years and now I devote those extra stay at home evenings to keeping my collection of mementos up to date.

J. J. Farrell, deputy collector, 3023 Logan boulevard—The mere fact that our family often gets together for games is in itself almost an old fashioned stunt. We have a pingpong table in the basement and gather around several nights a week to improve our skill. We find that real diversion.

ROOSEVELT VETO BANS POTENTIAL PROFIT CLAIMS

Returns Bill to Pay Priority Losses.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a veto message, questioned today the advisability of the government's paying individuals profits they might have realized had they received materials which, instead, were requisitioned for war purposes.

On grounds it would establish "an undesirable precedent" for similar cases arising from requisitioning, priorities, and allocations, Mr. Roosevelt rejected a bill which would have let the court of claims handle a $195,000 claim by John L. Alcock of Baltimore, dating back to the last World war.

Sought Reimbursement.

The government in 1918 directed Alcock's suppliers to discontinue shipments to him, of lumber he had contracted to sell and deliver in Scotland. Alcock contended he should be reimbursed for the profits he would have realized.

"In the conduct of war," the President said in a message to the house, "the government is frequently constrained to requisition and allocate material. In case it requisitions material, it pays just compensation.

Denies Moral Debt.

"There is neither a legal nor a moral obligation on its part, however, to reimburse persons who would have purchased the material so requisitioned and would have realized profits on its resale.

"Moreover, it should be observed that the approval of this bill may create an undesirable precedent for numberless similar bills in behalf of individuals whose contracts have been or may be frustrated during the present war by reason of requisitioning of materials from their supplies, priorities, and allocations. The financial burden that would result is one that the government should not in equity and good conscience be required to undertake."

2 More German Aliens Seized by FBI in Chicago

Two more German aliens were arrested in the Chicago area last weekend, A. H. Johnson, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, announced yesterday. They will be given a hearing before the alien hearing board to determine whether they shall be released, paroled, or held for further investigation. A total of 214 enemy aliens now have been arrested in the Chicago area. Of these, 200 are German, eight are Japanese, and six are Italian.

ROOSEVELT MAY GIVE PEACE PLAN TO NEW CONGRESS

Speaks on Second Day of Session Jan. 7.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—President Roosevelt decided today to address a joint session of the 78th congress on Jan. 7, the day after it convenes, and congressional leaders expect this may be his most momentous speech since he read his war message on Dec. 8, 1941.

The Jan. 6 date for convening was decided upon at a morning White House conference of house and senate Democratic leaders, who also agreed that the historic 77th congress should adjourn sine die this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday.

Stresses Session's Importance.

One leader who attended the White House conference, but preferred that his name not be used, said the President probably would discuss not only the course of the war but deal also with the problems of the peace, emphasizing to the new congress that its actions very well might determine to an important degree the course of world history for many years to come.

Attending the White House conference today were Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], who subsequently announced the congressional plans; House Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Vice President Wallace, and Senate Majority Whip Lister Hill [Ala.].

Under the 20th amendment to the Constitution, a new congress meets on Jan. 3 or on a date set by prior resolution of both houses. Because Jan. 3 next year falls on Sunday it was necessary to change the time and the Democratic leaders decided on Jan. 6, so that members, many of whom have had virtually no rest in two years, would have ample time to return from a Christmas holiday. The house passed the necessary resolution today and the senate is expected to soon. The Democratic and Republican caucuses will be held Jan. 4 and 5.

Indorse Pay Raises.

A bill providing raises or overtime pay for most of the government's civilian employés won the unanimous indorsement of the senate civil service committee today in an effort to pass stop gap legislation, but prospects for its final enactment before this week's adjournment appeared dim.

The measure would extend overtime pay at time and a half rates for work beyond 40 hours a week to virtually all salaried employés not covered by labor contracts. Flat 10 per cent wage increases would go to judicial and legislative employés and some postal workers on that part of their salaries not exceeding $2,900.

Chairman Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.] of the house civil service committee said he had been advised that Rep. Robert F. Rich [R., Pa.] would refuse the unanimous consent necessary for house passage in the absence of a quorum. Ramspeck said he held only "slim hope" for house passage. Nevertheless, Sen. James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], chairman of a senate subcommittee which conducted hearings, announced he would offer the bill on the senate floor tomorrow.

F. D. R. Stands Pat on Parity.

President Roosevelt was reported as standing pat today in his opposition to any change in farm parity price formulas.

A house-approved proposal to boost parity levels by including the cost of all farm labor, placed on the senate calendar with the unanimous indorsement of the agriculture committee, may be junked by adjournment of congress this week.

Reorganization of the Office of Price Administration and of congress itself, and abolition of the National Youth administration and the Farm Security administration were listed by house Republican leaders as among their first objectives in the 78th congress.

Reorganization of congressional procedure was placed high on the agenda by Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, long a dominant voice in house Republican circles.

Drop Writ to Free Alleged Robber After Indictment

A writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Frank La Nasa, 19 years old, was dropped in Criminal court yesterday following reports that the grand jury had named him in four true bills charging robbery. La Nasa was shot in the left arm and captured Thursday after he and at least two companions allegedly held up several stores and attempted to steal the car of John Comise, bailiff to Judge Francis Borrelli.

EXPECT TO CLEAR ALL EXTRA GAS PLEAS THIS WEEK

Boards List Additional 'C' Allowances.

Rationing boards in the Chicago metropolitan area will report by Wednesday the number of gasoline ration applications still pending, Michael F. Mulcahy, area OPA director, said last night. Many boards have disposed of their backlog of applications, he said, and efforts will be made to clear any pending requests this week.

Additional names of motorists awarded "C" supplemental gasoline rations were released by Mulcahy. In the following tabulation all are listed as war industry or construction workers unless otherwise designated.

GIRL, 5, TASTES FOOD AT LAST AFTER TUBE FEEDING FOR 3 YEARS

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 14 (AP).—Five year old Wilma Lee Crumbly tasted food for the first time in three years today.

"And on Christmas," said Head Nurse Alma Schaffer of the bronchoscopic ward at Jefferson hospital, "she's going to have turkey."

Wilma, daughter of a Frostproof, Fla., farm hand, ate a quantity of lye three years ago. Her burned esophagus started to close and she began to starve, making it necessary to feed her thru a tube inserted into her stomach.

When brought here in September a treatment developed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Temple university was applied. It consists of stretching the esophagus, an extremely painful process. Wilma weighed only 24 pounds when she was brought here. Now she weighs 32, and, with abandonment of the stomach tube and substitution of normal eating, is expected to gain rapidly.

Ripon Mother Sets Fire to Clothing to Kill Self

BEAR IN COURT TO SEE MASTER WIN ACQUITTAL

Judge Mason S. Sullivan was lenient with Gust F. Stevens, 43 years old, 326 Avers avenue, when the latter took his pet brown bear weighing 520 pounds to Fillmore Street court yesterday to answer a charge of disorderly conduct.

Big Boy, the bear, ambled into the station, dipped his paw into a popcorn bag, sat in Capt. Louis Klatzco's chair, broke it, and marched up to the judge and saluted.

Mrs. Stevens, who brought the charge against her husband after a birthday party for Stevens' father Thursday night, did not appear, so Stevens was dismissed.

Railroads were born fighting...

First, it was wilderness ... savage Indians.
Later, the desert ... blazing heat, dust and thirst!
But the railroads fought through and won.
They united a nation with bands of steel ...
Then fought to preserve it!

The enemy more ruthless than wilderness or Indians.
The issue greater than a stretch of track ... greater than any one nation!

No longer must we drop our tools to grab a rifle.
Our tools and equipment themselves are weapons ...
Modernized weapons kept always in fighting trim ...

And the railroads wield these tools with a vengeance!
Every second of every hour,
Long trainloads of troops and materials speed forward
To take their parts in the conflict.
Every second of every hour,
The railroads are on the job ... fighting ...
Helping to forge Victory for Democracy!

NEW YORK GOES WITHOUT NEWS IN DELIVERY STRIKE

Union Ties Up Papers in Wage Dispute.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—The striking newspaper and mail deliverers' union, independent, tonight kept New York newspapers from placing morning editions on the stands for the second successive time as publishers' association of New York appealed for intervention "of the proper government authorities."

Ten morning and afternoon papers were affected by the strike which began when the first editions of Monday morning's papers were to be sent to the stands. Cause of the strike was an impasse between the publishers' association and the union over wage increases and other demands.

Mediation Attempts Fail.

Representatives of the union and the publishers met separately during the afternoon and evening with the state mediation board. The publishers were represented as firm in their demand that the union return to work before settling the dispute. The union was described as equally insistent in its demand.

Readers were in the anomalous position of feeling the effect, but in most part being unable to read the "story" of the strike.

5 Million Circulation Hit.

Wholly affected by the walkout were the Sun, the World-Telegram, the Journal-American, the Post, the Brooklyn Citizen, and the Long Island Daily Star-Journal, in the evening field, and the Times, Herald Tribune, Daily News, and Daily Mirror in the morning field. They have a combined circulation of more than 5,000,000.

The Wall Street Journal, the Journal of Commerce, the Brooklyn Eagle, PM and the Morning Telegraph got all or part of their circulations to the public.

Illinoisan Gets 2 Years for for Dodging Induction

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP).—Curtis C. Souder, 21 years old, of Iuka, Ill., was sentenced to two years in federal prison today by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham on his plea of guilty of violating the draft law. He was charged with failing to report for induction Oct. 19.

Albert H. Johnson, in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Chicago, yesterday announced his resignation, effective today. Physical exhaustion, brought about by additional duties because of the war, prompted his action, he said.

Johnson will be succeeded by Spencer J. Drayton, until now assistant in charge of the FBI office in New York City. Drayton arrived yesterday to take over his new duties.

Drayton, who is 32 years old and married, has been with the FBI for 11 years. He has worked in various cities thruout the country. In 1939, for a month, he was in charge of the Chicago office. He also headed the Indianapolis office before going to New York. His home is in Boston and his private profession is accounting.

Johnson is 41 years old and has been with the bureau of investigation 13½ years. He has been head of the Chicago office since Aug. 16, 1941. Before that he had been assistant in charge. As such he helped solve the kidnaping in 1937 of Charles S. Ross, elderly Chicago business man, for whose kidnaping and death John H. Seadlund was executed in the county jail. Seadlund was the first federal prisoner ever executed in Cook county.

OPA Granted Injunction Against 6 Canning Firms

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special].—Federal Judge Patrick Stone today granted the Office of Price Administration temporary injunctions against six Wisconsin canning firms to prevent them from selling their products above price ceilings and from "upgrading" some merchandise after it was packed. Named were the Fall River Canning company, Cambria Canning corporation, Stoughton Canning company, Dorchester Canning company, River View Canning company, Blair Packing corporation, and W. W. Evans, Fall River, general manager of all the concerns.

WAAC STRIPPER OUSTED; TIPPLING HIDEOUT BANNED

Dancer Discharged After Military Trial.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 14 [Special].—The WAACs cleaned up their home front today by ousting a strip-teaser from their well clothed midst and prohibiting members from patronizing a downtown café described as "having little side rooms with couches" which "catered to WAACs and soldiers."

The strip dancer is the glamorous girl who entertained Thanksgiving day audiences at a Des Moines theater until she was arrested by military police as an A. W. O. L. member of the Women's Army Auxiliary corps.

She was billed at the theater as Amber d'Georg of Hollywood, but was identified later by WAAC officials as Mrs. Kathryn Doris Gregory, 22 years old, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Dismissed After Trial.

Kathryn came to the WAAC training school Nov. 3. She was reported absent without leave Nov. 26. Two days later military police waited in the theater until she had put on her clothes and then placed her under arrest.

The school announced Kathryn had been given a discharge "other than honorable"—the WAACs don't refer to it as a dishonorable discharge—after a court martial by three WAAC third officers [second lieutenants].

It was disclosed Kathryn's was the second such discharge from the WAAC. The name of the first defendant was not revealed.

Cafe Ruled Off Limits.

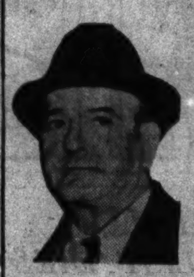
The establishment designated as "off limits" to all WAACs and other Fort Des Moines personnel is the Hawkeye café and bar operated by Hawkeye post, No. 243, Jewish War Veterans.

"It is an unhealthy dump," asserted Col. J. A. Hoag, WAAC commandant, when asked why it had been declared out of bounds. "It has little side rooms with couches and was catering both to WAACs and soldiers.

"Whenever any commanding officer lists any place as off limits, you may be sure he has good reasen for not approving it. My objection is not to the Hawkeye post as a post, but to the Hawkeye café.

Altho officers would not disclose what had taken place in the café that aroused their disapproval, it was reported to pertain to the drinking of liquor by WAACs.

SHOOTS WOMAN GUEST AFTER ACCUSING HER OF TAKING HIS $500



James Svoboda.

Mrs. Anna Marco, 39 years old, 731 West 18th street, was shot five times and critically wounded yesterday by James Svoboda, 61, as she visited the latter in his apartment at 1900 South Union avenue. Svoboda, a tool and die worker, surrendered to Maxwell street police, explaining he had shot Mrs. Marco during a quarrel in which he accused her of stealing $500 from his room on a previous visit.

Six Negro Cultists Face Draft Dodge Trial Feb. 1

Trial of six Negroes charged with violating the selective service law was set for Feb. 1 by Judge John P. Barnes in the federal district court yesterday. The six were seized in a federal roundup of members of the pro-Japanese Temple of Islam cult on the south side. Five of them are accused of failing to register for the draft. The sixth is charged with failing to carry his registration card. Leaders of the cult are under indictment on treason charges.

Sweeps Two Holdup Men Out of Shop with a Broom

The two men who strode into the Lehmann bakery at 2236 West 25th street yesterday had guns—but Mrs. Louise Lehmann, the owner, had a broom. When she asked what they wanted, and they said her money, Mrs. Lehmann literally swept them out with the broom. She also used the stick end effectively on their heads. Later, the same two men held up Alois Weber in his bakery at 411 Armitage avenue, and Emanuel Fritz in his bakery at 1844 Blue Island avenue, getting a total of $23.

MARK 20 MILLION FOR SUBWAY AND SUPER-HIGHWAYS

Aldermen Give Tentative Budget Approval.

Appropriations totaling $20,146,000 for the department of subways and super-highways in 1943 were approved tentatively yesterday by the city council's finance committee. Included is $6,736,000 provided for acquisition of right of way and other preliminary expenditures in connection with the Congress street super highway project, on which actual construction work can't begin until after the war.

The Congress street project, as the department's budget now is set up, would absorb all except $150,000 of the $6,886,000 tentatively appropriated to the department from the city's motor fuel tax fund. Most of this sum is expected to be expended for further acquisition of property along the route. The $150,000 is earmarked for miscellaneous expenditures.

Unexpended Balance.

Charles E. De Leuw, assistant to Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and super-highways, explained an estimated $4,536,000 will be unexpended balance from 6 million dollars previously allotted for 1942. The remaining $2,200,000 is a new appropriation.

The $13,260,000 of additional appropriations to the department comes from the city's traction fund. The bureau of traction gets $150,000 and the remainder is set up for the bureau of subways for further development of the subway system.

A $7,300,000 appropriation is for completion of the State street and Dearborn street subways and for work on the Congress street extension of the Dearborn street subway. Of this amount, De Leuw said, slightly more than 3 million dollars will be needed for the State street work.

A Start in the Spring.

De Leuw told the committee his department expects to obtain adequate priorities for a start on the Congress street extension in the spring.

Appropriations of $5,790,000 are provided for equipping the State and Dearborn street subways and the Congress street extension. The city would be reimbursed later for these equipment expenditures under terms of the traction unification ordinance.

Both the equipment and the construction work appropriations are worded to include acquisition of additional property for right of way on the Congress street extension.

The committee, earlier in the afternoon, voted down a proposal that the appropriation for the Chicago Plan commission be reduced from $145,954 to $100,000, as provided in the budget estimates of City Controler Robert B. Upham. Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th], who made the motion, was supported by several other committee members.

Later the committee slashed two positions from the committee staff which now are vacant and tentatively approved an appropriation of $142,054.

The committee approved a number of other departmental appropriations with little change during the afternoon, and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman, set Thursday night as a new deadline for completion of the committee's work on the budget.

VALIDITY OF WILL OF SLAIN WOMAN LEFT TO COURTS

Attorneys for the public administrator's office were advised by Judge John F. O'Connell in Probate court yesterday to obtain a ruling on the validity of the will of Mrs. Ella May Landquist Puckett, slain Nov. 6 near Lafayette, Ind., thru regular court channels.

The will, found torn in half in Mrs. Puckett's home, 7840 Kenwood avenue, was drawn Feb. 1, 1940, a few months before her marriage to William R. Puckett, 63 years old, now held in Lafayette on a murder charge in connection with her death.

The attorneys asked advice of the court, they said, because Mrs. Puckett's second marriage might invalidate the will, which leaves the bulk of an estimated $25,000 estate to the Swedish Societies' Old People's Home association, 2320 Pioneer road, Evanston.

DR. HUBERT WORK, TWICE A CABINET MEMBER, IS DEAD

Won National Honors as Physician.

Denver, Col., Dec. 14 [Special].—Dr. Hubert Work, cabinet member in the administrations of President Warren Harding and Calvin Coolidge, and chairman of the Republican national committee during the successful Hoover Presidential campaign of 1928, died of a heart ailment in St. Joseph's hospital here today. He was 82 years old.

Dr. Hubert Work.

Dr. Work, who has lived for several years at his estate in the suburban Cherry Hills district, suffered a heart attack early this month and was taken to the hospital. He retired from politics after resigning the Republican national chairmanship following the inauguration of President Herbert Hoover.

Led Medical Association.

A distinguished career in the medical profession brought Dr. Work the presidency of the American Medical association and other honors before he entered public service. In the world war he served in the army medical corps with the rank of major and had supervision of medical features of the draft.

He was Colorado's Republican national committeeman from 1913 to 1919 and was drafted as first assistant postmaster general by President Harding. When Will H. Hays retired as postmaster general in 1922, Dr. Work succeeded to the cabinet post.

After a year as postmaster general, Dr. Work was transferred to the secretaryship of the interior to succeed Albert B. Fall. He held this office thruout the Coolidge administration.

Attended Harding at Death.

His services as a physician probably were called upon for the last time when President Harding was stricken with his fatal illness. Dr. Work had accompanied the President on his trip to Alaska and worked side by side with White House physicians to save the President's life.

Dr. Work was born July 3, 1860, on his parents' farm in Indiana county, Pennsylvania. He attended the state Normal school and studied medicine at the University of Michigan and the University of Pennsylvania.

His first wife, the former Laura M. Arbuckle, of Madison, Ind., whom he married in 1887, died in 1924 while he was a member of President Coolidge's cabinet. In December, 1933, he married Mrs. Ethel Reed Gano, a socially prominent Denver widow, who survives him.

CHEESE IT? IRATE GUY OF 83 DOES —AND DOESN'T!

Herman Klix, 83 years old, 140 South Sacramento avenue, was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday and released on $25 bond after he had hurled a package of cheese, butter, and mustard thru a street car window at the motorman because, he explained, the street car, stopped on a crosswalk for a traffic light and blocked his way. Edward Riley, 31, of 3845 West End avenue, signed the complaint against Klix and said he did not see him until the groceries came thru the window. Klix contended he twice asked Riley to back the car up so he could walk across the street, but that Riley just leered at him.

Woman Gets 14 Years on Abortion Charge

Sitting in a wheel chair, Mrs. Kathryn Eickenberg, 58 years old, 2342 North Rockwell street, was sentenced to 14 years in the women's reformatory at Dwight yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort in Criminal court on a charge of murder by abortion. She was found guilty by a jury Dec. 4. The victim was an unmarried girl 18 years old. After overruling a motion for a new trial, Judge Desort asked Mrs. Eickenberg if she had anything to say. "Just that I'm not guilty in this case," she said. She will appeal the sentence. Mrs. Eickenberg has been confined to the wheel chair because of a heart ailment.

[ADVERTISMENT]

SWINGING SUSIE
BY BUD HILL
WOW! RIGHT ON THE PIN ALL THE WAY! FOR A GAL WHO WAS ALWAYS "TIRED" AND RUN-DOWN, YOU'VE SURE PICKED UP PLENTY OF ZIP!
AND DOES IT FEEL WONDERFUL! IT WAS MY LUCKY DAY WHEN I LEARNED I HAD A "VITAMIN B COMPLEX DEFICIENCY"
GOLLY! THAT SOUNDS BAD!
SILLY! IT SIMPLY MEANS I NEEDED MORE OF THOSE IMPORTANT VITAMINS YOU GET IN YEAST! MILLIONS FEEL "PUNK" BECAUSE THEY DON'T GET ENOUGH! SO I STARTED DRINKING FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST, 2 CAKES A DAY
YES, EDDIE MY BOY, DRINKING FLEISCHMANN'S IN TOMATO JUICE. IT'S SWELL—A REAL VITAMIN COCKTAIL. WHY, IT HAS EVERY VITAMIN KNOWN TO BE NEEDED IN HUMAN NUTRITION! JUST KEEP IT UP, A WEEK OR MORE. MANY SEE RESULTS IN ONLY 7 DAYS!
BET IT WOULD DO ME GOOD, TOO!
NOW YOU'RE TALKING! GET A WEEK'S SUPPLY. FLEISCHMANN'S KEEPS PERFECTLY IN THE REFRIGERATOR. BUT DON'T JUST DROP THE CAKE IN TOMATO JUICE. MASH IT WITH A FORK IN A DRY GLASS, ADD A LITTLE JUICE AND STIR TILL BLENDED. THEN FILL 'ER UP AND DRINK. YOU'LL LOVE IT!

If you bake at home, remember that the vitamins in Fleischmann's Yeast go right into whatever you bake with no great loss in the oven.

ALCAN HIGHWAY BUILDER FINDS CHICAGO COLDER

'Alaska Can't Beat Boul Mich,' Says Wheeler.

Michigan avenue on a December day, blasted by biting winds from the northwest, can be colder than the new Alcan [Alaska-Canada] international highway when the mercury drops to 65 degrees below zero, Col. John W. Wheeler, army engineer in charge of the highway construction, asserted yesterday.

Col. Wheeler returned to Chicago for a brief visit with Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad. He was executive assistant to Budd before going to Alaska to direct the building of the 1,610 mile long Alaskan military highway.

Cold Interferes with Work.

Having braved Michigan avenue winds in the morning, Col. Wheeler observed that Alaska's severe cold is less uncomfortable. He admitted, however, that little outdoor work can be accomplished in the low temperatures and that only minor tasks will be attempted on the Alaskan highway this winter.

Altho military supplies started moving over the new route to United States bases in Alaska on Nov. 20, the road is not finished, he said. Much work has to be done to reduce curves and sharp dips resembling the treacherous profile of the Burma road.

"We hope to eliminate some of the 12 per cent grades [a rise of 12 feet in every 100 feet traveled] and reduce the steepest grade to 9 per cent," Col. Wheeler said.

Accidents Surprisingly Few.

The army engineer said accidents have been relatively few despite the tricky turns, sharp descents, and icy condition of the road. He said the army truck drivers are well trained and need to learn only about 100 miles of the road because they operate in relays with each driver assigned to a certain section of the road. Maintenance and repair stations are set 35 miles apart.

Col. Wheeler said the road, now used as a military highway exclusively, will be opened to civilian traffic after the war, affording "one of the most scenic routes in the world." He said it will be difficult to predict the road's commercial value after the war but he indicated it will attract tourists and vacationers to Alaska.

Discussing the difficulties in constructing the road, which connects the railhead at Dawson creek with a short highway leading into Fairbanks, Alaska, Col. Wheeler said the muskeg [sodden bogs] were not as troublesome as anticipated. He said the muskeg was matted down with spruce trees and covered with dirt and gravel.

Bridging River Biggest Feat.

The most difficult single feat was bridging White river, Col. Wheeler said. The river, he explained, freezes from the bottom up, impeding efforts to sink piles to support a bridge. Temporary pile trestle bridges have been used until permanent structures could be built. The longest bridge, he said, extends 2,400 feet across Nisutlin bay.

Approximately one-half of the civilian construction workers will remain to work on the highway this winter, Col. Wheeler said. He praised these workmen as loyal and steady. Few, if any, were lured by the tales of gold treasure to go AWOL on prospecting expeditions. He observed that construction companies tried in vain to hire gold prospectors and trappers, who apparently preferred their "catch as catch can" existence to a steady job.

Edward Bradley Jr. Named Assistant U. S. Attorney

Edward J. Bradley Jr. was appointed an assistant United States attorney by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll yesterday. He succeeds Francis J. Cody, who has entered the army. Bradley is 29 years old and lives at 6328 Nordica avenue with his wife and two children. He was graduated from Schurz High school and De Paul university law school. He was admitted to the bar three years ago.

W-G-N TO PRESENT PROGRAM TONIGHT TO AID WAR BOND SALES

Songs of patriotism and favorites of other wars will highlight a special program by the Northerners to assist the sale of war bonds over W-G-N at 9:30 tonight. A playlet, written by Irna Phillips, will portray a scene of 1952, picturing a couple planning a vacation with money invested in war bonds in 1942.

The music will include two bond songs: "I Save a Dime Out of Every Dollar," and "Everybody, Every Pay Day." Martial tunes will include a Sousa medley of "El Capitan," "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "Free Lance," and "The Field Artillery March."

World war tunes to be presented are "Over There" and "Long, Long Trail." Songs of earlier wars: "Hail Columbia," "Yankee Doodle," "Battle Cry of Freedom," and "Dixie." Lois Wallner will be the soloist. Harry S. Walsh is the conductor.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW RADIO SUIT DISMISSAL

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Supreme court agreed today to review a decision which dismissed suits by the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., and the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., seeking to enjoin the communications commission from enforcing restrictions on chain broadcasting.

A three judge federal court at New York held that the commission's action was authorized by the federal communications act. Enforcement of the order was stayed temporarily, however, until next Feb. 1 to permit an appeal to the Supreme court.

In another action today the court refused to review the first decision delivered by the United States Emergency Court of Appeals, which was in favor of Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

The court of appeals held that provisions of the 1942 emergency price control act authorizing a judicial review of protests against price schedules did not apply to a transaction completed prior to the effective date of the act and governed by a price schedule issued by Henderson under an executive order. It ordered dismissal of a protest by the Galban Lobo Company, S. A., of Cuba which contended it had lost $38,916 on 4,000 tons of sugar sold to the Imperial Sugar company of Sugarland, Tex.

Wernecke's Trial on Draft Charges Will Begin Feb. 15

Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court yesterday set Feb. 15 for the trial of William Bernard Wernecke, former German bundist, who is charged with violating the selective service law. Wernecke was mentioned in the recent trial of the six relatives and friends of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur.

Voters' Group to Make Study of Personnel at State Mental Hospitals

Social welfare chairmen of the Illinois League of Women Voters will make a study of personnel in the state institutions for mental patients at a 10:30 o'clock session today in league headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. T. H. Ludlow, state chairman, will present two speakers, Mrs. Dorothy Brown, executive secretary to the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, who will talk on prevailing conditions in state mental hospitals, and Mrs. Florence Hosch, executive secretary of the board of welfare commissioners, who will give the requisites of a well conducted welfare institution. This is the second meeting of a series which the department is holding to check on the administration of civil service in the state welfare institutions.

Thru the Looking Glass

You'd be surprised to know the popular appeal that a gift of hair brush and comb has. And very attractive gifts they are, too. The humdrum, practical looking dress of hairbrushes can be discarded as a drawback, for the sets now on the market are so bright and attractive looking that they have definite eye appeal. The jewel toned sets, sapphire, ruby and emerald, and the clear crystal will add dash to any dressing table.

Hair brushing has really come into its own again in the last few years, the younger set blazing the way, and there's hardly a woman we know who doesn't count the daily brushing of her locks as one of the most important phases of grooming. Given a good looking set of tools to work with, she'll enjoy the ritual a lot more. Too, a gift of a really good hair brush will insure the recipient better results for her efforts. There are brushes and brushes, but the best type is one that will offer resistance, making it necessary to actually pull it through the hair and thereby guaranteeing a maximum of stimulation for the scalp and polish for the hair.

If you're of a mind to be a little extravagant in your gifting you can be lavish with a more complete dresser set. A seven piece set in pretty plastic offers a brush, comb, mirror, powder box, nail file, cloth brush, and tray. Less expensive, but still a present of no small proportion is a grooming set which boasts a comb and brushes for hair, hands, complexion, and clothes.

Not for the ladies alone, but for the gentlemen as well should brushes be considered for presents. Twin military brushes or a single brush and comb will be looked upon as something outside the realm of things the men have to accept and put up with on Christmas morning. They'll see constant use for many a day to come.

Shop Makes It Easy for Brave to Buy for Fair

BY REA SEEGER.

The bravest soldier, sailor or marine has been known to flinch before the barrage of hints given him for his Christmas list. Blitzing has no terror like the terrors of trying to shop for the girls left behind, but now that a Chicago store has turned a part of one floor into a service man's shopping center this problem seems to have solved itself.

Within the safety zone of such a shop, shy and timorous gentlemen in any kind of a uniform are made welcome. There's a juke box that plays right merrily while he spends his money; free candy of the crunchy old-fashioned variety to bring back childhood memories, a coke dispenser and, wonder of all wonders, half a dozen glamor girl experts, including a couple of breath-taking blondes, to help him with shopping advice. His gifts can even be wrapped in the traditional yuletide colors while he waits.

Seriously, this place is a haven for all bewildered and cash laden service men. There are hundreds of hints and suggestions not only printed in lists but displayed, such as lingerie, negligees, gloves, jewelry, doo-dads, games, books and all the rest of the possibilities. There are timely gift hints for dad, mother, sister, and little brother. Nothing is overlooked.

The shopper can smoke, drink a coke, munch candy, and select or reject in the company of his own kind of companions, all in uniform. So far the place has played to a full house every day. So start early unless you like a struggle.

Auxiliary Meeting

MISS AMY LOUISE EVANS.

Miss Amy Louise Evans' mother, Mrs. Aaron L. Evans, and other members of the junior auxiliary of the Evanston Infant Welfare society will meet tomorrow at the Georgian hotel in Evanston. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock and the annual meeting will follow. Doctors and nurses of the Evanston clinics will be special guests.

Plenty of Gifts for the Man or Girl in Service

Nine more shopping days until Christmas! Your last chance to buy that special gift for that man or woman who is in the army or navy in this country!

Despite the shortness of time, there is no dearth of appropriate gifts in Chicago stores for both men and women who have donned the khaki or the blue. Ingenious, thoughtful and practical items, selected by merchants at the suggestions of men and women in the ranks, are to be seen in most stores.

For example, glance over gifts for a WAAC or a WAVE, who, altho she has clipped her hair and adopted a military stride, is still as dainty as the day she put on her first, long, flowing frock. There are toilet sets, inexpensive or luxurious, that contain all the ingredients for beauty. The sets come in simulated leather or the real thing, brown for a WAAC and blue or black for a WAVE. Several sets bear the insignias of the services. Then there are mirrors, so needed in barracks, large, stand-up mirrors for that quick morning's grooming, or oval, plain, and magnifying mirrors for that leisure moment when eyebrow tweezing is the order of the day.

Stationery with either the navy emblem or the classic head of Pallas Athena, the insignia of the WAACs, is inexpensive. Billfolds, designed especially for the woman soldier or sailor, come in blue, black or brown leather. They contain coin purses, bill envelopes and identification sections and fasten with safety snaps on the outside.

If that man in the service has written home for bath towels, socks, sewing kits, shoe kits, ties or clogs, your selection is easy. In that big box, however, you want to include something a little extra. Games, especially designed for service men, fit the ticket. In leather cases, brown, black or blue, there are cribbage sets, dominoes, backgammon boards, Chinese solitaire, cards and chips. Pen and pencil sets with military clips are always welcome.

A gentle hint would be a writing case, brown leather with the army insignia for a buck private and blue with the anchor for a third class seaman. The cases include various equipment, blotters, stationery, address books, pads and pencils.

Fitted cases for young officers are practical and in excellent taste. Ranging from $4 to $45, the cases contain all the essential containers for soap, shaving items, toothbrushes and lotion, as well as combs, nail files, mirrors and hair and shoe brushes. Officers also would welcome dressing robes. One store features a khaki robe of cotton gabardine with the army insignia on the pocket and a navy blue of the same material with the navy anchor for decoration.

Other suggestions for service men and women might be:

WAAC or WAVE: A white bath mitt, trimmed in red and blue, with silk holder and bath powder! Khaki dressing kit including two jars, one bottle and pocket for wash cloth or cleansing tissue; manicure sets in military cases.

For a soldier: A service man's Bible, small, compact and bound in khaki leather. A khaki case containing a prayer book, rosary, cross and medals. Khaki handkerchiefs and ties. Tan leather money belts, shoe, and sewing kits.

For either soldier or sailor: Gold and silver identification bracelets with engraved name plate; electric razors for officers; billfolds, black or brown leather with insignia of the army, navy or air force; apron kits in blue or black canvas containing toilet articles; stationery with service insignia.

How to Meet Friends.

When Jack Benny and his tribe passed thru town last week to begin a tour of army camps, Eddie [Rochester] Anderson was met at the train by Ken Blewett, manager of a south side theater, who handed him a huge box. In the box were 30 orders of barbecued spareribs—enough for the entire company.

Notes of the Town.

The snappy little roadster hurrying down Lake Shore drive the day gas rationing went into effect had a huge bale of hay protruding from its rumble seat. . . . It was Sunday, and three girls were sitting at a table in a bar. A young Australian flyer, sitting alone and moody at the bar, contemplated them briefly and finally, addressing them, said, "Isn't it wonderful what Max Factor has done for you American girls?" . . . The Chicago woman walked into a grocery and ordered a peck of potatoes. "Pick out the small ones, please," she requested. "The big ones are too heavy to carry." . . . When "This Is the Army" opens here on Jan. 4, Irving Berlin and his wife will be in the audience; the day will be their 15th wedding anniversary.

Christmas Vignettes.

The little boy's arms were filled with Christmas packages as he climbed aboard a Milwaukee avenue streetcar. "What did you ask Santa Claus to bring you?" the conductor, Stanley Brown, asked chummily. "O, an electric train, a scooter and an air rifle," the boy replied. "Well," commented Mr. Brown, "you didn't ask for much." "Shhhhh," the child replied. "I've gotta couple more Santas lined up I'm gonna see for the rest of the stuff." . . . The two matrons were discussing the difficulties of Christmas shopping. "Why," asked one, "should I make that long trip downtown and get all worn out when I can buy the wrong thing right here in the neighborhood?" . . . Both the USO and the service men's center here have gift wrapping corners where girls tie up packages for servicemen. Last Saturday the girls at the SMC wrapped a diamond ring, a musical powder box and a bullet compact.

Mementos of a Composer.

Darius Milhaud, in town to lecture tomorrow at the Arts club on Erik Satie, the late French composer, brought with him a collection of 105 Satie memorabilia. These range from Satie's self-portrait to the entire plan for his ballet, "Rélache," the notebooks in which at the age of 45 he studied counterpoint under Vincent d'Indy, manuscript scores for his music hall songs and the musical interludes, "Five Grimaces," which he composed for "Midsummer Night's Dream." Many of the items were given him by Satie; Satie's family gave him others after the composer's death. Included among these invaluables is one as extraneous to the arts as it is invaluable to man—a laundry bill signed by Satie.

Party for Children.

Waiters Show Capital Society Who's the Boss

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Ears are still burning from the brief but pointed lectures given at a recent dinner-dance in a fashionable Washington hotel by waiters inclined to New Deal philosophy and accused of being Communists. Diamonds worn that night are still sparkling, but some of the 800 men and women who attended are wondering whether it might be better to leave them and the evening clothes at home the next time there is a major social event.

High government officials and admirals and generals were there with their wives. But that failed to awe the waiters, who had discovered social significance and the fact that the nation is at war.

"Wearing evening clothes!" scolded another.

"It won't be long," commented a third with a disapproving look at one of the guests, "until we'll have as much money as you do."

The woman who had arranged the party to raise money for a war enterprise arrived early to place the reservation cards upon the tables. But when the guests began filing in, the cards had disappeared.

She complained later that she asked the waiters to put the nameplaces back, but they declined. New cards were made. She distributed them, only to learn that the tables had been rearranged. Hosts and hostesses with tables reserved for large parties hadn't enough chairs. Some who asked for another chair or an extra table were advised:

"Get it yourself."

One host asked for his ice cream when his waiter forgot him.

"I'm not going to bring you any," the waiter announced.

"Then call your captain!" ordered the bewildered host.

"That won't do you any good," retorted the waiter, striding off. "He's playing ball with me."

"Will you take it back?" she asked. "It's melting."

"I won't do it!" was the response. "Anything's good enough for this gang."

The party chairman said she feared for a time that some of the guests might be harmed, as the impertinence of the waiters increased. Optimists said the trouble was really a tempest in a teapot, for the evening passed without even a slugging.

Even those who complained blamed the minor rebellion on extra waiters hired especially for the occasion. The waiters' remarks were addressed to civilians, with no disrespect to the army and navy, it was reported. The men's evening clothes to which the waiters objected were little different, except in quality, from the waiters' own clothes, since most of the men who were not in uniform wore dinner jackets and black ties.

Frank De Sando, business agent of the AFL waiters' union, was informed of the complaints regarding the waiters.

"Communists," he observed. "You find 'em in every organization."

He denied, however, that the matter had previously been brought to his attention.

"The reports have been exaggerated," said the man who conducts the hotel's parties. "But that's what we're up against. Irresponsible waiters."

Other hotel men said they have trouble getting waiters but hush-hushed the question of surliness to guests.

"When we ask for extra waiters," one said, "we never get as many as we request. And we always tell the union: 'Try to send us men less than 80 years old.'"

Union officials make no claim that the waiters are entitled to be impudent, but the union chiefs do have one complaint:

They're not allowed to pass the plate, as they put it, after dinner's over. Passing the plate used to be a common practice here, according to the union chiefs.

The waiters would drop a quarter or half dollar on a tray and circulate among the guests they had served. Guests who thought the coin was the standard set by one of their number would match it, and the more experienced would let their conscience be their guide.

But the hotel men regarded the tips as gravy, according to the union men, and began suggesting that planners of parties add 10 per cent to the bill for tips. Thus, as the union chiefs quote the hotel men, the party would be kept on a lofty plane with no emphasis on so sordid a subject as money, which is sometimes mentioned here with slight contempt but is seldom refused.

Well, the union leaders say, the hotel men forgot to divide up the tips, or if they did divide it was something like the traditional horse meat and rabbit pie — even Steven, or one rabbit to one horse.

Waiters may tend to slight unhappiness toward the end of the evening, as the union leaders explain it, when the guests depart without remembering to leave a tip. But the union bosses insist that the waiters remain courteous, even if they do become philosophical.

Give your war-worker a man-size lunch

Today, America's lunch boxes are carrying energy for war production. Patriotic homemakers are packing lunches that mean extra days of good health . . . extra hours on the job.

A man-size lunch doesn't necessarily mean a big, heavy meal, but rather a balanced, nourishing lunch . . . one that packs plenty of vital vitamins.

To help you get started in preparing nutritious lunches for your family, our home economists have planned the week of lunches shown below. Pack these well-balanced lunches for the coming week. For more information about balanced meals, visit a Victory Home Center at any Commonwealth Edison Company store.

LUNCH BOX HINTS

- Butter for sandwiches should be creamed before using. Keep it at room temperature for easy spreading, to insure completely covering the entire slice of bread.
- Have all sandwich fillings prepared and seasoned properly, before starting to make sandwiches.
- Never toast bread that is to be packed in lunch boxes.
- Use an assortment of breads for variety.
- Wrap each sandwich in wax paper to preserve the freshness and flavor.
- In packing salads, put well seasoned mixture into wide mouth fruit jars; top with three or four crisp lettuce leaves. However, do not line the container with lettuce, as salad dressings will cause it to wilt.
- When preparing desserts for the family dinner, bake individual portions in flat, wide mouthed jelly glasses that may be packed in the lunch box.
- Use wide mouth thermos bottle for soups, hot drinks—hot food.
- Enclose silverware, salt, sugar and cup if necessary.

Yule Season to Bring Reunions with Families for Service Men

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHRISTMAS spirits are soaring in various households as the good news trickles in that brothers or fathers or husbands who are in the army or navy will be at home for Christmas. Mrs. John F. R. Seitz and her three youngsters eagerly are waiting next Sunday, for their husband and father, Lieut. Col. Seitz will arrive that day from Washington on a five day leave.

His arrival is all the more pleasant since it was unexpected and Col. Seitz thought he might be out of the country again at that time. The Seitz family was in Honolulu a year ago, but Mrs. Seitz and the children now are living in Lake Forest.

They will go to Winnetka for Christmas dinner with Mrs. Seitz's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal. Mr. and Mrs. Boal will be at home as usual to their neighbors and friends on Christmas afternoon with their large family assisting in dispensing eggnog. Thomas Boal, who is teaching at a coast guard school in New York will not be here, however, nor will Lieut. [j. g.] George Ryerson, whose wife is another niece of Mr. and Mrs. Boal.

Ernest S. Ballards to Be at Home Christmas Day.

The Boals' second son, Stewart Boal and his wife, will have a busy time on Christmas day for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, will be at home informally from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 in the evening. They are entertaining for two of their daughters, Miss Mary Ballard, who is on this year's debutante list but who is not having a formal debut party, and Mrs. Frank F. Fowle Jr., who with her husband, Lieut. [j. g.] Fowle, is arriving from New York next Saturday. If Pfc. Joseph Ballard is able to come from his army camp, the Ballard family reunion will be complete with all seven children here. Mary attends Smith college.

On Dec. 23 Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Hunt Jr. will be welcoming his sister, Mrs. Hunt McMurtry of New York, for the Christmas holidays. Mrs. McMurtry, who goes to Bar Harbor in the summer time, will be making her first Chicago visit in some time, and will be stopping at the Ambassador East. The Hunts are giving a small party for her on the afternoon of Dec. 30.

Instead of spending two months in New York, as reported by the advertising representative of the One Fifth Avenue hotel, the Sterling Mortons were there for three days only, and will be at their Chicago apartment over the Christmas holidays. In mid-January they will go to Palm Springs, Cal., for a few weeks of sunshine.

Jean Leigh Overton's Betrothal Announced.

Mrs. George Washington Overton of Geneva announces the engagement of her daughter, Jean Leigh, to Lieut. Christopher Billopp Wyatt, son of Mrs. Christopher Wyatt of New York City. No party is being given to celebrate the engagement, as Miss Overton is following an interior decorating career in New York and her fiancé is stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Miss Overton, whose father died last February in Pasadena, Cal., attended Mills college and the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts. Her sister, Catharine, is at home this winter, and their brother, George W. Overton, and his wife, the former Jane Harper, are in Ogden, Utah, at his army post.

Miss Catherine Ludwig, daughter of Mrs. Otto Paul Ludwig of Jeffery avenue and of the late Dr. Ludwig, and Lieut. Nye McLaury of the army will be married this afternoon in the rectory of St. Philip Neri church. Miss Betty Cones will serve as maid of honor and William McLaury as his brother's best man. The ceremony will be followed by a buffet supper for the two families at the South Shore Country club. Lieut. McLaury, son of Mrs. Walker Galley McLaury of Woodlawn avenue, will take his bride to Camp Lee, Va.

Luncheon Will Be Given Friday for Linda Meyer.

Among Students Returning Home for Holiday Vacations

Debutantes Cherry Boyd (left) and Nancy Graff are among the hundreds of young women who will be returning from schools and colleges this week for a long Christmas vacation. Miss Boyd, daughter of the Darrell S. Boyds, and Miss Graff, the Everett B. Graffs' daughter, attend Smith. Together with Miss Polly Goodrich they shared a debut party last summer in Winnetka.

Women Playing Hookey Retard Output for War

Absenteeism, especially among women war workers, is becoming a serious man power problem, William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, disclosed yesterday before the City Club of Chicago at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel.

"Recent wide scale, indiscriminate recruiting of women for war industries has been unfortunate," Spencer said. "Absenteeism is prevalent among women workers primarily because employers have not been careful in selecting the right kind of women for available jobs.

"Women with young children at home inevitably will take time off in case of illness or other family matters requiring a mother's attention. We have urged the preferential hiring of single women, women without children, and women whose children are grown."

The man power official said that women in some instances had been staying away from work to do their shopping, to attend weddings and parties, or to have their hair done. He explained that women earning increased incomes and working six day weeks have been tempted to take unscheduled holidays to enjoy their new purchasing power.

Absenteeism is also serious among workers employed long hours and among newly hired workers. The speaker said the fatigue and strain of long hours or the pressure in war industries for precision and speed forces many workers to "knock off" for a day or two of rest.

Spencer said the man power commission was conducting a thoro study of the absenteeism problem and might later submit a program for employers to reduce the loss of man hours resulting from such a practice.

Observing a trend of war workers back to the farms because of the unfavorable aspects of war employment, Spencer asserted that the farm labor shortage would be alleviated by this tendency, as well as by the direct efforts of the WMC to encourage men to remain on the farms thru giving essential positions preferred status for draft deferment.

"Altho wages in the industrial centers are attractive, farm workers in some instances are finding the strain too great and other conditions unpleasant and are going back to their old jobs," Spencer said.

The director reported that the Chicago area had an over-all slight surplus in man power, altho in some industrial centers there might be localized scarcity. He said the WMC was trying to establish voluntary agreements among Chicago, Milwaukee, and South Bend employers designed to stop labor hoarding, piracy, and nomadism.

Spencer said a man power policy agreement by labor and management representatives in Evansville, Ind., pointed the way for similar action in other industrial centers. Under this program to stabilize the labor market, the employers have agreed to clear all their hiring thru the United States employment service and halt hiring at factory gates.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

Electric excitement filled the air Sunday evening in the little fourth floor theater of the Actors Company of Chicago at 218 South Wabash avenue. Samson Raphaelson, stopping over in the city on his way from Hollywood to New York, had come to see the Actors company performance of his play, "Jason," and Minnie Galatzer and her players were on their toes to show him that they deserved the good notices bestowed on them by the local critics.

To say that Mr. Raphaelson was suffused with happiness on this occasion would be a wanton misstatement of fact. Not that he disapproved of the performance; quite the contrary, for he was obviously sincere in his hearty praise at the end of the evening.

But he suffers, as conscientious authors often do, from an inability to experience much pleasure at the sight of his play. "Once I have gotten a play onto the stage," he confessed, "I don't like to see it any more. It is too much like looking at the corpse of a dead wife."

I asked Mr. Raphaelson whether he would care to sit with me during the performance. He refused with friendly firmness. "It would make me much too nervous," he confessed. Once the performance was finished, however, he relaxed and expanded. Partaking of Miss Galatzer's generous spread of food and the last of her carefully husbanded prerationing coffee, he eased himself into a discussion of "Jason" and the difficulties of acting it. His first—and obviously unattainable—choices for the three chief rôles, he said, would have been the Leslie Banks of 10 years ago for the drama critic, Tallulah Bankhead of 15 years ago for his wife, and Burgess Meredith, today or any other time, for the Saroyanesque playwright.

The character of Mike Ambler is a description rather than a satire of Saroyan, he indicated. To my unconcealed pleasure he agreed that Saroyan is too good an artist to be submitted to satire, a point of view I had expressed in this column last week.

In Hollywood Mr. Raphaelson has been at work adapting Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle" to movie purposes. The locale has been changed to Mexico.

The playwright does not like either Hollywood or New York. "There are too many writers in both places, and we cancel one another out," he explained. After the war he plans to live and work in Chicago, which was his childhood home.

Women in War Work . . . . By Kate Massee

Training that will fit women for an effective contribution to the war will be offered to 2,500 students at Northwestern university, according to a statement made by President Franklyn Bliss Snyder. A program of study to be instituted at the start of the winter quarter in January will include 150 courses, and has been designed to train women for war service, industry, and community service.

The program, based on recommendations of military and industrial leaders, is the outgrowth of a conference on "College Women and the War," held recently at Northwestern. At this conference officers in the WAACs and WAVES, as well as experts in various fields of industry, outlined phases in which there is urgent need of college trained women.

"We are calling the attention of the young women on our campus to the need for their services," President Snyder said. "We are particularly glad to assure them that the training program we have set up will not be only of immediate significance but of sound and enduring value."

For women who want to enter military fields, courses are offered in meteorology, photography, and map making. To qualify for these technical positions students will be required to take such courses as mathematics, physics, geography, chemistry, climatology, and physiography.

Other special training to be provided will be for women preparing for civilian government service, as accountants or general office workers; two fields of study for women preparing for industry, both technical and nontechnical, and courses in the fields of social service, community organizations, and recreational and personnel work.

When the Chicago unit of the American Women's Voluntary services was organized last Sept. 17 one of the first groups to start building its membership was the South Central unit of Negro women, of which Mrs. Robert A. Cole is president. In three months the roster of members has grown to more than 700.

The unit participates in the various activities of the AWVS and is completing plans for a war bond dinner to be held on Jan. 22 at the Parkway ballroom. Many of the members have completed an intensive course in bond selling and have set 1 million dollars as their goal for the dinner.

The dinner will be complimentary, but those attending will be required to purchase not less than $100 in war bonds. To date subscriptions for the affair have passed the $200,000 mark.

The South Central unit has established headquarters at 4445 South Park way, and is conducting classes in first aid, air raid precautions, map reading, physical fitness, home nursing, and training for selling war bonds for the treasury department.

Posters submitted by Phil Interlandi and Clifton Bader, students at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, and Richard Filipowski, a student at the School of Design, were selected for first, second, and third awards, respectively, yesterday in the contest sponsored by the Consumer Information service of the OCD. The prizes were war savings stamps of $15, $10, and $5. Ten other posters were chosen for blue ribbon awards. Judges of the 100 posters submitted by Chicago art schools were Abel McAllister of the Ridge Art association; Miss Elizabeth Robertson, art director of the Chicago public schools, and Mrs. Catharine Kuh. The war stamps were donated by Mrs. William H. Stanley, director of the Consumer Information service, and Mrs. Harold Florsheim and Mrs. Philip Ciral of the Consumer office. Posters were based on wise buying and conservation, and many of them will be exhibited at Marshall Field & Co.

When the Holly chapter of the National Secretaries' association learned that the men stationed on the aircraft carrier Wolverine wanted their ship decorated for Christmas the members, headed by Miss Mary Byrne, got busy and collected Christmas trees and decorations for both the officers' and enlisted men's quarters. Collaborating with the girls in putting up the gay trimmings are Lieut. R. G. Witwer, welfare officer of the carrier, and E. G. Samen of the executive office of the USO.

The Holly chapter will join forces with the Fort Dearborn chapter in giving a Christmas party for members and guests tonight at the Medinah club. Miss Marjorie Holland and Miss Marguerite Adams are in charge of the program, proceeds from which will be used to purchase gifts for service men.

"Wedding Postponed"

By Susannah Shane

[Copyright: 1942: by Harriette Ashbrooke.]

SYNOPSIS.

Guests arrive at the church for the wedding of Tessa Devlin and Jayson Plaice, partner of Tessa's father, Tom. The minister announces the wedding has been postponed. The guests do not know that Tessa is running away from a cottage where a woman has just been murdered. A 10 months' flashback tells what has happened up to the time of the murder. Tessa's mother died when she was born. Her father, a prospector, left his baby with the Shaws, medical missionaries, and failed to return. The Shaws went to India and brought Tessa up as their own. She did not learn her identity until her foster father died. He left her a diary explaining things and advising her to go live with her real father, who had since become rich. She accepts this advice, but in her new home Tessa feels strange with her father, her stepmother, Alice, and an eccentric old man, Uncle Billy Boomer, who lives with the Devlins but is no blood relation. Alice has most of her clothes made by Phoebe, Inc., a fashionable dressmaking establishment run by Mrs. Phoebe Carson and Kate McLaughlin. Uncle Billy tries to buy the place but instead sells Phoebe a cottage near the Devlin home and also near the home of Mrs. Carol Kimbark, who is trying to marry Plaice. Tessa goes to a New York hospital to complete her nursing course she had started in Bombay. There she falls in love with Dr. Bart Carson, son of Phoebe. She thinks he returns her love but suddenly she receives a note from him saying he is going to work in a Denver hospital and dismissing their romance as a passing fancy. Heartbroken, she gives up nursing and decides to marry Plaice. Phoebe refuses to make Tessa's wedding dress and goes to her cottage alone. Plaice takes the wedding party, with the exception of Tom, on a yachting trip, returning only a few hours before the wedding is scheduled. When Tessa puts on her wedding dress, she runs out of the house and does not show up for her wedding. She is picked up at Mrs. Kimbark's door with a blood stain on her dress. She says she went to Mrs. Carson's cottage and found Mrs. Carson dead, with her head bashed in. Bart arrives, and says he was summoned there by his mother. Police find that he wired his mother of his coming, but the wire was delivered first to the Devlin home by mistake. They learn that Phoebe had tried to get in touch with Tom Devlin several times recently, that she bribed the messenger to deliver Tessa's wedding dress to her first and that she sewed a hidden pocket in the sleeve in which she sent Tessa a message. Police find part of the message which asked Tessa to come to the cottage and bring the "di——." They also find an old letter Jayson Plaice wrote Phoebe telling her of the death of her husband, Frederick Carson. Plaice admits writing the old letter but vows he was with Mrs. Kimbark when Phoebe was murdered.

INSTALMENT XXVI.
UNSEEN VISITOR.

It was almost dawn when, at last, they came to the end of the trail of the big yellow roadster and Mrs. Carol Kimbark.

"I was going to telephone you early in the morning," another sleepy constable of another sleepy backwoods village admitted.

"It took me a little time to find out where the car belonged. Late yesterday afternoon a kid going along Bluemont Cliff saw it and reported to me. I went out right away, but there wasn't anything I could do. She was dead o' course. The car had gone right over the cliff and smashed to pieces down in the crick bottom below."

Inspector Steelman and Detective Nunn drove wearily back to Stapleton in the gathering dawn.

"Too bad," Nunn said.

"You bet it's too bad," the inspector agreed. "Especially for Jayson Plaice."

Tessa Devlin lay in bed and stared up into the darkness, striving to regain consciousness.

Not the mere physical consciousness that propels the limbs and makes one answer when spoken to, but conciousness of the nerves, of feeling, the reestablishment of self as an entity.

It hadn't been like this last night, even at its worst. Then she had been like some one bleeding and tortured with horror and recoil. It had not been like this that morning when the police had come and she had been forced into a perilous game of evasion. Then she had been all one, altho gravely shaken.

Now she was dismembered.

"There can be nothing that you or I can have to say to each other."

That had been the blow that had shattered her. That other time—it didn't mean a thing . . . you know how men are—had blinded and burned, but it had left her intact.

Had, in fact, forged something cold and hard and ruthless within her, a revolt against all that she had been before, a betrayal of herself. What was betrayal to one already betrayed?

It had made her capable of preserving the bright enamel of the woman desired and chosen by Jayson Plaice, had carried her thru the preliminaries, would have carried her thru the finals if . . .

Her numbed spirit strove to cope with all the implications of that "if." If she had not seen once again that name—just on paper—and it had been like a fire, searing thru the bright enamel, melting the hard steel ingot of betrayal and resolution, sending her rushing out into the darkness and the woods.

And even after the grim horror of the night, it had sustained her, made it possible to force herself back to that cottage, into his presence. And then. . . .

"There can be nothing that you or I can have to say to each other."

She had not argued, nor pleaded nor explained. She couldn't. The shattering force of those words had done their work in the first swift blow, and she had stumbled from the cottage.

Now her hand groped beneath the pillow and felt for something small and leather covered. But it was no use. Hadn't been since that day when she had, with ruthless deliberation, forsaken her own ways, and surrendered to the alien world into which she had been thrust. She had often opened the diary of Dr. Robert Shaw, but she had not been able to read it.

And the Lord hath withdrawn His face from me and I am no longer worthy to be in His sight.

Bible verses from the old mission school in the hills. But the spirit they invoked was not the spirit of the Lord of heaven.

In an agony of sobbing she pressed the little red book to her in the dark. The sound of a tolling bell came dimly thru the window opening into the night. Twelve long muffled peals. And then later a single one. She slept at last, lightly, fitfully.

In another part of the house the maid, Beatrice, slept fitfully, too. She turned restlessly in bed, searching for a more comfortable position and found herself wide awake again. This place was getting on her nerves!

She snapped on the light and looked at the alarm clock beside her bed. One-thirty. And she had to get up at 6. She longed for the heavy, refreshing sleep that her hard working life usually induced. She wished she had something to take to—

Suddenly she sat up in bed remembering. Those capsules Mrs. Devlin had insisted on Miss Tessa taking!

"Tessa, dear, you must. You're too unstrung. You'll never be able to sleep."

Miss Tessa had protested but Mrs. Devlin had been firm, even appealing to her husband and Jayson Plaice and Uncle Billy who had been with them in the drawing room.

"Beatrice, get two of the green sodium amytol out of the medicine chest and take them to Miss Tessa. That's a double dose. I want to make sure she sleeps good and sound."

She had got them and taken them to the girl's bedroom as she was dressing, but Tessa Devlin had shaken her head, and spoken in that dry, forced voice that she had used ever since it happened.

"No, Beatrice, that's no solution. But don't tell Mrs. Devlin I didn't take them," and she had laid them on the shelf in the bathroom.

Beatrice remembered now that that bathroom connected with another room. She could get into it without ever disturbing Miss Tessa and get one of those green capsules.

She rose and reached for kimono and slippers and crept down the hall of the servants' quarters. There was a door at the further end which gave onto the main part of the house. She opened it quietly, went thru it.

It was just as she was about to close it behind her that the scream came, brief, shrill, cut off quickly as if in a sudden intake of breath. It went thru her like an electric charge, holding her transfixed for a moment. Then some quality of the voice released her.

Miss Tessa!

The hall before her ran for about 20 feet before there was a right angle turn that carried it into the main upper hall onto which most of the master bedrooms opened. She gained the turn and raced toward the door that was Miss Tessa's.

Even in the swift rush of excited apprehension, two things registered on her brain. The hall light was out, and. . . . But she didn't have time for that now. She was fumbling for the knob of the door, flinging it open.

Light from the room flooded into the black hall. Tessa Devlin was sitting hunched up in bed, clutching the bedclothes to her, her hair in a dark, disheveled cascade over her shoulders. Her eyes were wide with the terror of one startled from sleep by sudden fear, and the back of her hand pressed against her mouth, stemming a rising flood of hysteria.

"Miss Tessa——" Beatrice was across the room in a bound. "What is it? What——"

"O, Beatrice, Beatrice!"

Tessa Devlin's trembling hands reached out and clutched the maid convulsively. She shook all over like one in the grip of a deadly chill, and the hysteria she had held back flooded forth in wild, unnerved weeping.

"There, there, Miss Tessa. Don't be frightened. I'm here. Nothing can hurt you." Beatrice's arms were around her, firm and strong, and Beatrice's hands were pulling the covers up over her bare, shivering shoulders, making a warm, firm retreat from terror.

"What was it, Miss Tessa? What happened?"

"O, Beatrice—I woke up—something over there—some one in the dark——"

"Who was it, Miss Tessa?" There was urgency in Beatrice's voice.

"I don't know—I couldn't see—just——"

"Tessa, what is this? What's the matter?"

Beatrice, her arms still sheltering the trembling Tessa, twisted around. Thomas Devlin was standing in the doorway. He was in his bathrobe and pajamas and his hair was rumpled and he had forgotten his glasses. But he strode across the room with decision. Beatrice could feel Tessa Devlin shrink back slightly in her arms.

"Tessa, why did——"

"She had a fright, Mr. Devlin," Beatrice put in quickly, protectively.

"But what was she screaming about? Why——"

The question was cut short by a string of colorful, picturesque oaths from the hall, and Uncle Billy, wearing an old fashioned nightshirt, seemed to catapult into the room nursing a barked shin.

"Why is the hall light out? What's the matter? What's going on? What are you doin' here, Beatrice? That you scream'n', Tess?"

"Tessa's been frightened by something." Thomas Devlin said curtly. "Come now, Tessa, what was the matter? What scared you?"

"I woke up—and it—some one was in the room——"

"Now, Tessa, you're just being silly. We don't have burglars here. They couldn't get by——"

"TISH."

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by S. Sylvan Simon.
Based on stories by Mary Roberts Rinehart.
Presented at the Apollo.

THE CAST.

Letitia Carberry	Marjorie Main
Aggie Pilkington	Zasu Pitts
Lizzie Wilkins	Aline MacMahon
Cora Edwards	Susan Peters
Charles Sands	Lee Bowman
Judge Horace Bowser	Guy Kibbee
Katherine Bowser	Virginia Grey
Theodore Bowser	Richard Quine

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Once this movie gets away from a bla beginning things move right interestingly. . . . But I do think Mrs. Rinehart's "Tish" rates a better movie and a different actress for the title rôle.

Marjorie Main is grand in western parts, but she's not my idea of "Tish" and I don't believe she'd be the author's. . . . However, like so many other things in life, this is a matter of opinion.

Many years ago I used to laugh like a fool over the "Tish" stories which appeared regularly in a weekly periodical. . . . So I went happily to the theater for a renewal of acquaintance with my old favorite. . . . And discovered her kicking up her heels in a small town, bossing her nephew, her two maiden pals, and a young girl friend around, followed hither and yon by a Negro maid of all work carrying a "swear box" in which, as often as she swore, she deposited coins—according to the length and strength of the vituperation.

Miss Carberry's meddling in two romances—with the assistance of the spinsters, Aggie and Lizzie—brings about conditions that land a baby in her arms and herself, temporarily, in an institution for the "not quite there." . . . The batty action, of which there is much, is tempered by several genuinely affecting situations. . . . Featured in these are Susan Peters and Richard Quine—two able and appealing young people.

They and Lee Bowman do the best acting—but that's largely because of the rôles. . . . Aline MacMahon, Zasu Pitts, Virginia Grey, et al. are expert without much to be expert in.

The picture is brief.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 14.—When Claudette Colbert was ill a couple of days last week she read a story called "The People's Choice," by Richard English and Edward Holderman. She immediately phoned Paramount and asked whether she could do it as her next. It deals with a young woman who's been elected to congress. And don't be too surprised if that woman is Clare Luce. . . . I lunched with Clare, who's here, as you know, doing a picture about China with Joe Swerling. She'd like to use the title, "The 400 Million." When Clare was talking about her constituents in Connecticut, I thought for a minute I was back in London chatting with Nancy Astor. Knowing how all the men cluster about her, I thought, of course, they had elected her. Not at all; it was the women. They figured—here's a woman who has everything, doesn't have to work, yet she's willing to fight for us in congress, and the least we can do is to help her get there. I asked Clare whether she wore old clothes while campaigning. "Certainly not," she replied. "I wore my best sable trimmed coat." She caught the first soldiers' showing of her play, "The Women," at Camp Lee. There and in Richmond the soldiers, all professional actors, took in $155,000 in eight shows. Now they've got army okay to tour the camps.

Claudette Colbert.

How About It, Girls?

The army wishes our femme stars would stay home and leave their service husbands alone. Oleg Cassini is up for a commission, but his friends are afraid his chances may fade. Gene Tierney is about to visit him back east, which will take his attention from routine. . . . Joan Crawford, in an Irish green dress, orchids in her hair, holding hands with husband Phil, did their Christmas shopping. . . . Dean Jagger's coming back to town to co-star with John Carradine in "No Escape." Does that mean from playing villains?

Right Atmosphere.

No wonder "A Night to Remember" has the proper background. Its director, Dick Wallace, used to be an undertaker. Incidentally, it's a swell picture. . . . The two kissing scenes written into "The Moon Is Down" have been cut out. Nunnally Johnson wants to keep the mood of the picture grim. Sometimes a touch of romance helps that feeling too, Nunnally.

Say It with Music.

Roy Rogers' westerns are growing mellower and mellower. In his next, "Idaho," they'll use St. Brendan's Boys' choir. In the last they used the Hal Johnson choir. Could it be that the shortage of cowboys and horses brought about the change, or is it better stories. . . . Jeanette MacDonald got up to sing two songs at the canteen Sunday, but before boys let her stop, she'd gone thru 15. While she was singing, Freddie Bartholomew slipped in to play the drums. He leaves for the air corps Jan. 11. . . . Fifi D'Orsay and Gracie Allen did their bit, with Gracie turning the wheel of chance, which gave two lucky soldiers a $25 war bond each.

What Do You Know?

Gregory Ratoff is testing the Dorski trio for folk dances in his picture, "Russia." Garbo talks, but Ratoff, the big noise, will sing. . . . Guy Kibbee's brother, Milton, did a bit in "Hit Parade of 1943." His job was a soft one—hurling custard pies at John Carroll. . . . Dorothy Thompson's new book, "Listen, Hans," sold out its first edition of 20,000 in one week. . . . Charley Grapevine's "Meg Randall" is so popular his publisher's after two more. . . . "The Robe," for which Jean Arthur's husband, Frank Ross, paid $100,000 for movie rights, is in its fourth printing. And movieland thought when Frank bought it he was taking chances. . . . H. H. Griffith owns the screen rights to Bob Smith's book, "Driving for Hell." . . . Screen magic—Dick Thorpe swears a boarding house on Metro's back lot is now the Adlon hotel in Berlin. . . . Ha, ha! After holding so many conversations with Maj. de Seversky, Marie Montez has started taking Russian lessons. Does that mean that after lunching with Michael Arlen she'll add English to her languages.

Should Be Fun.

I'll bet the caddies get more attention than the golfers in that Victory tournament Dec. 20. Dinah Shore carries the bag for Bing Crosby. Paulette Goddard for Bob Hope—with the girls keeping score. It probably will end up in a tie. Neither of the girls can add up, except when it comes to beaux. . . . Ken Murray said, "Having a baby sure brightens up the home. Even in the dimout, our lights are on all night.' . . . For the fifth consecutive year, Joe Schenck is heading our infantile paralysis fund.

'This Is the Army' Ticket Sale Opens on Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday at 10 a. m. the stampede for tickets to "This Is the Army," the great Irving Berlin all-soldier musical show, will begin at the Civic Opera house as seats are placed on sale for the first time.

The engagement of the show begins on Monday, Jan. 4, and continues thru Saturday, Jan. 16. Beginning Tuesday the box office will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. No mail or telephone orders will be filled under any circumstances.

In the other cities already visited by "This Is the Army" on tour, the demand for seats has exceeded any in the history of the American theater. Since the Broadway première on July 4, the show has been completely sold out at every performance.

The gross receipts in three months in New York were $625,000; and the total gross of the tour up to the present stand in Detroit has amounted to another $750,000. The show is sponsored by the United States government.

A cook's best friend is the onion. Take the onion out of the kitchen and the poor cook is lost when it comes to seasoning sauces, salad dressings, meat loaves, and a hundred other good things to eat.

Onions make an excellent vegetable dish of themselves in addition to their contributions to the flavor of other foods. The big mild-sweet Spanish type of onion is excellent baked, creamed, or boiled and served with a little butter or margarine, salt, and pepper.

If you buy onions by the sack, store them in a cool dry place. Moisture in the atmosphere tends to encourage rot. They need air, too, so shouldn't be dumped into a bin. Open crates of lath, or mesh sacks are the best containers. Spoiled onions should be removed before they can contaminate their neighbors.

The cook is smart if she keeps a special knife for cutting onions. The flavor is lingering and may affect other foods even after the knife has been washed. A red, blue, or green handled knife reserved especially for onions reminds the cook by its color to avoid using it for other foods.

Deep Dish Meat and Onion Pie.
[Serves six.]

Pie:
6 sweet Spanish onions
2 cups diced leftover roast meat, ham, or luncheon loaf
2 cups white sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup grated sharp cheese

Crust:
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 beaten egg yolk
1½ tablespoons water
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Peel and slice onions. Cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain and use cooking water in the white sauce. Combine onions, sauce, Worcestershire sauce, and diced meat. Add cheese. Pour into baking dish and top with crust. To make the crust sift flour with baking powder and salt and cut in shortening. Add combined egg yolk, water, and lemon juice to form soft dough. Knead gently for 30 seconds and roll to one third inch thick. Cut in squares, circles, or triangles and top casserole. Bake at 425 degrees about 20 minutes.

Onion Dumplings.
[Serves four.]

1 recipe baking powder biscuits
4 large sweet onions, boiled
1½ cups cheese sauce

Make the biscuit dough, roll out and cut into four equal squares. The onions should have been boiled in salted water, then drained. [Save the liquid for use in the cheese sauce or soup.] Place one boiled onion on each square of pastry and press the corners together up around the onion as you would for apple dumplings. A slice of cheese may be laid on top of each onion first if desired. Bake at 425 degrees for about 20 minutes or until the biscuit casing is done. Serve with hot cheese sauce. Make it by blending 3 tablespoons margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, and ¼ teaspoon salt and adding gradually 1½ cups combined milk and onion cooking water. Cook and stir to a smooth sauce and melt ¼ cup or more cheese in the sauce.

Still another attractive way to prepare onions is to stuff them with a mixture of cooked, seasoned meat, then wrap and bake as described. This makes a heartier dish, one suitable for the main course of luncheon or dinner. The plain onions in biscuit crust are fine for luncheon, but often need an accompaniment of meat, poultry, or fish at dinner. They provide the vegetable and bread at either meal. One would not serve another kind of bread with them.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Grandma Engel's Christmas Cookies.
[Large recipe. Cookies will keep for months.]

4 cups sugar
4 cups sirup or molasses
4 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon ginger
1 tablespoon cloves
1 tablespoon anise seed
1 tablespoon fennel seed
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon soda
10 to 12 cups flour [about]
½ pound chopped citron
½ pound blanched almonds
½ pound walnuts
1 cup warm water
9 tablespoons vinegar

Blend sugar, sirup, and eggs and beat well. Sift spices and 1 cup of flour with salt and soda. Mix with fruits and nut meats. Add to sirup mixture. Combine water and vinegar and add in three portions alternately with 3 cups of flour. Add more flour to make a very stiff dough. Roll out on lightly floured board and cut. Bake on well greased pans in hot [450 degrees] oven until lightly browned, about 12 minutes. Beaten egg and confectioners' sugar icing may be brushed on cookies before baking.

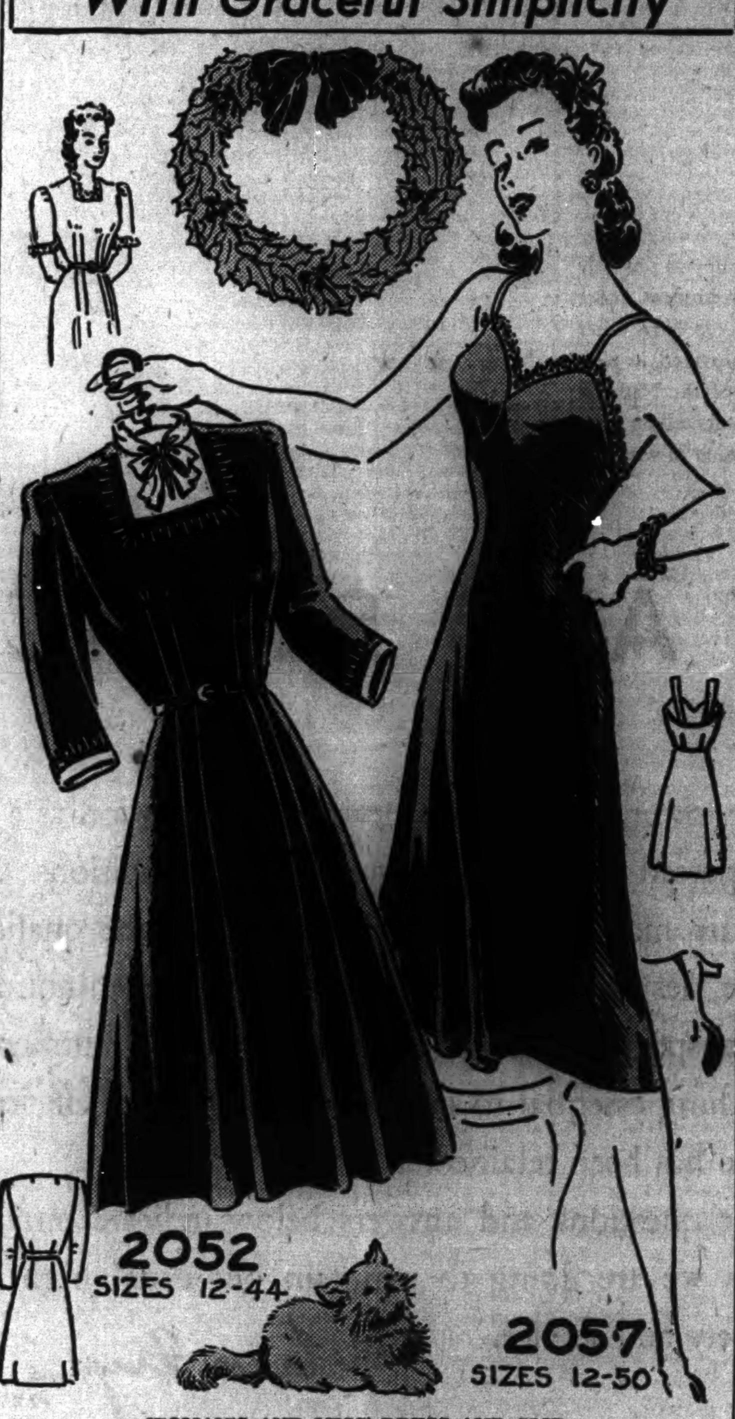
With Graceful Simplicity



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS AND SLIP.

The more graceful simplicity a dress has these days, the greater its charm. Of all winters, this is not one for ostentation. We think this simple frock, with its square neckline, with or without a dickey, has special appeal. The slip to wear under it is a molded model to give both good wear and a fine foundation for your frock.

Style No. 2052 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard contrasting.

Style No. 2057 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch fabric with 1⅛ yards of edging.

The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Come, Now.

A business man comes to the rescue of the puzzled reader who is in a quandary as to the proper way to address an organization composed entirely of women. "Begin all such letters 'Dear Girls;'" he advises, "and the ageless female will be satisfied."

All in the Day's Work.

The secretary who forwarded the letter considered it all in the day's work—one of the many personal tasks she performs for her employer. But, somehow, this was different. The letters blurred and it wasn't the fault of the carbon, either.

"Dear Son": the boss dictated to that certain boy in service, "Congratulations on your 21st birthday! Twenty-one years is either a long or short time depending on the viewpoint and experience. From mine, to watch you develop thru all the various stages, from babyhood thru boyhood, the years have seemed like so many days.

"No mere birthday present that we could give you could express the pride and satisfaction we, your parents, feel in having you for a son. You were a welcome baby 21 years ago today and there never have been any regrets. And we know that regardless of what the future holds for you in these troubled times, that wherever you are, your standard of morals, your practice of clean living and your willingness to do your part, will carry you thru to the success that you will achieve and deserve. O. K. Red, you are a man: Be one! With love and affection——"

It Sticks in the Mind.

The sales girls in the 5 and 10 with bells tied to their shoelaces—bells that jingle jangle . . . girls on a noon hour, standing before the window of a Michigan avenue bank gazing soulfully at the water color portrait in the window of Daniel J. Raftis—a handsome ensign from Abbott hall—painted by Helen Slutz . . . the sincere and beautiful Christmas greeting sent by Thomas B. Freeman [president of a large company], to the employés in service—"You'll remember this Christmas as the most significant you'll ever know . . . because you're spending it so that Christmas as you know it may go on in the land you're coming back to. . . . We think you have the most important job in the world today. . . . May God bless you and keep you is my wish to you this Christmas time. . . ."

The St. Luke's nurse who can beat all the service men at archery at the Grant Park Recreation center . . . and the young school teacher who drew such an attractive poster for the Christmas party at the center . . . the little girl who wanted to wear her Santa Claus mask downtown to see Santa—to "surprise him" . . . and what fun it would have been to watch her . . . the sad little discarded photographs from old lockets in an antique shop and the tantalizing thought: What has become of the wistful child, the man with the handlebar mustache; where are they now and where are those who carried their pictures in a locket?

Smoke Gets in His Eyes.

S. O. has this to say about women smoking in the Insurance Exchange building, blowing smoke in his eyes when he "is forced to share a lunch table with them." "Should I explain patiently to them that my eyes are smoke sensitive or should I, as I usually do, hurry up and get out of the way—or should I 'bop' them on the noggin with a plate of soup? I wonder how many, like me, object to girls smoking because smoke gets in the eyes?"

Wedding

County Accepts $100,000 Offer on Club Taxes

The tax foreclosure committee of the Cook county board voted yesterday afternoon to accept an owner's bid of $100,000 to settle a tax bill of $559,000, including penalties, owed on the Illinois Women's Athletic club building at 820 North Michigan avenue.

Several hours earlier representatives of real estate and other organizations had urged the county to accept "reasonable" bids for tax settlements rather than to institute involuntary foreclosure suits and "go into the real estate business." Among the organizations were the Chicago Real Estate board, the Civic Federation, Union League club, and the Chicago Bar association.

Newton C. Farr, president of the Civic Federation, said he favored the county taking over only buildings that could be used for county business. He and spokesmen for the other organizations would not give an opinion on whether the $100,000 bid was reasonable.

Members of the committee, of which Commissioner Daniel Ryan is chairman, were worried over the possibility that this seemingly small settlement might encourage other owners of large buildings to stall off their taxes and trust to compromises for a more favorable deal.

Commissioner George F. Nixon proposed the motion to accept, qualifying it as having been advised by the civic organizations, and Commissioner George A. Miller went on record that no precedent was being established and that every case would have to stand on its merits.

Attorney Vernon Loucks, for the property owners, said that the club could not be remodeled for hotel purposes, and that it had been a steady money loser until recently, when the navy leased it.

The property has already been foreclosed and, to carry out the board's instruction, the county comptroler is to bid in the property at a tax sale unless a bid of $100,000 is made. By the agreement the owners will make this bid.

Delicate Orchid Is Made to Bloom After It's Crushed

Members of the Chicago chapter of the National Florists' association were given a demonstration last night at their meeting in the Hotel Sherman on how to revive orchids that have undergone rough treatment.

The demonstration was staged by John Ingervallo, a Chicago florist, who made the delicate plants bloom again in all their splendor after a young woman assistant had sat upon them.

"All sorts of accidents can happen to orchids," Ingervallo explained, "but the most common mishap is when a woman throws her coat on the chair and then sits on it, forgetting about the orchid that is affixed to it."

According to Culbertson

Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.

A preëmptive bid is not directed exclusively against the enemy. It also carries a strong warning to the bidder's partner. Consider the following deal:

Neither side vulnerable.
South, dealer.
Rubber bridge.

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A K Q 8
♦ K J 7 3
♣ A K 10 7 4

WEST	EAST
♠ J	♠ 10 9 6 3
♥ 10 7 3 2	♥ J 6
♦ A 10 6 4 2	♦ Q 8
♣ Q 8 5	♣ J 9 6 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 8 7 5 4 2
♥ 9 5 4
♣ None

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

It was only natural that North should have been deeply impressed with his own five honor tricks opposite a bid from partner that contracted for 10 tricks. Nevertheless, North's decision to bid a slam was extremely questionable, and on West's opening of the diamond ace, turned out badly because South, despite his seeming solidity in the trump suit, had to concede a trump trick to East.

There is no denying that five honor tricks constitute an excellent hand, but as already noted, North was ill advised to bid the slam. South's bid, not vulnerable, had announced the prospect of seven or eight tricks. These, however, could be made up in many ways which would not fit the North hand well enough to produce 12 tricks. For example, South might have held an eight card spade suit headed by four honors, but lacking the ace, and in that event the combined hands would be off two aces. Or South's holding might have been eight spades headed by K-J-10, with the diamond ace on the side, and with that setup he would almost surely have to lose two trump tricks.

If South had opened the bidding with any "one bid," it would have been completely logical for North to insist on a slam at some denomination, but the fact that South had chosen the shutout bid of four spades should have acted as a powerful deterrent on North. The latter's void in spades nullified a great part of his honor strength, and he should have foreseen that, however good South's spade suit happened to be, that void might lead to a trump loser. Surely, South had every reason, when he made his bid, to feel that he could produce eight tricks, since an eight card suit headed by ace, king, queen, will turn out to be solid in the vast majority of cases. The partner who holds a void, however, should take it upon himself to doubt this implied estimate.

I do not mean to say that the six spade contract, in this case, was really bad. It would readily have been fulfilled against any other opening lead, or if trumps had broken more normally. I must point out, however, that the slam would have failed even with a trump break if both diamond honors had been off-side and West happened to choose that suit for his opening.

Barton Cameron Given Promotion to Captaincy.

Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron have received word that their son, Barton, has been promoted from a first lieutenant to a captain in the army air corps. Capt. and Mrs. Cameron are at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. Another of the Camerons' four sons, Lieut. Gordon Cameron, and his wife are expected in Chicago tomorrow or Thursday en route from the west to the east coast. Lieut. Cameron, a survivor of the Wasp, recently was promoted to lieutenant [s. g.].

The J. Francis Dammanns' son, Peter A. Dammann, was commissioned an ensign last week. He came to Winnetka for a short visit before reporting for duty.

Miss Beatrice Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harding Jr.'s daughter, won't be at home for Christmas for two good reasons: her work with the government is keeping her in Washington, D. C., until she is called to service with the WAACs. She enlisted in Washington a few days ago. Miss Harding is a Smith graduate.

Norwegians Give Benefit Concert; Honors to Women

Singing Norwegians of Chicago filled the stage of Orchestra hall last night when Nancy Ness, Norwegian soprano, was guest artist, and Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian ambassador to the United States, was guest of honor at a Christmas concert organized to aid the milk fund for children in Norway. The choral groups appearing were the Norwegian Singers' league, the Norwegian Ladies Singers' league, and the Sons of Norway Children's chorus.

Miss Ness, a statuesque young singer new to Chicago, seemed more a mezzo soprano than the dramatic soprano of her billing. The Habanera from Bizet's "Carmen" brought out the best in a big, dark voice of potentially striking brilliance, now held in check by a kind of explosive voice production which makes a legato line next to impossible. In addition to operatic arias, Miss Ness sang a group of Norwegian songs by Grieg and Sverre Jordan, with Pearl Gran a capable accompanist.

Altho the men's chorus had some fine rich voices, and the children in red, white, and blue were delightful, the ladies carried off the choral honors of the evening. They sang with a clear, true and cleanly sustained tone that was a credit to their conductor, Maurice A. Sommerfelt.

The performance also held an address by Mr. Morgenstierne, the singing of both the American and Norwegian national anthems, and of Norwegian Christmas songs by choruses and audience.—C. C.

WORRIED ABOUT BUTTER RATIONING?

MAKE 2-LBS. DELICIOUS SPREAD USING ONLY 1-LB. BUTTER WITH KNOX GELATINE ...SAVE 39¢ Or more, based on average prices

It's Easy... Here's How:

KNOX SPREAD
1 envelope Knox Gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 14½-oz. can evaporated milk
1 lb. butter
1 teaspoonful salt

1. Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water.
2. Dissolve thoroughly over hot water.
3. Cut butter into small pieces and heat over hot water until soft enough to beat. But do not melt the butter.
4. Add dissolved gelatine and salt to the milk. Gradually whip milk into butter with a Dover egg beater or electric mixer until milk does not separate.
5. Add coloring if desired.
6. Pack in dish or container and place in refrigerator until hard. Keep in refrigerator when not in use.

NOTE: Fresh milk may be substituted for the evaporated milk, in which case use a pint of milk (preferably top half of a quart bottle), and soften the gelatine in one-fourth cup milk taken from that pint.

★ ★ ★ Over a period of years, TWA has received support not only from its stockholders, but also from the Government, under the terms of the Civil Aeronautics Act—as have other airlines. This Government assistance was provided, in part, to prepare the airlines to serve the needs of the National Defense. This is the first in a series of reports telling how TWA is fulfilling its obligations to the nation in wartime. ★ ★ ★

WHAT ABOUT AIRLINE SAFETY AND SERVICE?

Certain questions have arisen in the public mind about commercial airline operations today. We can readily understand why.

We in TWA, for instance, with about half our planes now in military service, are carrying as much traffic over our domestic routes as a year ago. At the same time, large numbers of our experienced personnel have been released for military service or special war work.

It is only natural that you should ask how we are maintaining safety and service standards under these conditions.

There seems to be a tendency, in some lines of business, to accept lower standards of service and operation as a thing to be expected under the pressure of war conditions. We, however, are making every effort to maintain the quality of our service, despite these conditions. The frills common to luxury air transportation in peacetime have been eliminated. But everything essential to reliable, courteous and efficient airline service has been retained.

The questions and answers below indicate certain of the things we are doing to maintain our usual high standards of safety and service.

Jack Frye
PRESIDENT

SAFETY

MAINTENANCE PER PLANE

QUESTION: In view of the more intensive use of its planes, how does TWA keep them in first-class condition?

ANSWER: We have greatly increased the amount of maintenance work per plane. In September, 1942, for instance, maintenance hours per plane totaled 3,167 as compared to 2,335 in September, 1941.

When the number of our planes was reduced and our mileage cut accordingly, an over-supply of experienced mechanics resulted. Thus, while many of our trained men have entered military service, we have been able to retain a highly skilled maintenance corps. These men, by devoting more hours to each plane, have readily upheld our maintenance standards.

TRAFFIC CARRIED PER PLANE

QUESTION: How does TWA manage to have sufficient experienced pilots, with so many men called to military service?

ANSWER: When the size of our fleet was reduced, we were able to release many pilots to the military and still retain a full complement of seasoned captains and first officers. Captains remaining in our domestic service average 5,738 hours' flying experience. First officers average 1,604 hours' experience. In July of this year we doubled the frequency of check tests for our pilots.

We now have more pilots in training than ever before, due in part to preparation of men for Government Air Cargo flying. Sixty per cent of our student pilots have had experience as pilot instructors.

AVAILABLE SPACE UTILIZED

QUESTION: How are TWA planes kept mechanically up-to-date at this time?

ANSWER: A large number of safety projects are "in work" in our engineering department. For example, TWA recently developed a new system of cockpit lighting—"black" light in combination with fluorescent-treated dials. This system eliminates glare, improves visibility of instruments, and makes possible normal outside vision at the same time. Also new is the installation of blinker lights on the tail and above and below the fuselage of our ships, making them highly visible for greater distances at night. Three other projects are aimed at still further minimizing ice interference in winter flying.

SERVICE

QUESTION: How does TWA efficiently serve the war transportation needs over its domestic routes with nearly half its planes in military service?

ANSWER: First, by getting more work out of each of our remaining planes. On the basis of traffic carried, each plane now does 89% more work than a year ago. We accomplish this by flying more hours per day; by making more frequent stops to permit smaller fuel loads and greater useful loads; and by careful scheduling to achieve maximum use of equipment. Another factor is our new Central Traffic Dispatcher's Office—unique in air transportation. On the job 24 hours a day, this department is responsible for seeing that all available space is filled with most urgent traffic. It also enables us to make reservations for cargo space—a service important to shippers of war materials. From Sept. 24 to Oct. 21, 1942, (latest Government figures) TWA achieved, on its transcontinental route, the highest space utilization factor of any airline in the nation—94.3%.

QUESTION: How does TWA maintain courteous, helpful service?

ANSWER: Through intensified training and increased supervision. We believe we are succeeding, judging by unsolicited, favorable comments from our passengers. A few of them appear below:

My recent trip between Los Angeles and New York, via TWA, was the most pleasant I have ever experienced—except via Stratoliner. You and your associates are to be commended for maintaining the same high type service characteristic of TWA, in the face of our strenuous and exacting times.
R. S. MADISON, Merco Company, Los Angeles.

Our company recently was awarded the Army-Navy 'E'. We feel this high honor was conferred on the John Browns and Mary Smiths who work not only at Vendo but also at TWA. It was your assistance and co-operation that helped make our performance possible.
E. F. PIERSON, The Vendo Company, Kansas City.

May I congratulate you and your employes on your excellent handling of passengers in these hectic times. I flew from Los Angeles to New York recently and enjoyed every moment. Our hostess was on hand for every need. The food is still superb as on previous trips.
ALFRED RITTER, Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., Long Beach.

Having just returned from a business trip in connection with important war work, I wish to express my appreciation for the excellent service and attention given me throughout by TWA. Thank you for the assistance and courtesies extended to me.
R. P. PIPEROUX, Celanese Corporation of America, Newark.

It is good to receive the same quality of service these days and to note your excellence of maintenance in spite of the other pressing demands of the day. Not one item of TWA service missed on this trip.

LEAGUE VOTES TO CONTINUE PRO FOOTBALL IN 1943

PLAYER DRAFT IS POSTPONED UNTIL SPRING

Redskins Cut Purse Into 36¼ Shares.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dutch Clark.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—Professional football, its operators hoping for the best, but some of them frankly pessimistic, today decided to make plans to take the field in 1943. This was voted unanimously at the National Football league draft meeting, after which the traditional selection, team by team, of the nation's graduating college stars, was indefinitely postponed.

Elmer Layden, professional football commissioner and president of the National league, was empowered to call a special draft meeting on a date of his own choosing. He indicated this business would be transacted at the annual spring meeting the first week in April.

Clark Casts Dissenting Vote.

The postponement of the player selection long had been advocated by nine of the ten teams, but the Cleveland Rams had insisted on action at the usual time. At today's meeting, Fred Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, made a motion for postponement of the draft. Only Dutch Clark, Cleveland coach who was representing that club, cast a dissenting vote. By a vote of 9 to 1 the meeting was adjourned and the various football folk hastily started casting around for railroad transportation.

Luke Johnsos and Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, co-coaches of the Bears, who will lead the National league All-Stars against the Washington Redskins, new National league champions, in the pro bowl game Dec. 27 in Philadelphia, huddled with Layden and selected their player list.

Seek Deferments for Players.

One National league coach expressed doubt that this game would be played. Many of the Washington and All-Star players have orders to report immediately for military service. Lieut. Ray Flaherty, Redskin coach, who was scheduled to report to the navy this week for indoctrination training in Florida, was advised today he had been deferred until after the All-Star game. No report was received on requests for 30 day deferments for players due to join the services before Dec. 27.

This coach said players selected couldn't be blamed for desiring to spend Christmas with their relatives before entering military service. The Bears, for instance, left for their homes yesterday and the nine named to the All-Star team along with all others, are being asked to report tomorrow in Philadelphia.

As to 1943, Commissioner Layden said:

"We are unanimously in favor of continuing. Unless the government places restrictions which cannot be foreseen at this time, we'll function as usual."

Only 34 Report Last Year.

The magnates believe that by April they will know how many college seniors, most of whom are in some enlisted reserve, will be available. Only 34 of the 200 drafted last year reported to league teams and many of these went into service before this season closed.

The Redskins split their purse of $35,397.47 into 36¼ shares. Thirty-one players, two coaches, and the trainer got full shares of $965.89, topping the all-time high of $873.99, which the Bears collected in 1940. The Bears' individual shares this time amounted to $639.12.

Juzwik Gets Quarter Share.

A three-quarter share went to Johnny Goodyear, a reserve Redskin back who was called into service in midseason. Half shares went to Charley Malone, an end who joined up late in the season, and to the clubhouse boy. Quarter shares were voted Steve Juzwik, who entered the navy after playing in two games, and to Lee Gentry, who did not play at all this year. He is in the navy.

Personnel of the All-Star squad follows:

Tackles—Chet Adams, Cleveland; Vic Sears, Philadelphia; Al Blozis and Frank Cope New York; John Woudenberg, Pittsburgh; Ed Kolman and Lee Artoe, Chicago Bears.

Guards—Milt Simington, Pittsburgh; Danny Fortmann, Chicago Bears; Augie Lio, Detroit; Enio Conti, Philadelphia.

Centers—Bulldog Turner, Chicago Bears; Chuck Cherundolo, Pittsburgh; Charley Brock, Green Bay.

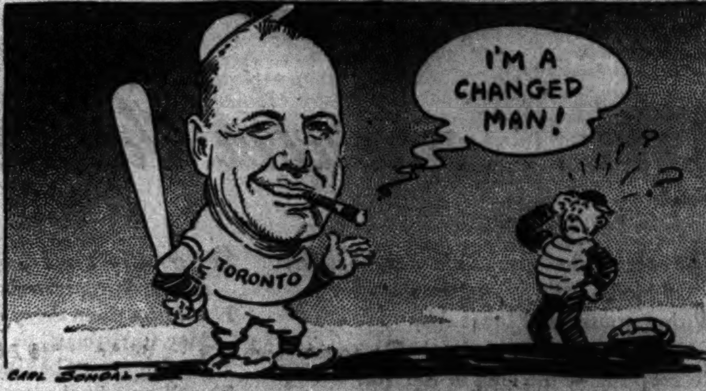
OFFICIALS who work the Cotton Bowl football game in Dallas New Year's day will be toiling under critical eyes. . . . Both coaches, D. X. Willie Pep, the mechanical man from Connecticut, who fights every week, was born William Papaleo in Middletown, Conn., seat of Wesleyan college. . . . Willie, however, is not a campus man, but an ex-bootblack. . . . Hal Trosky is ready to return to Cleveland's first sack when the club officials give him the word and they'll be glad to do so, because of the potential induction of Les Fleming, their slugging rookie. . . . There is a hitch in Hal's case, too, because of his value as a farm worker. . . . He owns acreage near Norway, Ia. . . .



Burleigh Grimes, long the nemesis of the boys in blue, insists he's a changed man. . . . He set a record for decorum as manager of Toronto by playing the entire 1942 season without paying a fine. . . . Dolly Stark, onetime fashion plate of the National league umpiring staff, has become recreational director at a big Kansas City defense firm. . . . Students and fans raised such a howl when Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn., dropped intercollegiate athletics that the ban was lifted after five days. . . . Gene Fekete, Ohio State's brilliant sophomore back, hails from Sugar Creek, O., population 59 when Gene is at home. . . . The Wake extends its congratulations to the Washington Redskins for their victory over the Chicago Bears and welcomes them back to Soldiers' field for the 1943 All-Star game as the representatives of the National Football league. . . . The Redskins Sunday must have been one of football's all-time great elevens, because only a team of that calibre could have beaten the Bears so convincingly. . . . The Bears undoubtedly were paying the penalty of their participation in last summer's All-Star game. . . . According to Lieut. Comm. George Halas they were in better form that night than at any other time until their meeting with the Brooklyn Dodgers on Nov. 8. . . . No team can hold such a high level from August until December. . . . The Bears are the only team that has engaged in the All-Star game and carried on to the league championship the same season. . . . They accomplished the feat in 1941. . . . We hope professional football's new standard bearers will do as much to win friends for the sport as did the Bears of 1941 and 1942.

BOWLERS WEND THUMB-SORE HOMEWARD WAY

But Schwoegler, Varipapa Are Ready for More.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Most of the 24 players who made up the cast of the All-Star bowling show which ended in the Auditorium theater Sunday night left yesterday for their homes carrying prize checks totaling $7,350. And most of them planned to be back at their jobs today or tomorrow. Again, most of them planned to leave their 16 pound bowling balls in bags for a day or two or a week, to permit swollen and aching thumbs to heal.

Probably the two exceptions to the no-bowling rule were the new match game champion, Connie Schwoegler, and Andy Varipapa, who makes a living teaching the game of American Tenpins. Schwoegler, before leaving for Madison, Wis., his home, with his dad, Tony, and brother, Mel, said he'd like to get in a few games a day to keep in trim, but had made no plans for the immediate future beyond getting back to his job at the Schwoegler alleys which the trio operates.

An All-Around Man.

Help has been short there, so Connie has been keeping the lanes in trim and even doubling up at spotting pins—setting them up on adjoining alleys, that is. He may have to keep on doing that, except when he's booked for matches.

Varipapa resumed his Chicago Tribune Bowling school teaching yesterday at the Sun Bowl lanes in Indiana Harbor, going three hours in the afternoon and returning to do his fancy shots last night. Today he's to play a return engagement at Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway, where he did a one night stand before the All-Star tournament. He again was booked by Manager Ralph Olsen in answer to popular demand. He'll work the approaches between 2 and 5 p. m. this afternoon, then put on his show and roll a match after 11 o'clock tonight. He'll be at Schneider Brothers in Elgin tomorrow, at the Valparaiso, Ind. alleys Thursday, at the South Holland alleys, South Holland, Friday, and at Goshen, Ind., Saturday and Sunday.

'Twas a Great Show.

Schwoegler's runaway in the competition for the match game title held by Ned Day since 1938 was one of the highlights of the nine-day tournament. But the event boasted other bright spots as well, enough of them to keep the fans coming and to keep them cheering at every one of the 18 afternoon and evening sessions.

The averages maintained by Schwoegler in themselves are evidence of why the fans felt the show was bowling's all time high. Connie shot 204.4 in the 30 game preliminaries, then stepped up the pace to hit 217.13 in the 72 games he rolled in the last three days. His low game of the tournament was 149 and his high, 299. The No. 4 pin stuck when he tried for his 300 game late Saturday afternoon. His last five series totals, each series being made up of six games, were 1376, 1304, 1303, 1332 and 1303. His last three games in the final series were 228, 222 and 246.

Day Wins at Finish.

Another highlight was the Day-Crimmins match, which the champion won in the final frame of the last of their 90 games. Scored on the point basis, Ned earned 399.49 points to Johnny's 398.29. Ned had led all the way, at one time by nearly 20 points, only to have Crimmins cut down his margin in the last three blocks, finally pass him in the 89th game, then falter on the last frame of the closing game.

Day, who finished eighth in the final field, paid tribute to Schwoegler in relinquishing his title. Then, when it was announced Ned was to leave at once for the west coast to report tomorrow as a first class specialist in the navy, the crowd gave Ned the greatest cheer of the tournament.

Ready for a New Kind of Tee Shot

Lawson Little (left) last evening was sworn into the navy by Lieut. Comm. Stuart A. Bishop, assistant director of naval officer procurement in the middle west. Little, one of the longest hitters in golf, will have the status of an apprentice seaman pending approval of his application for a commission. Lawson won the British and American amateur titles of 1934 and 1935, and captured the American Open in 1940.

RAY ROBINSON STOPS NETTLOW IN THIRD ROUND

Fight Decisions

At Marigold Gardens—Jimmy Reeves stopped Johnny O'Brien [7]; Tommy James beat Mike Sopko [6]; Harold Ullmer beat Harold Lang [6]; Al Reasoner beat Gene Spencer [6]; James Smyles stopped Bruce Henman [4]; Al Nedoff stopped Johnny Kruger [3].

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Ray Robinson stopped Al Nettlow [3]; Al Tribuani beat Mayon Padlo [8]; Bobby Garcia beat Richard Cremar [6]; Freddie Wilson beat Jim Elliott [6]; Henry Jordan beat Sandy Mack [6].

At Detroit, Mich.—Willie Joyce stopped Leo Rodak [4]. Benny Goldberg knocked out

At San Francisco, Cal.—Henry Armstrong stopped Saverio Turiello [4].

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 14 (AP).—Ray Robinson, Harlem welterweight, battered Al Nettlow at will tonight to score a third round technical knockout over the game chief boatswain's mate from the navy's Jacksonville, Fla., base.

A crowd of nearly 10,000 saw Robinson administer such terrific punishment that Nettlow's manager, Al Weill, ordered Referee Matt Adgie to stop the bout after the third round.

40th Straight for Robinson.

It was Robinson's 40th straight victory as a professional and his 29th knockout.

Robinson rushed Nettlow into a corner at the opening bell and let fly a flurry of savage lefts and rights that floored Al. The Detroiter bounced to his feet before Timekeeper Joe Cervino could start to count, but from there on it was only a question of how long he could last.

Backs Nettlow into Corner.

All thru the first round Robinson kept swinging at the back pedaling Nettlow. He had Al backed into a corner when the bell ended the round.

It was the same story in the second round, with Robinson landing left after left as he chased Nettlow around the ring.

Starting the third, Nettlow landed his first blow, a weak right to the face. Robinson appeared tired, but unexpectedly cut loose in the middle of the round and stunned Nettlow with three consecutive lefts. It was a mystery how Nettlow stood up the rest of the round, but after he got to his stool Weill beckoned to Adgie and told him to stop it.

Illini Beat Missouri, 51-30; Purdue Whips Butler, 44-35

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 14 [Special].—The University of Illinois basketball team scored its third victory tonight, beating the Tigers of Missouri, 51 to 30. The Illini found the visitors matching them point for point early in the first half, but as the period advanced the home team drew steadily ahead. Andy Philip and Jack Smiley set the scoring pace, the former getting five baskets and four free throws and the latter five baskets and two free throws.

Makes Long Shot.

Just before the gun ended the first half, Gene Vance, Illinois' junior guard, delivered a remarkable shot. Dribbling up the floor the Clinton youth, seeing the clock nearing the zero mark, sent a 55 foot shot swishing thru the hoop as the crowd yelled for him to shoot.

Coach Doug Mills had another opportunity to study his material, using 11 men. Only Vance and Phillip played the entire game for Illinois.

PURDUE, 44; BUTLER, 35

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 14 [Special].—Putting on a scoring burst midway in the second half that netted five field goals in rapid succession, Purdue's basketball squad came from behind here tonight to defeat Butler, 44 to 35. It marked the second victory in three starts for the Boilermakers, and the first loss in two games for the well balanced Butler squad.

Due largely to the accurate shooting of Weaver and H. Miller, the Bulldogs earned a 23 to 18 margin at the half and were leading 27-22 when the Boilermaker basket barrage changed the complexion of the game.

Anderson Leads Rally.

Little Myrwin Anderson, red headed junior forward, who came out of nowhere in under the basket scrambles to score four baskets in less than four minutes of play, sparked the Boilermaker rally that shot Purdue out in front for the first time since the early moments of the game, 30-29.

Anderson scooted under for another field goal and Weaver counted on Ehlers' foul to cut Purdue's margin to 32-30 when the Boilermakers started hitting again with even more telling effect.

Boilermakers Get 11.

Dobbs Rejoins Tulsa U. Squad for Bowl Game

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 14 (AP).—Glenn Dobbs, Tulsa university's back field ace, rejoined the squad today as it started its second week of practice for the Sugar bowl game with Tennessee. The Oklahoma passing, running, kicking star has been out with an injured knee since the Thanksgiving game with Arkansas.

IRISH DEFEAT BADGERS, 61-59, IN OVERTIME

Maroons Beaten by Marquette, 53-40.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 14 [Special].—The Notre Dame and Wisconsin basketball teams tonight played to a 27 to 27 tie at the half, a 55 to 55 tie at the end of regulation time, a 59 to 59 deadlock with only 13 seconds left—and then Bob Rensberger, Notre Dame junior forward, fired in a field goal from the edge of the free throw circle to give the Irish a 61 to 59 victory.

The game, which broke all scoring records for both teams in the series, provided a brilliant duel between Johnny Kotz, Wisconsin's aggressive Big Ten scoring leader of last year, and Bobby Faught, Notre Dame junior center who led Notre Dame scoring last season. Kotz kept his mates in the ball game until he left on fouls with five minutes of regulation time remaining and 21 points beside his name. Faught made 18 points, all of them in regulation time.

No. 4 for Irish.

The victory was Notre Dame's fourth of the season, and it was Wisconsin's first defeat in three starts. It gave Notre Dame a series lead of 5 victories to 3 and avenged defeats at Madison the last two years, to the delight of a capacity crowd of 4,800.

It was Frankie Curran, slender little junior forward, who tied up Kotz in the second half—the Badger star got only 7 points, compared with 14 in the first half. And Curran also found time to score 10 points. Walt Lautenbach of the Badgers scored 8 points, 4 of them at decisive intervals. He made a field goal to send the game into overtime when there were only 25 seconds left. He also made a long shot that tied it at 59 all with 30 seconds remaining of the overtime.

Notre Dame Leads.

Notre Dame jumped into a 33 to 29 lead in the second half, then Rensberger and Faught ran it to 40 to 31 after six minutes of play. This, the most commanding lead of the night, gave way before the shooting of Kotz and Sullivan, but they didn't catch the Irish until Fred Rehm's field goal made it 47 to 46 for the visitors with seven minutes left.

Bonicelli tied it at 47 all. Kotz made his free throw on Bill Davis' fourth foul a moment later, then Curran got four quick points and the Irish led, 51 to 48. One of Curran's points came on the free throw resulting from Kotz' final foul.

Enter Mr. Rensberger.

Patterson missed a free throw and Sullivan's basket was nullified for traveling as the extra period opened. Then Sullivan made both free throws on Rensberger's foul, only to see Ray Kuka knock home a shot from the side. Tom Brennan, lanky sub forward, added a field goal from the side, which Lautenbach offset. Then came Rensberger's game winning toss.

MAROONS LOSE 23D

A belated Maroon rally was stopped by the final gun as Marquette beat the University of Chicago basketball team, 53 to 40, in the Midway fieldhouse last night. It was Marquette's third victory in five starts this season and brought the Maroons' losing streak to 23 games.

THERE'S NO NEWS HERE: MARSHALL WINS NUMBER 64

Juniors Beat Manley by 69-21 Score.

The Marshall High school juniors won their sixth straight basketball game of the season and their 64th without defeat over a period of three years yesterday, trouncing Manley, 69 to 21, on the Manley court. Morrie Kaplan contributed eight field goals for the winners, who have made 370 points this season to 124 by their opponents.

Harrison juniors beat Crane Tech, 37 to 32, at Crane, the winners holding a 22 to 17 half time lead. Wells juniors beat Sullivan, 48 to 35, in the Sullivan gymnasium despite the efforts of Marvin Beskin, who made 16 points for the losing team. Joe Plater scored 13 for Wells.

St. George Breaks Even.

De La Salle seniors defeated St. George, 31 to 25, in Evanston, but a 35 to 22 victory by the St. George juniors gave that school an even break.

Leo and South Shore broke even in their games at South Shore. The home juniors won, 47 to 38, and the Leo seniors gained a 50 to 34 verdict. Bob Baggott led the Lions' successful offense in the senior game with 19 points, while Stanford Whitmore made 17 for the South Shore juniors.

DE PAUL, WALLER SPLIT

De Paul academy's senior basketball team defeated Waller of the City league, 44 to 37, in an interleague practice game yesterday on the Waller court. The Waller juniors won their fifth straight game of the season by beating De Paul's junior quintet, 51 to 23, in the first game of the double header.

Steinmetz, playing at home, took two games from Washburne, the seniors by a score of 21 to 12 and the juniors by a 37 to 16 count. Schurz also won a pair on its home floor, with Foreman as the victim, 36 to 23 in the senior game, in which the winners used 20 players, and 32 to 18 in the junior contest.

Lindblom invaded Harper and won two games, the seniors 43 to 37 and the juniors 39 to 24.

St. Mel and Austin broke even last night, the former winning the junior contest, 36 to 16, and Austin taking the senior, 36 to 31.

In the Wake of the News

Older Men Wanted.

An ad I saw in the papers today
Caused me to ponder in mood rather gray;
I'd never seen such a notice before
Tacked up on factory or business house door:
"Older Men Wanted" is what it said;
My eyes could hardly believe what they read.
How many who'd known neglect's grim blight

How many a heart by idleness haunted
Must have leapt with joy at "Older Men Wanted,"
Spirits which long had lain dormant and cold,
Crushed by that heartless, "Sorry, too old";
Then a second thought, not quite so bright,
Followed the first, it didn't seem right
That to find for older folks' labors a berth,
A war had to shatter and menace the earth!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

CATHOLIC TEAMS OPEN ST. GEORGE MEET THURSDAY

St. Mel, De La Salle Play First Game.

Chicago Catholic high school basketball teams are putting the final touches on their preparations for the ninth annual St. George pre-season tournament, which opens Thursday night in the St. George gymnasium in Evanston. Three first round games will be played in the opening session and three more Friday night will complete the first round. Quarter-finals will be played in afternoon and night sessions Saturday, with the semi-finals Sunday evening and the championship and consolation games Monday night.

St. Mel, winner of the first St. George tournament in 1934, will meet De La Salle in the first game of this year's meet. Other games on Thursday night's schedule are St. Rita vs. Loyola and Fenwick vs. De Paul. Fourteen teams are entered.

The St. George tournament each year gives coaches of the Catholic league teams an opportunity to check on the prowess of the quintets which will provide the competition in the regular league season.

England Will Return to Scene of Prep Triumphs

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special].—Gene Englund, former Wisconsin All-American center, will return to his old high school gymnasium Dec. 30 as a mainstay of the Oshkosh All-Stars of the National Professional league, who will play an exhibition game against the Macwhyte quintet. Englund, who set a Big Eight High School conference record of 148 points in 14 games in 1938, now coaches at Clintonville High school besides playing with Oshkosh.

FRESHMAN RULE WILL NOT CHANGE TEXAS' LINEUP

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 14 (AP). — The Southwest conference has voted immediate participation by freshmen in all sports but it probably won't make a bit of difference in Texas' Cotton Bowl lineup.

Coach Dana X. Bible, here for the conference meeting, said he planned no additions to his varsity for the Georgia Tech battle—unless injuries force him to. The 1942 Longhorn frosh were acclaimed the finest since Bible took over in 1937.

A Toast to Our Boys... wherever they are

Of Americans serving the nation—
To those millions of lads and their brothers and dads
Who are saving our civilization.

Wherever they are—be it near, be it far,
On land, in the air, on the sea—
With a stoutness of heart they are doing their part
To keep this—"the land of the free."

So good luck and God speed them, may nothing impede them,
Nor make them delay or digress—
May Christmastime find them with power behind them
To roll up a final success.

HAWKEYE RALLY BEATS CARLETON QUINTET, 46-43

O'Brien Leads Victors' Comeback.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 14 [Special].—A rally in the final six minutes of the game gave Iowa a 46 to 43 victory over Carleton college before 2,000 fans here tonight.

Trailing six points and with as many minutes in which to push ahead, the Hawkeyes suddenly came to life, tying the score on a free throw by Center Jim O'Brien and then surging out in front on a field goal a few seconds later by the same man. Ben Trickey, who led the Hawks' scoring with 14 points, then added a toss from the free throw line.

It was Iowa's second victory in as many games and was Carleton's third loss in six contests.

O'Brien Makes Good.

Altho it took them a long time to get started, the Hawkeyes showed bursts of power that kept the crowd cheering. It looked dark from behind that six point lead, but then O'Brien, who had missed a number of easy setup shots, calmly added the point that tied the score and then put the game on ice with a field goal.

Carleton jumped into an early lead, holding a five point advantage with only five minutes of the game played. Repeated spurts by Iowa kept whittling at the lead, but the Hawks were still behind, 19 to 22, at half time.

Ulrich Leads Carls.

Led by Wallace Ulrich, who collected six points in two minutes of the second period, the Carls again surged into a commanding lead. Iowa bounced back and tied the score at the eight minute mark.

Then came Carleton's outburst which gave it a six point advantage that seemed to be good enough to win. But at that point Iowa's defense tightened and its offense cut loose, netting nine points while Carleton got none. Lineups:

INDIANA WINS, 64-19

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 14 [Special].—Indiana's undefeated basketball team bewildered the Fort Knox quintet here tonight to win the last Hoosier nonconference game of the season on the fieldhouse floor. The score was 64 to 19.

Excepting the last eight minutes of the first half, during which the Hoosiers ran the intermission score to 35 to 12, the passing and floor play by both teams was ragged and slow, and then it was Indiana's reserves who polished up the winner's game in this brief spurt.

Lineup Is Shuffled.

Coach Branch McCracken reshuffled the lineup repeatedly during the last half, but wild throws and pass interceptions continued to mar the game. George Adams, center from Fairport Harbor, O., led the soldiers with nine points.

Center Ed Denton, back in stride after an illness, sparked the Hoosiers with 10 points. Three other Indiana players, Dick Wittenbraker, Warren Lewis, and Ralph Hamilton, followed closely with nine points.

WISCONSIN B QUINTET BEATS NAVY PIER, 40-37

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special].—Exner Menzel of the Wisconsin B team tossed in two short baskets with less than a minute to play to give the Badgers a 40 to 37 victory over the Navy Pier team here tonight.

The Badger reserves trailed except for the first minute until the final 5 minutes when Menzel went on a scoring spree that netted five baskets.

The Pier boys lead by Erv Draper with 12 points and Bob Curran with nine were always dangerous from long range. They held an 18 to 17 margin at half time with Bobby Clarke keeping the Badgers in the game with three baskets. The Pier team used the starting five thruout. Lineups:

Expect Ruling on Baseball Training Feb. 1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The major league magnates might as well begin to figure that spring training as practiced for many years and for which the usual arrangements have been made for 1943, is going to be different—vastly different.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, reported yesterday to Will Harridge, American league chief, on the outcome of a discussion with O. D. T. Director Joseph B. Eastman, who two weeks ago advised the major leagues to curtail travel, especially of the spring trip variety.

Griffith sought more specific advice, but learned only that while the authorities appreciate the coöperation given during the last season by baseball, it might be necessary for the clubs to abandon plans for doing their muscle stretching in California, Texas, or Florida. This is not final but can be taken as a broad hint.

Ruling by First of February.

Director Eastman, according to the report from Griffith, declared that by the first of February a definite ruling would be given. The two major leagues will be meeting in New York about that time. The nature of the ruling probably will depend on the success of a campaign to lighten the burden on the rails thru discouragement of unessential civilian travel.

However, Eastman did suggest that clubs which might have picked camps in the three states temporarily out of the picture "for military reasons" look around for alternate training sites.

This can be taken as an indication that the "No trespassing" signs will not be removed from the mentioned states but that, at least, there is no intention at this time to prohibit all spring training travel, forcing the clubs to conduct their conditioning parties in their own back yards.

Scramble for Spots.

There is going to be an immediate scramble for spots closer to home and while there is ample supply of these, the shifting will involve almost 100 per cent dumping of exhibition games already arranged. It is probable that clubs will pair off, either in the same community or in places so close together that they can play each other.

For instance, the White Sox and Pirates intended to team up on the way back from their California camps. The Cubs and Browns, the two other clubs now booked for California, planned to play at one place or another on the way home. An alternate plan probable will see the same pairings except that the travel be limited.

Neither Harry Grabiner, White Sox vice president, nor James Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, has taken any steps in preparation for the alterations which probably will be necessary. Their attitude is that as long as there are numerous suitable spots available they can afford to wait until Feb. 1. They are not planning to go to camp until about March 7 to 8.

Georgia Gives Up Tucson Stop on Rose Bowl Trip

Athens, Ga., Dec. 14 (AP).—Due to transportation difficulties, the Georgia Bulldogs have revised itinerary plans for their trip to Pasadena to meet U. C. L. A. in the Rose Bowl New Year's day, Coach Wallace Butts said.

The team will forego a week's stop at Tucson, Ariz., for practice, and will continue westward without a halt. The route will be via Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, and Kansas City, he said, with departure scheduled for early Friday.

Before the Bulldogs leave for the west coast, however, they will undergo a four day session of rough work, Butts said, with several scrimmages slated.

The team worked out all last week in the absence of its coach, who accompanied All-America Frankie Sinkwich to New York and Youngstown, O., where the Georgia full back was fêted.

Iowa Five Adds Nebraska, Ripon to Basket Schedule

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 14 (AP).—Two additional games, with Nebraska on Dec. 19, and Ripon college Jan. 2, have been added to the University of Iowa basketball schedule, Coach Pops Harrison announced today. The Hawkeyes will meet Nebraska at Lincoln and will play Ripon here. The schedule now includes 16 games, 12 of them with Big Ten teams.

FACES ALL-MAJOR CARD.

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 14 [Special].—Holy Cross will play an all-major football schedule in 1943, its centennial year, including a resumption of rivalry with Harvard, Cornell, and Fordham.

Gift Suggestions
MARTIN'S V.V.O.
"Certainly, sir, V.V.O. is a topping gift"

Folks who find gift buying a problem this year because so many articles are "out" for the duration, find a happy answer in Martin's V.V.O. It is an appreciated gift, because every drop of V.V.O. is selected liqueur Scotch, with an added distinctive taste that makes it the choice of those who know fine Scotch.

Martin's V.V.O. is also 88 proof instead of the usual 86.8—a subtle difference that counts. It goes a bit farther too! Remember, V.V.O. costs you no more than most other brands.

Mulleavy Is Named New Buffalo Pilot

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 14 (AP).—Gregory T. Mulleavy, manager of the champion Jamestown Falcons in the class D Pony league, was selected today to pilot the Buffalo Bisons of the International league in 1943, General Manager John C. Stiglmeier announced today.

Mulleavy will receive a $5,000 salary plus a bonus if his team finishes in the playoffs, Stiglmeier asserted, adding that a one year contract will be signed with the former Bison shortstop later in the week.

Mulleavy, 35 years old, succeeds Al Vincent, who resigned after last season when the Bisons finished fifth. Vincent is now coaching the Detroit Tigers in the American league.

Mulleavy was purchased by Buffalo from the Boston Red Sox in 1933 and played here eight years before going to Jamestown where his teams won the Pony league pennant in 1941 and the pennant and playoffs this year. He also played with the White Sox.

A'S, PHILS MAY MEET.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 14 [Special].—The Athletics and the Phils, who have not played each other for several years, probably will do so next year, Connie Mack of the A's said today. Mack declared present plans call for the teams to play one or two games in Shibe park before the season opens.

DAD BENTLEY CAN PUT THIS ONE IN HIS SCRAPBOOK

Sons Doug and Max Share Hockey Scoring Lead.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Bentley, proprietor of the general store in Delisle, Sask., is having a terrible time with his merchandise these days—and it's not on account of rationing or Canadian blizzards. It's those three boys of his, Max, the baby of his six sons, Doug, his next to youngest, and Reg, the 28 year old one.

What with Doug and Max of the Chicago Blackhawks leading the National Hockey league, tied at 23 points apiece, and Reg apparently installed as a regular to round out the National league's first all-brother line in history, Bill and his other sons, Jack, Roy, and Scoop, haven't been able to do much except read clippings from newspapers from all the big league cities and most of the Canadian press.

Hire Another Postoffice Clerk.

"I'm pretty proud of my scrapbook," says Doug, "but my dad has a volume twice as big as mine. He denies that he subscribes to a clipping agency, but he gets 'em from all over. Since Max and I have been going pretty good this season they've had to hire another clerk in the Delisle postoffice. The flood was too much for the postmaster all by himself."

Be that as it may, both scrapbooks yesterday received among other items, the following list of National league scoring leaders:

	Goals.	Assists.	Points.
Doug Bentley, Chicago	12	11	23
Max Bentley, Chicago	9	14	23
Bill Taylor, Toronto	6	16	22
Bill Cowley, Boston	5	17	22
Syl Apps, Toronto	12	9	21
Lynn Patrick, New York	10	11	21
Gaye Stewart, Toronto	13	7	20

A continuation of the list, by the way, shows that Red Hamill is tied with Gaye Stewart as the leading actual scorer, tho his three assists put him well down the list on the point basis of reckoning.

Praise for Earl Seibert.

The leading Bentleys, along with other Hawks and probably Chicago hockey fandom at large, spent much of yesterday singing the praises of Defenseman Earl Seibert. With Earl in Chicago in a hospital bed nursing a pulled knee ligament the Hawks lost in Boston, 9 to 6, and in Toronto, 7 to 2. With Seibert restored to the lineup Sunday night, however, the Hawks spotted the world champion Leafs two goals, then went on to win, 5 to 2. Seibert assisted on the second and tying goal, scored the winning goal, and also the fourth Chicago marker.

Wingy Johnson, another ligament sufferer, returned to the squad at yesterday's practice. Thus the Hawks expect to be at full strength when they engage the Detroit Red Wings in Chicago Stadium Thursday night. The Wings, too, had good news from the sick bay. Jack Stewart, their best defenseman, is just back to work and so is Jimmy Orlando, the tough guy.

Baer Brothers Enlist; Promise 'No Funny Stuff'

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP).—From now on no more funny business, said Max and his brother, Buddy Bear, when they completed enlistment proceedings today and became privates in the army air force.

Max is former world's heavyweight boxing champion and "clown prince" of the ring. Buddy Baer, until recently, was a front line contender for Joe Louis' world heavyweight crown.

Buddy Baer.

Max Baer.

"No more funny stuff," said Max. "From now on I'm going to be the hardest working soldier in this man's army."

"That goes for me too," agreed Buddy.

Both men will undergo a basic training course and return to the fourth air service area command headquarters here to receive assignment as physical training instructors for army air force ground crews.

JOYCE STOPS LEO RODAK IN FOURTH ROUND

Referee Johnny Weber stopped Joyce's scheduled 10 rounder with Leo Rodak of Chicago at the end of the fourth because of the reopening of an old cut over Rodak's left eye. Joyce weighed 135½ pounds, Rodak 137. Rodak will leave immediately to join the marines in San Diego, Cal.

A short left hook to the body, flicked so fast many fans did not see it, won for Goldberg after 2 minutes and 15 seconds of the fourth round of another scheduled 10 rounder with Lou Transperanti of Baltimore, who took the full count.

HAS YOUR POOCH HAD INTERVIEW WITH SANTA YET?

Useful and Enjoyable Gifts Available.

BY BOB BECKER.

Judging by the Christmas displays we've seen in shops which sell dog accessories [for both the dog and the owner] many a hunting and companion dog is going to be the recipient of a useful gift this Christmas. Among the practical items which Santa Claus has been asked to leave in homes with dogs are combs and brushes which are needed to keep wiry and dense coated dogs in good condition, beds filled with cedar shavings which kill dog odor, special cleaning preparations that remove dirt from the animal's coat without the use of soap and water, blankets for the short coated pets which feel severe cold in winter, and concoctions full of vitamins which serve as dog candy.

These useful doggy items may not give the family pooch much fun, because they are not playthings. But the dog fancier can balance the books with his pet by giving it some things that are solely for its amusement.

Fun and Exercise.

For example, there are many different kinds of toys which will furnish a dog not only amusement but lots of exercise in the house. On our visit to the dog shops we even saw Christmas stockings especially for canines and stuffed with several different kinds of toys which a family pet can wrestle with in the house.

By far the most useful Christmas gift that an owner can buy for himself and which will directly benefit the dog is a concise handbook on the feeding, care, and training of canines of all sizes and breeds. Boys and girls who expect puppies as Christmas gifts this year represent one group of new dog owners who will find much need for a compact, sensible dog book which will give them practical tips on how to raise a puppy.

One Just Published.

"Feeding the Dog" and "Training the Dog," both published by THE TRIBUNE, are complete guides which tell inexperienced owners exactly how to raise a dog correctly. Both are sold by the public service offices of this newspaper, 1 S. Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 30 cents each by mail, or 25 cents over the counter. The book on training has just been published. It covers every angle of simple obedience training including routines on how to teach a pet a trick.

JIMMY REEVES STOPS O'BRIEN IN SEVENTH ROUND

Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland light heavyweight, was awarded a seventh round technical knockout over Johnny O'Brien of Calumet City in a scheduled eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

Referee Walter Brightmore stopped the fight and awarded the verdict to the former Golden Gloves champion after O'Brien was floored for a nine count in the seventh.

Chuck Pate Challenges Reeves.

Tommy James, south side welterweight, hammered out a decision over Mike Sopko of Indiana Harbor in a hard six round semi-windup.

Dutch Ullmér, Milwaukee heavyweight, beat Harold Lang of Seward Park in a six round event. The crowd of 1,214 cheered as they traded punch for punch in the final round. Al Reasoner, former Catholic Youth Organization champion, defeated Gene Spencer, South Chicago lightweight in an additional six round contest.

Nedoff, Smyles Score Knockouts.

Al Nedoff, Gary lightweight, and James Smyles, South Side 165 pounder, scored the only knockouts on the preliminary card. Nedoff stopped Johnny Kruger of Danville, Ill., in three rounds and Smyles stopped Bruce Pennman of Riverdale, Ill., in four.

Joe Dupont, south side lightweight, and Alvin Gomez have been matched to meet in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Corp. Barney Ross of the marines, who was wounded by the Japs in Guadalcanal a few weeks ago, is reported to be en route home for a rest and further treatment of his injuries.

Services for Bill O'Connell, dean of American boxing instructors, will be held tomorrow morning in Sacred Heart church, 19th and Peoria streets. O'Connell, who died on Sunday after a long illness, was 83 years old. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. O'Connell was an honorary member of the Veteran Boxers association.

The body is in the chapel at 1725 South Halsted street.

Miss Rose O'Connell, a sister, survives.

O'Connell, who was born in Cambridge, Mass., taught boxing in the loop from 1884 to 1940. His pupils included such headliners as Joe Welling, Charley Glaser, Packy McFarland, Jack Britton, Charley White, Harry Wills, Joey Burman, Maurie Bloom, Jack Blackburn, Jock Malone, Jess Willard, and Jack Johnson.

Irish Defeat Badgers, 61-59, in Overtime

ways. Howard Kallenberger, Marquette sophomore, and Bob Oakley of the Maroons had 7 baskets and a free throw each for 15 points, and Ray Kuffel of the Hilltoppers got the same total on 5 field goals and 5 free throws.

Maroons Take Lead.

The Maroons went into an early 5 to 4 lead, but three baskets and a free throw by Kuffel started Marquette to a lead that was 16 to 6 at midperiod.

Oakley got a free throw, a long shot and tipped in a rebound that made the half time score, Marquette, 24; Chicago, 18. Kuffel and Kallenberger sparked a drive early in the second half that gradually built Marquette's margin to 50 to 31 with five minutes to go, when Ed Nelson, Oakley, and Dave Zimmerman's baskets succeeded in cutting the lead. CAMP GRANT FIVE BEATS ILLINOIS WESLEYAN, 46-42

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 14 [Special]. —Camp Grant's Warriors conquered the Illinois Wesleyan basketball team, 46 to 42, here tonight, stalling successfully for the last two minutes. Camp Grant held a 28 to 27 lead at the half. Keith Dalrymple, Wesleyan southpaw forward, scored seven baskets during the first half to keep his team on even terms with the Warriors.

Dalrymple added another field goal in the second half to give him 16 points and scoring honors. George Hogan, former Loyola forward, and Don Blanken, former Purdue star, led Camp Grant's attack. Hogan made five baskets and two free throws.

P. G. A. Meet Off; Will Play for Charities

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—There will be no P. G. A. championship tournament next year. In fact, there will be no golf tournaments as such, with professionals competing for personal gain.

Instead, the P. G. A. is flipping back the pages of the calendar to 1917 and 1918 and copying a program of charity exhibitions which in those two war torn years raised more than $1,000,000 for the Red Cross.

Ed Dudley, P. G. A. president, conferred with Fred Corcoran, tournament manager who is ticketed to leave for abroad shortly in a Red Cross capacity, late last week as to a 1943 program for their organization, and came up with the following ideas:

1—Dudley will make no attempt to arrange a 1943 P. G. A. tournament.

2—Efforts will be made to have available pros give exhibitions in their own immediate districts, and in their spare time, with all proceeds going to war relief.

Names Money At Box Office.

It was pointed out there are pros whose names mean money at the box office in virtually every section of the country. For instance, Jimmy Demaret and Byron Nelson are in Texas now. Olin Dutra and Willie Hunter are on the west coast, as is Sam Snead who might be available for exhibitions during his leaves from navy duty.

The east has such gate attractions as Dudley, Craig Wood, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, and others too numerous to mention.

"It's the 1917-'18 idea all over again," Corcoran explains, "only this time it will be sponsored by the P. G. A. In the first world war more than $150,000 was raised in New England alone by exhibitions involving Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford, two leading amateurs, and Mike Brady and Louis Tellier, two outstanding pros of the day.

Jones on Tour at 15.

"Later Bobby Jones, then about 15 years old, toured with Perry Adair, Elaine Rosenthal, and Alexa Stirling to raise additional funds, and Chick Evans, Hagen, Jock Hutchinson, Jim Barnes and others also contributed their services generally. Jerome Travers and Oswald Kirby raised considerable money in New Jersey exhibitions.

"The proceeds of many of the matches were boosted by various side incidents. I recall that one man paid $1,000 for the privilege of driving the first ball off the tee, and that the caddy privilege would be auctioned, with the winner getting nothing but the title of honorary caddy."

WAR NEEDS DRAIN SUPPLY OF FOOD IN COLD STORAGE

Butter, Eggs, and Pork Near Season Lows.

The heavy drain on the nation's food resources by military and lend-lease purchases and increased civilian buying power was shown yesterday in the department of agriculture report on Dec. 1 cold storage holdings. Reserves of butter, shell and frozen eggs, American cheese, pork, and lard declined sharply from Dec. 1, 1941. Holdings of beef, lamb and mutton, and poultry increased.

Cold storage reserves of butter were 45,593,000 pounds, lowest since 1932 and third smallest on record for Dec. 1. Reserves a year ago were 152,484,000 pounds, and on Nov. 1 were 86,981,000 pounds, also a 10 year low for the date.

Shortage "More Critical" Daily.

The Agricultural Marketing administration reported storage butter reserves for commercial use are virtually unobtainable, market receipts are inadequate to fill demand, and the shortage is becoming "more critical" daily.

No Relief in Sight.

Freezing of storage supplies came in a government order requisitioning an estimated 40 per cent of supplies late last month. AMA also said no immediate relief is in sight.

Shell egg holdings dropped to a new Dec. 1 low of 1,115,000 cases of 30 dozens each. Large withdrawals during November are considered seasonal, but came this year in the face of record output.

Despite record production, pork in storage was the smallest for Dec. 1, since 1935 and second smallest on record for the date, altho the total was the largest since Sept. 1. Cold storage stocks of lard were the smallest for any month since Dec. 1, 1937.

Beef Reserve Large, But—

Beef reserves were the largest since April 1 this year and the largest for a Dec. 1 since 1936. Lamb and mutton holdings were at a peak for any month since 1921, and poultry holdings were at an all-time Dec. 1 high.

Holdings of meat in cold storage, however, are regarded as having little significance to civilian consumers because such large amounts are either owned or earmarked by the government for lend-lease and the army and navy.

[000 omitted.]

	Dec. 1.	Nov. 1.	Yr. ago.

WHEAT FUTURES CLIMB TO NEW SEASONAL HIGHS

All wheat futures advanced to new seasonal highs on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday as demand was encouraged by continued strength in the cash market and trade optimism that flour ceilings will be revised upward. The cash bid for No. 2 red winter wheat remained at $1.50 a bushel, while No. 1 hard sold at $1.38, or 6 cents above the December delivery, highest in five years.

Wheat futures prices advanced quickly at the opening on buying by commission houses, mills and local operators. Scattered selling caused a recession, but the market remained relatively firm and closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher.

Other final grain prices were mostly frantically lower. Corn was unchanged to ⅝ down. December rye was ⅝ cent higher and the other deliveries ¼ to ⅝ lower. Oats were off ⅛ to ½ cent.

Business Failures Drop 16 from Preceding Week

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today business failures totaled 132 in the week ended Dec. 10, compared with 148 the preceding week and 230 a year ago.

UNION PACIFIC.

Please provide a report on the Union Pacific railroad?—G. F.

Answer: The Union Pacific railroad operates about 9,900 miles of track in 11 western states. Principal lines extend from Omaha and Kansas City thru Denver and Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, Portland, and Seattle.

The road's 1,000 mile main line from Omaha to Ogden, Utah, forms the central link in the shortest rail system from Chicago to San Francisco. Connecting lines on this route are the Chicago and North Western and the Southern Pacific.

Manufactured goods and agricultural, forest, and mineral products are the road's largest revenue producers. The system has the highest traffic density of any western road and has the longest average haul of any railroad in the country.

Besides railroad operations, the company owns large investments in other railroads, including the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, and the Batlimore and Ohio. Other investments which yield substantial revenue are the Pacific Fruit Express and Union Pacific Coal companies.

The Union Pacific has become a major oil producer thru operation of wells in California and other western states.

Incorporated in Utah in 1897 as successor under a reorganization to the Union Pacific Railway company, the road has grown to its present size thru the acquisition of existing lines and construction of new mileage.

Capitalization at the end of 1941 consisted of 2,222,910 shares of $100 par common stock outstanding, 995,431 shares of $100 par 4 per cent noncumulative preferred and a total funded debt of $371,643,180. A record of recent financial results follows:

	Operating revenue.	Net income.	Per share [com.]
1941	$218,091,994	$28,857,420	$11.10
1940	168,164,258	19,445,880	6.96
1939	164,253,371	18,966,631	6.74
1938	150,213,214	18,701,283	6.62

Operating revenue in the first 10 months of 1942 amounted to $267,434,724, compared with $176,931,881 in the corresponding period of 1941. Net income was $42,372,329, equal to $17.57 per common share, against $17,197,141, or $6.24 a share, in the 1941 period.

COMPARING CO-OP. RATE RULED OUT IN UTILITY CASE

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 14 (AP).—Ten southwest utilities seeking to defend private power rates charged the huge government-operated Lake Catherine aluminum plant near Hot Springs were prevented today from comparing their charges with rates of the Rural Electrification administration sponsored Ark-La coöperative for public power supplied the same plant from Grand River dam in Oklahoma.

The Federal Power commission hearing on the private rates, which Chief Examiner Frank A. Hampton said he hoped could be finished by Christmas, was ordered to determine whether the pool's rates are "unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential."

The pool has a contract to supply the aluminum plant 65,000 killowatt hours of power and Ark-La has a contract to supply 32,500.

Hampton ruled that whether the rate charged by the coöperative is just or not "really is not material. We might, perchance, get to that next in an investigation."

January Potato Future Breaks to Season Low

January potato futures broke 4 cents to a seasonal low of $3 a 100 pounds on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday then rallied to close nominally at $3.01 bid. Concentrated selling depressed the market, despite steady to firm cash prices. Other futures were nominal and unchange yesterday, then rallied to their ceilings.

People and Events

George H. Smith, assistant to the president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, has been elected vice president of the road, it was announced yesterday. He is succeeded by Walter M. Templeton, assistant secretary.

George H. Smith.

Smith, who has been with the road for more than 32 years, began his railroad career as a stenographer for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad in 1910. He became an employé of the C. & E. I. the same year in a similar capacity, and has held many key positions with the company.

Appointment of F. L. Hopkinson as a vice president of Willys-Overland Motors was announced yesterday by Joseph W. Frazer, president. Hopkinson had been associated with General Motors corporation for 17 years.

F. L. Hopkinson.

Washington, D. C., developments relating to highway transportation will be discussed at 2 p. m. tomorrow at a meeting in the Medinah club arranged by the Central Motor Freight association. Chester G. Moore, chairman of the board of the association, will speak. The meeting will be open to all truck company operators in the 6th corps area.

Army and war production board officials will meet with leaders of the hardwood plywood industry today in the Bismarck hotel in a production conference sponsored by the Hardwood Plywood institute. E. H. Smedley, secretary of the institute, said the conference was called because of the need of coördinating the industry with the requirements of war. George V. Vehlow of Underwood Veneer and Plywood company will preside.

Nineteen Chicago employés of the Sherwin-Williams company who have worked for the paint manufacturing company 25 years or more were guests of the management last night at a banquet in the Hotel Shoreland. George A. Martin, chairman of the board, came from Cleveland, O., executive offices of the company, to attend the banquet, along with A. W. Steudel, president, and N. E. Van Stone, vice president and director of operations.

Benjamin F. Pepper, president and director of the Pennroad corporation, has been elected president of the Triumph Explosives company, Elkton, Md. He has been granted a leave of absence by Pennroad.

HOG PRICES SOAR 25 TO 40 CENTS, 10 MONTH RECORD

Shortage at Other Markets Spurs Bidding.

A hog "shortage" at packing centers elsewhere was accompanied by a rise of 25 to 40 cents a hundred pounds in prices in the Chicago stock yards yesterday. It was the sharpest advance in more than 10 months, with local and eastern interests scrambling for available supplies.

All declines of the last four weeks were erased, with best loads rising to $14.10 and the average to $13.95, highest since Nov. 17.

The Chicago yards received 30,000 head, including those sent direct to packers, slightly more than a week earlier and the second biggest Monday supply since last January. Nineteen leading markets outside of Chicago, however, received only 117,000 hogs, compared with 138,000 the preceding Monday, a drop of 15 per cent.

An unevenly lower market developed for cattle, as buyers and sellers considered possible effects of new beef ceilings which become effective in wholesale channels tomorrow. Most packers, uncertain of what this will mean to the cost of live animals, played safe by holding to lower bids. Most medium to good steers dropped 50 cents, with a smaller decline on stock under $14.

SUN-OF-A-GUN
...wants to freeze my radiator!

WINTER SUN can "smile and be a villain." He'll boost engine temperature and make off with anti-freeze that you think, you've still got! His treachery can undermine your car's protection. And then the next cold spell can do its dirty work.

Why be caught with your anti-freeze down—dangerously far down—when you can easily afford Super Pyro anti-freeze? It takes more than a ray of sunshine—and more than your engine's highest normal heat—to cut deep into your Super Pyro.

Though far from high-priced, Super Pyro is made to defy such a high degree of Winter warmth, that it keeps up sound protection against the sudden return of cold. Because it can beat lots of heat, the Super Pyro that you put in at first has a real chance to last. Get Super Pyro now—while it's available—and get safe economy.

MAMMOTH AIR ENGINE PLANT TAKING SHAPE

WillowRun Dwarfed by Dodge-Chicago.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Construction gangs working day and night on a former prairie site on the southwest side of Chicago are making material progress on what is to be one of the world's largest industrial operations—the Dodge Chicago plant, division of the Chrysler corporation. A trip yesterday around the plant, which will produce aviation engines, showed the vast project to be taking form rapidly.

A few months ago the site was an expanse of open country where the only activity was surveying by a few engineers. Today big buildings are rising and a few already are occupied—such as an office building and a large tool shop. The plant has been described as being "big enough to put the Ford Willow Run bomber plant inside of it and have room for 20 baseball diamonds around the edge."

Many Details Remain Secret.

Many details about the plant, including when it will go into production, are a military secret. However, K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, has been permitted to disclose some information.

The group of buildings which will make up the operation will include an aircraft engine machining and assembly building many times larger than the Chrysler operated Detroit tank arsenal, two large foundries, two large forge shops, heat treating and die shop, testing buildings, tool shop, and miscellaneous structures such as the office and personnel buildings.

Construction was started after the shortage of certain critical materials became acute. So plant engineers working in coöperation with the Albert Kahn organization—Detroit architects—developed a new kind of reinforced concrete construction which made possible a reduction in the amount of steel reinforcing necessary from 5.5 to 2.6 pounds per square foot of floor space.

Big Steel Saving Told.

Steel saved by this method was sufficient to have built 14 destroyers and more than 600 medium tanks.

A new type of overhead arch-rib construction is being used in the main buildings which provides botn spaciousness in the buildings and overhead beams for the ready attachment of monorails, trolleys, hoists, pipe lines, and other equipment.

Use of asbestos sheets instead of metal duct work saved about 650 tons of galvanized iron and 100 tons of copper were conserved thru the use of new methods in connection with the electrical system.

More than 16,000 persons employed by the George A. Fuller Construction company, the contractor, are working on the job. In addition, about 1,200 of the Chrysler corporation production, engineering, purchasing, and manufacturing personnel are occupying the office section in the plant and are planning and laying out the manufacturing job.

Figures Tell Size Story.

More than 150 carloads plus 800 truckloads of building material are being used daily; 50 concrete carrying trucks are used to transport concrete from two huge mixing mills; 4.3 million bricks will be used for outside finishing of certain buildings. More than 6,000 new machine tools will be installed in the plant.

Inside the property are more than 5 miles of temporary railroad and 20 miles of temporary roadway.

Facilities have been provided for more than 10 million gallons of water a day. There will be sufficient sewerage, water, gas, and electrical services to supply a city the size of Terre Haute, Ind. There will be 50 miles of water and gas mains, and other facilities will be on a similar grand scale.

Keller said the weekly output of engines at the plant will have a rated horse power equal to the entire generating capacity of Boulder dam.

East Chicago Armor Plant Given Revised Schedule

The cast armor plant operated by American Steel Foundries in East Chicago, Ind., has been authorized to revise operations in accordance with a new production schedule, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, announced yesterday. Production at the plant recently was curtailed temporarily until the war department could revise production schedules.

MANUFACTURING EXECUTIVE

A large Middlewest manufacturing company with an enviable record of progress is desirous of obtaining the services of a proven executive who is thoroughly familiar with the manufacture and engineering of small precision mechanisms.

This must not be considered a war time venture.

The man we are interested in is mass production and cost minded. He is energetic and takes pride in getting a good job done quickly. He must have the foresight to prepare for post-war possibilities and be flexible enough to acclimate himself and his organization to any changes in conditions.

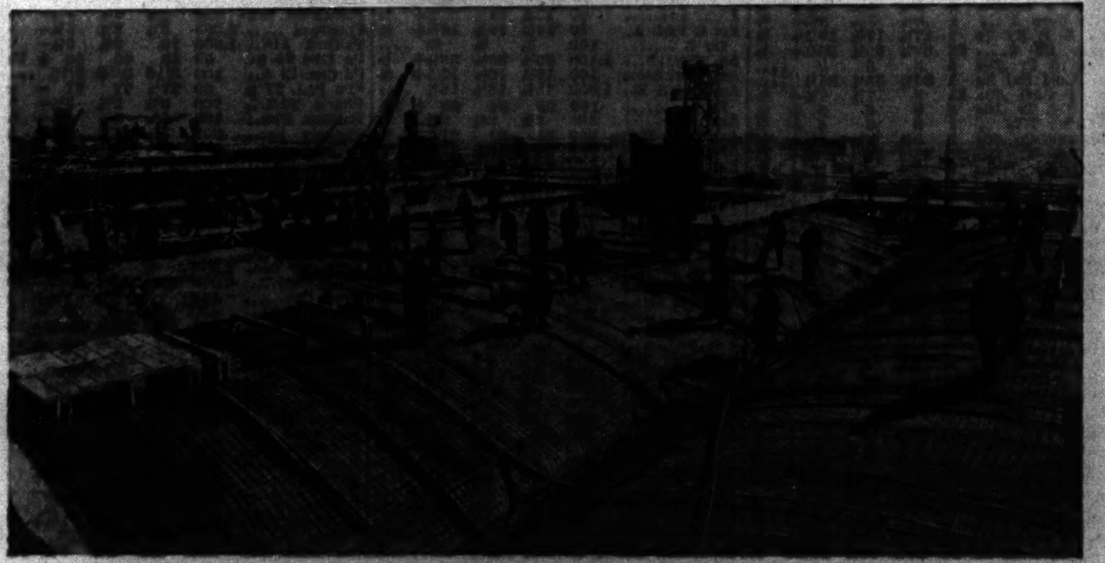
Build from Both Ends at Once

(Story in adjoining column.)



Rated as "world's largest factory building," this is one of 15 in Chrysler corporation's new Dodge-Chicago plant. It is being built from both ends at the same time. What appears to be another plant in the background is really the other end of the one in the foreground. Its roof will cover more than 50 city blocks of land.

MORTALITY OF AUTO DEALERS SAID TO BE LESS THAN EXPECTED

The war's impact on automobile dealers has been much less severe than expected, George H. Pratt, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car company, told a meeting of dealers yesterday in the Palmer House.

"The nationwide Hudson distributor-dealer organization shows only an 8 per cent loss of total service outlets as compared with one year ago," he said, "despite widespread belief of many months ago that the war would cause a dealer mortality of up to 5 per cent generally."

Many of the Hudson dealers who closed their shops went into the army, navy, or marine corps, he said. Dealers from Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin attended the meeting.

AUTO INSURANCE COVERS HOLDER IN CAR POOLING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—More than 200 companies which write almost all automobile liability insurance in the United States have assured protection for policy holders who participate in car sharing plans, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today.

Company executives notified Henderson that policy provisions precluding coverage where a vehicle is used in carrying persons for a charge will not apply to cars operated in connection with car sharing pools.

Cut Collision Rates.

New York, Dec. 13 (AP).—A 20 per cent reduction of all collision premiums for private passenger type automobiles for which the owners have A gasoline ration cards in 30 states and the District of Columbia was announced today by J. Ross Moore, manager of the National Automobile Underwriters association. Holders of B cards were given a 10 per cent reduction. Effective Dec. 1 the cuts apply to all new and renewal policies, he said.

Moore said that the same reductions will be made in other states including Illinois, when approval of supervising authorities is obtained.

PREDICTS STRIKE IF TOOL, DIE PAY PEG IS EFFECTED

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14 (AP).—Criticizing a war labor board order establishing maximum wages for tool and die workers in six Michigan counties at $1.75 hourly in jobbing shops and $1.60 in manufacturing plants, Jay J. Griffin, president of the Society of Tool and Die Craftsmen of America, today predicted a nation-wide work stoppage among the society's 75,000 members unless the WLB revises its order.

Griffin said he had read the WLB order to the final convention session of the independent STDCA here yesterday and that "the 175 delegates unanimously joined in denouncing it. They almost blew the roof off."

Byrnes' Offer to Boost Flour Price Rejected

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Sen. Clyde Reed [R., Kas.] said today Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes offered to increase the price of flour 58 cents a barrel if congress would change the law to permit the Commodity Credit corporation to sell up to 150 million bushels of wheat at less than parity.

The senator said the offer, made as an alternative to wheat subsidies under consideration by the agriculture department, was rejected by the senate agriculture committee.

Probe Is Authorized.

Instead, the committee unanimously approved a resolution sponsored by himself and Sen. Guy Gillette [D., Ia.] authorizing the committee to inquire into charges that government agencies have defied congress in fixing the price of flour and other agricultural foodstuffs.

Reed termed the Byrnes proposal inadequate, asserting the 58 cent a barrel rise in the price of flour would mean only 12 cents a bushel more for wheat to the farmers and "that still would be less than parity."

Urges Ceiling Increase.

Sen. Hugh A. Butler [R., Neb.], meanwhile, issued a statement in which he said the "only answer to the whole mess is to increase the ceiling prices on flour 55 to 60 cents a barrel."

"And that would not increase the retail price of bread at all," he asserted. "The miller still would have a margin."

Redemptions of War Bonds Total Less Than 2 Per Cent

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—Treasury officials today said less than 2 per cent of war bonds purchased have been redeemed for cash. November redemptions amounted to 36.8 million dollars, which treasury officials said was just about 35/100 of 1 per cent of total bonds outstanding. Redemptions in previous months have averaged even less.

FOUR NEW DIRECTORS, OUTSIDERS, ELECTED TO MORGAN CO., INC.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—The board of directors of J. P. Morgan & Co., Inc., was enlarged today by the election of Alfred P. Sloan Jr., E. Tappan Stannard, James L. Thomson and John Zinsser.

The new board members were chosen at a special meeting. The addition of the four new directors marks the first appearance on the board of J. P. Morgan & Co., Inc.—the commercial bank that grew out of the private banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.—of any director not a member of the Morgan firm.

Sloan is chairman of General Motors corporation, Stannard is president of Kennecott Copper corporation, Thomson is chairman of the finance committee of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., and Zinsser is president of Sahrp & Dohme, Philadelphia chemists.

UNITED KINGDOM, U. S. AND CANADA UNITE ON STEEL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The United States, the United Kingdom and Canada today created a combined steel committee to recommend means of increasing steel output and obtaining the most efficient possible use of steel in 1943.

The production and munition making facilities of the three countries will be regarded as a single unit "to the end that the maximum impact of weapons of war can be brought against the enemy," the combined production and resources board and combined raw materials board said in announcing creation of the committee.

Hiland G. Batcheller, chief of WPB's iron and steel division, will head the steel committee, assisted by a staff of American, British, and Canadian production experts.

BAR INDIVIDUAL RENT BOOSTS TO MEET COST RISE

Increases Termed Unfair to Others.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration said today it would not grant rent increases to individual landlords to compensate for higher operating costs, ruling that any such adjustment would have to be applied generally thruout a defense rental area.

The policy was announced in denying a protest of the Lakemore company of Cleveland for ceiling relief on grounds that its taxes had been increased altho there was no general tax boost in the Cleveland defense rental area.

Two other denials were issued by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, one against the Bellevue-Stratford hotel of Philadelphia and the other denying a protest of William F. Chatlos of Bridgeport, Conn.

No Direct Relationship.

Henderson said in the Cleveland case:

"In any limited period the movement of rents bears no direct relationship to increases or decreases in property taxes or other costs. If a particular landlord encounters unforeseen expenses he cannot, in a normal rental market, offset this by increasing his rents without adversely affecting his competitive position in relation to other landlords.

"To allow such a landlord to charge higher rents today—rents which he could charge only because of the abnormal pressure for housing created by war activities—and at the same time deny a corresponding increase to other landlords, would in effect allow him to exploit the abnormal war economy to gain a type of relief and a relative advantage over competing landlords which he could not have had in a normal rental market."

Based on Rising Costs.

Chatlos based his protest on the claim that his costs and those in the Bridgeport area in general had risen since the maximum rent date, April 1, 1941. Denying this, Henderson used the years 1939 and 1940 as a general yardstick for judging the operating position of landlords.

The OPA chief held that the rental properties represented by Chatlos and others in the area will be in "far better" position under rent control than in the years 1939 and 1940, the "two years immediately prior to the wide impact of defense activities."

Food Manufacture Put on Par with Munitions, Canners Told

Roy F. Hendrickson.

Food processors of the nation, meeting in the Palmer House yesterday to plan 1943 operations to meet war demands for still larger production, were told the manufacture of food "is on a level with the production of tanks, planes, and ships," Roy F. Hendrickson, director of the department of agriculture food distribution administration, drew that parallel in describing the vast job Uncle Sam has undertaken to feed the war torn world.

"Never again," he admonished nearly 2,000 members of the industry from all parts of the country, "must be repeated that report from Bataan: 'Lack of food proved our undoing.'

"The drain on our food supplies has been enormous, and will be even greater next year. Regardless of the size of the 1943 packs, there will be reduced supplies of practically all of the products available for the civilian trade."

Must Have Fair Share.

To meet basic civilian demands, he asserted, producers aid processors must have their fair share of the diminishing labor supply, and must be assured repair equipment to keep the industry from breaking down.

The food processing conference replaced the usual convention of the National Canners' association and other groups, canceled to conserve transportation. Hendrickson advised the canners to participate as much as possible in the food dehydration program, because of the tin shortage and to economize on transportation space.

Plans already approved by the department of agriculture provide for annual production of 100 million pounds of dehydrated vegetables by next summer, he said, whereas a year ago the industry was equipped to handle only 15 million pounds. This expansion, he said, is "just a beginning," because it is anticipated the nation will need about 400 million pounds of dehydrated vegetables next year to meet its commitments.

Ready to Extend Price Support.

To assure ample food production the government is prepared to extend its price support program to other food products next year, Hendrickson said. He promised the processors accurate information on price control, subsidies, and other governmental steps as soon as possible so that contracts may be arranged with producers.

A. C. Hoffman, director of the Office of Price administration food price division, said the government is moving swiftly toward "specific dollar and cents maximum prices" for food processors, "by grade and by regions where necessary."

"In a matter of weeks," he said, "all the formerly uncontroled foods covered by the price freeze of last October—butter, cheese, evaporated milk, poultry, citrus, and flour—will be priced under schedules of this type."

SPIEGEL AGREES TO DISCONTINUE USE OF SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP).—The federal trade commission said today Spiegel, Inc., Chicago, had agreed to discontinue using the service of Guy C. Beals, trading as International Tr[illegible]ees, Des Moines, Ia., in connection with efforts to collect delinquent bills.

The commission had questioned the legality of the service on the grounds that cards sent to debtors implied that an acknowledgment would lead to payment of an inheritance. The real purpose of the cards, the commission said, was to obtain financial information concerning debtors.

A. & P. to Give Extra Pay Amounting to 1.4 Millions

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company announced today it would distribute additional compensation of 1.4 million dollars before Christmas to all employés with six months or more service. Similar compensation was distributed last year.

EXTENT OF FARM PAY INCREASE IN ILLINOIS DISCLOSED IN REPORT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP).—Farm wages in Illinois this year averaged $48 a month plus meals, $9.70 higher than in 1941, the federal-state crop reporting service reported today. Wages without board averaged $60.70 per month, compared with $49.10 last year.

The report showed a wide differential in wages. In northern Illinois the average was $55.90 per month with board, and in the southern section was $35.50. For workers employed without board the respective figures were $70.75 and $49.25.

Increases in prices received by Illinois farmers for their produce as of Nov. 15 also were reported. Average prices, with comparatives for Nov. 15, 1941, in parentheses: Corn, 73 cents [62c]; wheat, $1.16 [$1.03]; soy beans, $1.59 [$1.46]; hogs, cwt., $13.60 [$9.80]; beef cattle, cwt., $12.50 [$10]; eggs, dozen, 34 cents [32.8c], and butterfat, pound, 46 cents [35c].

ESTIMATE FOOD SUBSIDIES COST U. S. 50 MILLION

BY ROBERT YOUNG.

Present subsidies designed to increase production of milk and cheese and at the same time prevent increases in consumer prices will cost the federal government about 50 million dollars a year, dairy industry sources estimated yesterday. The estimate does not include possible future increases in payments.

In New York City alone the government is spending more than $800,000 a month, or at a rate of nearly 10 million dollars a year, to keep milk prices from rising.

Called Bar to Inflation.

Government spokesmen have said that consumer subsidies of this type undoubtedly will be extended to other essential foods. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, newly appointed food administrator, said recently that such payments by the government solve the problem of keeping up production by supporting prices and heading off inflation by preventing retail levels from rising.

The estimate of present subsidy costs also does not consider the proposed nation-wide program for preventing increases in bread and flour prices by the release of wheat pledged for government loans.

Credit Agency Takes Loss.

Under the subsidy program, the government buys milk from dealers at the prices the dealers are required to pay farmers, then resells the milk to the dealers at lower prices. The loss is taken by the Commodity Credit corporation. In the New York area last month, the subsidy amounted to 40 cents for 100 pounds of class 1 fluid milk, or double the October payment. The Duluth-Superior subsidy amounted to 53 cents for 100 pounds in November.

The cheese subsidy, which is also financed by the credit agency, went into effect Dec. 1 and will continue thru 1943 under present plans. Thru this program, the government will

STOCKS UNEVEN; VOLUME HEAVIER IN BROAD TRADE

Some Issues Reach New Highs for This Year.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Strong spots persisted in today's stock market but further light tax selling largely offset the gains.

The opening was uneven but support came later for individual issues and, at the close, gains of a point or so were fairly well distributed. Losers, however, were plentiful. Activity was the liveliest since Nov. 9, aided by sizable blocks of low priced utilities and special offerings of 6,700 shares of du Pont and 12,000 Twin Coach both of which were well oversubscribed.

Stock Average Unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 40 for the third session in a row. Transfers totaled 684,505 shares compared with 641,330 last Friday. Of the 845 issues traded, 321 were higher, 274 lower and 250 unchanged.

New 1942 tops were registered for Celanese, Industrial Rayon, American Viscose, Bohn Aluminum, American Airlines, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville. Zenith Radio made another new 1942 peak, but profit cashing on this stock's recent run-up put it down ⅛ at the finish.

CHICAGO STOCKS MIXED.

The movement of prices lacked uniformity in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading totaled 25,000 shares in 112 individual issues of which 49 closed higher, 35 lower, and 28 unchanged. One issue — Eversharp — closed ⅜ point higher after setting a new 1942 peak. Chicago Corporation, General Electric, and General Motors, included among the volume leaders, were unchanged at the close. Commonwealth Edison and Midland United preferred were down fractionally.

BOND PRICES MIXED.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Recovery failed in today's bond market but increased offerings in the rail section in late trading left results inconclusive at the close.

Rails, utilities, and low yields in the Associated Press averages were unchanged while the industrials lost .1 of a point and the foreign issues gained an equal amount. Sales of $7,140,500, compared with $7,744,900 last Friday.

ESTIMATE FOOD SUBSIDIES COST U. S. 50 MILLION

Subsidy on Other Cheese.

In addition, the government will pay a subsidy of ¼ cent a pound on cheese with a specific low moisture content to encourage production of this type, which keeps best under difficult storage conditions.

The program evolved by the Office of Price Administration and the department of agriculture to prevent higher prices to the consumer for bread and flour would make wheat available to millers at prices approximating the levels prevailing Sept. 28-Oct. 2. Flour prices are frozen on the basis of that period, while bread is fixed at March levels.

In the event wheat prices should rise and squeeze millers against flour ceilings, and in turn threaten a squeeze between flour and bread, the credit agency would release loan wheat to the producers for sale in the open market. The government would announce release prices, which would be fixed at levels enabling millers to operate under flour ceilings.

Criticisms Are Raised.

Some farm leaders and national agricultural organizations have criticized consumer subsidies on the grounds that they constitute the use of public funds to pay normal living costs, and prevent prices from following laws of supply and demand at a time when industrial wages are at a record peak.

Consumer subsidies also have been criticized as being inflationary in themselves, rather than curbs on inflation, since by keeping food prices down they release purchasing power that can be used for nonessentials, and at the same time swell the national debt.

Curbs on Farmer Must Stay After War, Wickard Contends

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard told eastern farm leaders today that, given full industrial employment and a "sensible" foreign trade policy after the war, there would be a market for every needed commodity a farmer could produce.

Addressing the last of a series of regional meetings to mobilize agriculture for 1943 war production, the new food administrator asserted that even then it would be necessary to curtail some products and expand others, but that "if we follow any other course, I don't see how we can expect anything but a series of incurable farm problems."

Wickard promised to "do everything possible to make our national food program one closely knit process from the fields and barns to the mess kits and the tables." He urged farmers to produce necessary foods to the limits of their ability.

Appeals to Housewives.

The American housewife, said Wickard, can help on the food problem by learning to substitute plentiful foods for those which were scarce and, "above all, she can prevent waste."

"Farmers can produce enough food to meet all special needs and still give all the people in this country good diets," he said. "I doubt if they can much longer produce extra amounts to be wasted in kitchens. It is as important to save a pound of food as to produce one."

Wickard said farmers would not have the problem of converting to a peacetime basis as would industrialists because the need for large farm production would not end with the war.

High school boys and girls, women's groups and city men will be needed next year to help alleviate the farm man power shortage, he said.

Asserts Policy on Prices.

Of milk production, predominant farm effort of the northeastern states, Wickard said:

"I don't know how I could give too much praise to the dairy farmers of the northeast and in other parts of the country for the wonderful production record they set in 1942. It is true that they did not quite come up to the production goal, but they did not miss it much."

Asked about rising food prices, he said: "If prices get out of hand and a choice has to be made between increases in consumer prices and government subsidy, I would choose to have a form of subsidy to prevent inflation."

"Or, to put it another way," he continued, "if a choice is to be made between higher prices necessary to keep up production, or scarcity, I would take the higher prices."

DON'T BORROW

Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance, you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.
